Arms Budget Cut Talks Set By Ike

Congress Fiscal Chiefs, President's Aides Will Confer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — President Eisenhower has invited four members of the Senate and House Appropriations Committees to sit down with administration officials in an unprecedented move to shape a reduced military budget.

For perhaps the first time in history, the chairmen of the two full committees and the chairmen of subcommittees concerned with armed services funds will have a hand in helping decide on the President's recommendations before he sends them to Congress.

"New Look" Program

Sens. Bridges (R-NH) and Ferguson (R-Mich) and Reps. Taber (R-NY) and Wigglesworth (R-Mass) have been asked by the President to go over the proposed "new look" military program with top administration officials before it is incorporated in Eisenhower's Jan. 21 budget message.

They will sit down, possibly late this week or early next week, with Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge, Secretary of Defense Wilson, Deputy Secretary Roger M. Kyes and Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Bridges and Taber, who head the Senate and House Appropriations Committees, both are on record for balancing the so-called "cash" budget in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Ike Determined To Reach Goal

This would mean that spending would be brought into line with the Treasury's cash income—including about three billion dollars collected for various trust funds and not listed as revenue on its bookkeeping budget. The latter budget still would be three billion in the red.

Eisenhower has been represented as being determined to attain this goal and members of Congress said this would mean substantial cuts in the 42-billion-dollar level of military spending in the current year.

HELD AS FIREBUG—Ronald Friedman, 13, West Hempstead, L. I., New York, is held by police who say he admitted setting a fire in which Doris Krane, 7, was burned to death. Ronald formerly attended a private school where psychiatric treatment was given to pupils, the boy's father declared. The youngster was termed a "constant attention seeker and a problem student."

Allies Prepare For Emergency In POW Release

MUNSAN, Wednesday, Jan. 6 (AP)—The U. S. 8th Army threw up miles of barbed wire fences and barricades today, preparing for any emergency during the release of more than 22,000 war prisoners who refuse to go home.

The prisoners are scheduled to be released to civilian status a minute after midnight Jan. 22 under armistice terms.

A few minutes later, 22,082 anti-Communist Chinese and North Koreans will begin a march south out of the neutral zone to railheads in South Korea, United Nations authorities said.

12-Foot High Fences

Plans for 349 pro-Communist prisoners, including 21 Americans, were not known.

Miles of 12-foot high barbed wire fences and tons of steel were being used in barricades erected in the vicinity of Freedom Gate bridge on the road from Panmunjom to Munsan.

"We are setting things up to channelize the (released) prisoners when they come south," said Marine Lt. Tom Evans of Garden City, N. Y.

"We will be here when they show up," said Evans who is in charge of the barricade work with Marine Lt. William J. Livingston of Chicago. "We are ready for any contingency."

NNRC Asked For Guidance

The Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, whose authority over the prisoners expires at midnight Jan. 22, has asked both the Allied and Communist Commands for guidance on how to handle the prisoners after Jan. 22.

The U. N. Command quickly replied, demanding nothing less than complete freedom for the prisoners.

The Communists have not yet replied.

Korean Parley Renewal Sought

MUNSAN, Korea, Wednesday, Jan. 6 (AP) — Kenneth Young, State Department Far East expert, confirmed today he has been conducting secret negotiations through an intermediary for resumption of the preliminary Korean peace talks.

Young said in a telephone interview he and the Communists "are still feeling around" in the exploratory move to find a formula for resuming the talks.

"From where I sit I can't say when it might be possible to resume the conference," he added.

Young declined to name the intermediary. Washington reports said it might be India, Switzerland or Sweden. They all have representatives at Panmunjom.

"I do not think it is an impossible hurdle," he said of chances the Reds will withdraw their charge that the United States was guilty of "perfidy."

The Communists charged the United States plotted with South Korean President Syngman Rhee, who ordered the release of 27,000 North Korean anti-Communist prisoners last June.

Young said he had been working through the intermediary almost since the talks broke down on Dec. 12.

U.S. special envoy Arthur Dean broke off the open talks after six weeks of negotiations.

Iran Plans Anti-Red Propaganda Barrage

TEHRAN, Iran, Jan. 5 (AP)—Iran has decided to lay a propaganda barrage across its borders with the Soviet Union with the help of a string of loudspeakers aimed at Red territory, a Cabinet source said today.

He stated no decision has been taken yet as to how many loudspeakers will be used along the 750-mile frontier.

For years the Russians have been relaying music and propaganda across Azerbaijan's Arab River at Jolfa. The Iranians are not barred from listening to Moscow radio, but few people in that part of Iran have radios.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Association of American Railroads estimated the net income of class 1 carriers during November, 1953, at 60 million dollars, compared with 87 million dollars for the same month a year earlier.

M'Carthy Says He'll Continue Hunt For Reds

Senator Denies Any Pressure Applied To Abandon Probes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today brushed aside reports of administration pressure to curtail his Red-hunting probes and served notice he hopes to make Communists "bleed very badly" in 1954.

The Wisconsin senator said nobody in the administration "from President Eisenhower on down" has asked him to abandon his investigations of alleged Communists.

McCarthy said he expects some senators will try to curb congressional investigations "especially where treason is concerned." He said, however, his Senate Investigations subcommittee "will continue roughly in the future as it has in the past."

Long a target of criticism from those who disagree with his investigative methods, McCarthy spoke out against a background of the following developments:

1. At least five major newspapers published reports that the Eisenhower administration has been urging McCarthy to turn his efforts chiefly to the investigation of waste and corruption—letting other congressional groups carry on the task of exposing subversives.

2. Sen. Ellender (D-La) told newsmen he will ask the Senate to cut the McCarthy subcommittee's 1953 spending budget of $200,000 "down to size" for the new year.

3. Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) announced he will introduce a resolution to create a new Senate-House Committee on subversive and un-American activities in a move to eliminate rivalry and duplication by the numerous congressional investigative groups now in operation.

The New York Times, New York Herald Tribune, Baltimore Sun, Washington Evening Star and Washington Post all published reports that the administration was seeking to have McCarthy taper off on his spy-hunting activities.

Several accounts said McCarthy had "reportedly agreed" to the administration's request.

Reached by newsmen later in the day, however, McCarthy declared: "I've made no deals."

Moreover he said there had been "no pressure" from administration sources to make any such a deal.

Senators To Use Gouzenko Data

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Two senators said today they got names and other information from Igor Gouzenko during a secret five hour interview with the former Russian code clerk.

"What are you going to do with it?" Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind) was asked of Gouzenko's data.

"Use it for the internal protection of the United States," Jenner replied.

Gouzenko helped smash a Soviet spy ring in Canada in 1945 after he had deserted the Russian Embassy in Ottawa. Jenner interviewed him in hopes he might furnish leads on American spies.

With Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev), Jenner went to Canada to question Gouzenko on behalf of his Senate Internal Security subcommittee. The two senators talked to reporters in New York during a stopover on their return trip by train to Washington.

6 Sets Of Twins Born In 8 Years To Canadian Couple

ST. JOSEPH D'ALMA, Que., Jan. 5 (AP)—Six sets of twins have been born in eight years to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Emile Tremblay, the latest arriving yesterday.

The mother and children were reported doing well today. The father, a laborer frequently unemployed, was appealing for help.

Two of the sets of twins were boys. The four others, including the set born yesterday, were made up of a boy and a girl.

Tremblay, 31, and his 29-year-old wife, Rosa, live at St. Georges D'Alma, a village 150 miles northeast of Quebec City.

They were married in 1946. On Feb. 18, 1947, Raymond and Raymonde were born. Ronald and Ronaldo, both boys followed July 18, 1948. A year to the day later, Jacques and Jacqueline were born.

The Tremblays were surprised when a son, Clement, was born without a twin in 1950. But on Aug. 19, 1951, came the delivery of Jules and Julien, another set of boys.

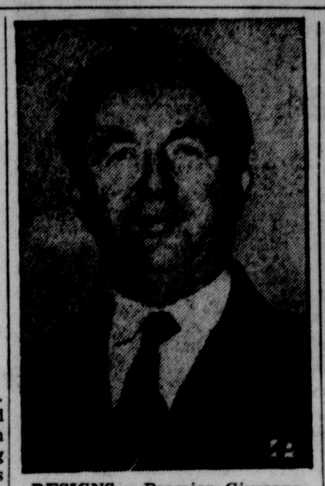
Francois and Francine came along in 1952.

The Tremblays decided the latest additions will be christened Christian and Christiane. They were delivered by Dr. Joseph Bergeron, who said the family could not make ends meet on what Tremblay earns.

In Quebec City, provincial health department officials said the five previous sets of twins have been cared for with financial help of the Societe de Beinfaisance de Chicoutii — a diocesan charitable organization.

The new twins—each weighing about seven pounds—were left at home in care of a special nurse.

Eleven of the 12 twins survive. Raymond died soon after birth.



RESIGNS — Premier Giuseppe Pella of Italy (above) resigned yesterday in the wake of growing differences within his own Christian Democrat party.

Italian Premier Resigns In Wake Of Party Dispute

ROME, Jan. 5 (AP)—Premier Giuseppe Pella, who took over as Italy's interim government chief 4½ months ago, quit today in the wake of growing differences within his own Christian Democrat party.

The 51-year-old Premier, the financial brains of five previous Italian Cabinets, handed his resignation to President Luigi Einaudi following a 20-minute emergency meeting of his ministers.

Talks Are Scheduled

Adolfo de Nicola, Einaudi's secretary, said the President would begin talks with party leaders Thursday aimed at finding a man capable of forming a new government. Pella's resignation will not become effective until a new government is sworn in, De Nicola said.

After his meeting with Einaudi, Pella told newsmen he had been "confronted by facts and difficulties which convinced me it was impossible to continue."

The resignation came as a thunderbolt to this nation, which enjoyed stable government from the end of World War II until last June's elections. Pella had been expected to shake up his Cabinet and continue in the premiership.

Took Office Last August

The heavy-set, sandy-haired Christian Democrat took office last August with a "strictly business" Cabinet accepted on an admittedly temporary basis. It was hoped that he could end the political vacuum that developed after the June elections left the Center parties with only thin majorities in both the Senate and Chamber of Deputies.

Pella, long one of Italy's top financial experts, had been chosen as a non-controversial figure after the fall of Alcide de Gasperi's eighth government.

William C. Lane, SRC Engineer, Brother Of Ex-Governor, Dies

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—William Cartwright Lane, an engineer for the State Roads Commission and a younger brother of former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr., collapsed with a heart attack at his job today and died several hours later.

He was 55 and had worked as assistant office engineer for the commission about five years.

Lane complained of severe pains in one arm and across his chest soon after he reported for work this morning. He declined an offer of transportation home but about 10 a.m. collapsed and was taken to Mercy Hospital.

His condition was so critical doctors worked over him in the emergency room most of the day. His wife was called from their home in Baltimore and the former governor was summoned from New York, where he was on a business trip.

"Bobo" Now Demands 10 Million Settlement

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 5 (AP)—An attorney for Winthrop Rockefeller said today the oil millionaire's estranged wife now is demanding a settlement of 10 million dollars.

Edwin Dunaway, Little Rock attorney who has acted as spokesman for Rockefeller since the latter moved to a farm near here last year, said Mrs. Barbara Paul (Bobo) Rockefeller had repudiated a financial agreement signed last Oct. 1.

Ike Gives Demos Preview Of Foreign, Defense Plans

Legislators Mum On Eisenhower's Bid For Support

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower gave Democratic congressional leaders a preview of his foreign and defense programs today in a bid for two-party backing on these key issues in the new legislative session opening tomorrow.

The Democrats left the White House with polite pleasantries and a dozen different ways of saying "no comment."

Eisenhower sketched over for them only the parts of his State of the Union message on foreign policy, foreign aid and national security. All these are fields in which there has been sizable emphasis on a bipartisan approach in the past.

The Democrats got no look at presidential plans for handling such potentially explosive domestic problems as taxes, social security, budget balancing, farm and labor questions, Hawaiian statehood, and a proposal to limit treaty making powers.

Ike To Need Demo Help

In a Congress with almost even voting power between the two major parties, Eisenhower is going to need some Democratic help on those programs, too.

So it was perhaps an expressive, meaningful reply when House Democratic leader Rayburn of Texas managed a mere "hmmmph" to a question whether he thought today's White House huddle represented full cooperation with the Democrats.

Eisenhower will outline his program publicly, in general terms, at least, when he personally delivers his State of the Union message to Congress Thursday.

Republican congressional chiefs got a briefing on the full program at a White House conference yesterday. They came back to sit in with the Democrats on the foreign-defense policy discussions today.

Dulles, Stassen, Wilson Speak

The menu for the legislative conference, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty announced, was confined to these items:

Secretary of State Dulles "presented a summary by areas of world conditions and the effect those conditions will have on the foreign policy of the United States."

Foreign Operations Director Stassen "summarized the work of his agency, particularly as it will deal with the requests for foreign military, economic and technical assistance which the administration will make at this session of Congress." Authority for the foreign aid program expires June 30.

Secretary of Defense Wilson "outlined the defense plans of the administration, including a recitation of the general steps by which the program is to be carried out."

Then, Hagerty said, there was a general discussion and exchange of views.

Unemployment Jumps 400,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Department of Commerce said today unemployment rose about 400,000 from November to December, increasing the jobless total to 1,850,000.

The department's monthly report on employment showed little change in non-farm employment, but a sharp drop in farm work with the onset of winter weather.

In addition to the rise in unemployment—which is the number of people without jobs who are seeking jobs — some 739,000 people dropped out of the labor force during the month. The department said these were principally farm workers who withdrew from the total of job seekers during the farm work off-season.

Non-agricultural employment, according to the monthly sampling survey, stood at 55,326,000 in the week of Dec. 6 to 12. That was slightly above the 55,274,000 nonfarm jobs estimated during the week of Nov. 8 to 14.

Four Die In Plane Crash

Held In Money Theft

James Rufus Landis, 29, and his wife, Mamie, 26, sit close together in an automobile as they are taken from the Treasury Department in Washington for arraignment before a U. S. commissioner. The Secret Service reported they were arrested yesterday in connection with the theft of $160,000 from the Bureau of Engraving. Landis works in the wrapping section of the bureau.

Continental Can, CIO Union Settle 36-Day Walkout

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—A 36-day strike of 14,500 CIO steelworkers against the Continental Can Co. was settled today with an 8½-cent general increase and other money benefits.

The union said the agreement constituted a package increase of 15 cents an hour, including reduction of sex and geographical pay differentials and better holiday and vacation clauses.

Citrus Canners Worried

The settlement came as Florida citrus fruit canners were reporting they might suffer serious losses because of the shortage of cans for processing the fruit.

The strike also had created a shortage of paper cartons for milk.

Settlement of the Continental strike was expected by some union sources to set a pattern for agreement in the strike of 20,000 steel workers against the American Can Co.

James Robb, union district director, said he would ask American Can officials to meet with him Friday to discuss the situation.

Pact Covers 33 Plants

However, a spokesman for American Can said the company "knows of no effect" that the Continental settlement might have on American's talks with the union.

The agreement covers 33 Continental plants in the United States, and three in Canada. Present pay in the U. S. plants averages $1.80 an hour, and in Canada $1.50 an hour.

Marilyn Monroe Stars In Mystery

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (AP)—Movieland's mystery of the moment—where's Marilyn Monroe? — brought this flat statement today from her representative:

She's still in San Francisco.

He said he talked with her by telephone today.

Presumably she's staying with the family of her friend, Joe Di Maggio, former heavy-hitting center fielder for the New York Yankees.

In San Francisco, DiMaggio told a reporter that he and Marilyn have not been married and he added:

"We're neither confirming nor denying our marriage in the future. But if it occurs I'll issue a statement for everybody."

Her studio, 20th Century-Fox, which suspended her yesterday for failing to show up for the start of a picture, said it still didn't know where she was.

Europe Has Respite From Winter Storms

LONDON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Gale-battered Western Europe had a respite today from three days of blizzards and storms that claimed several lives and wreaked havoc from the Baltic down to Rome. But the weatherman warned more trouble may be on the way.

Gale and flood damage in Germany, Denmark, and Sweden was estimated at about two million dollars. Half a dozen persons were reported to have died from cold in the Paris area.

Rescue teams failed again to fight their way through a driving snowstorm to reach 17-year-old Marco Bones, lost for 50 hours on blizzard-swept Mt. Sperone near Trento, Italy.

Tin Magnate Temporarily Bars Daughter's Marriage

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Jan. 5 (AP)—Papa Patino put a Scotch legal bar against his runaway daughter's marriage plans today, but lawyers said love will triumph in the end.

The father — Bolivian tin magnate Antenor Patino — won a last-minute High Court order barring for one week any marriage between 18-year-old Maria Isabella and her handsome English boy friend, James Goldsmith, 20-year-old son of a wealthy hotel boss.

Anyone could prevent the order from becoming permanent after one week by objecting that it should be set aside, Scotch lawyers said.

Patino, directing a squad of private detectives in a feverish hunt for the missing couple, all day long paced the carpet in the plush Caladonian Hotel here.

Some spectators of the romantic drama speculated he already had had a showdown talk with the Eton-educated James. A young man looking somewhat like Jimmy walked out of the hotel this afternoon and motored off.

But no one was willing to swear to it and Patino himself is unavailable for comment. Five carloads of reporters and cameramen chased the speeding car but lost it in the Edinburgh suburbs.

Patino arrived Sunday determined to thwart Isabella's plans.

Today he produced an ace — a High Court order barring — at least temporarily — any Scottish authority from issuing the marriage certificate without his say so.

But for that order the couple would have been free to marry after 10 a.m. tomorrow at any one of Scotland's 200-odd registry offices. They took out a license here a week ago — and Scots marriages normally do not need parental consent.

Negro Couple Held; $128,300 Is Recovered

Engraving Bureau Employe, His Wife, Neighbor Arrested

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—An anguished father set police on the trail of his daughter and her husband today—and within hours the Secret Service nabbed the couple and recovered $128,300 of the $160,000 whisked from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing under the noses of armed guards.

Held as the chief figure in the bold, unprecedented New Year's Eve theft was a long-trusted bureau employe, James Rufus Landis, 29, a Negro.

His pretty bobby soxed wife Mamie, 26, whom he married when she was 14, also was charged with currency theft. A neighbor who lives in the same apartment house, William Giles, also a Negro, was picked up later in a Washington tavern and held as an accessory.

Heart-Rending Phone Call

The baffling disappearance of the $160,000 in new $20 bills from the heavily guarded currency printing plant was solved through a heart-rending 5 a.m. telephone call from a Fauquier County, Va., farm where Mamie Landis' father, Irving Grant, is a servant.

His story, blurted out to Virginia State Trooper S. S. Secrist, was stark and simple: he had "a big pile of Treasury money" in his tenant house. And he was "scared to death."

Troopers sped to the farm, about 50 miles southeast of Washington, found $95,000 in a new metal tool box, and heard the rest of farmhand Grant's story:

Last night his daughter, her husband and a friend of theirs drove down from the capital in a newly bought Oldsmobile, bragged they had "pulled a smoothie" and asked him to bury the money until "it cools off a little."

Grant Given $3,000

Grant—as quoted by the troopers and by Chief U. E. Baughman of the Secret Service—refused at first but changed his mind when one of the men drew a gun. His daughter and her companions then gave him $3,000 wrapped in a gray sock, for his help.

They left. Agonized, Grant wrestled with his conscience—and a fear of discovery. Finally he told his wife of the affair. She had a heart attack, and a doctor was called. Finally, at 5 a.m., Grant made his decision. He called the police.

They came and found the tool box with its stacks of bills — including the $3,000 rejected bribe.

Quickly the Virginia authorities called in the Secret Service and at 10 a.m. Landis was arrested as he went about his duties as a checker of distribution in the Engraving Bureau.

Chief Baughman said Landis soon admitted a role in the theft—told the agents he emptied two packages of $20 bills, and stuffed plain paper in their place, at the very jaws of a huge burglar-proof safe on the morning of Dec. 31.

"Little Big Four" Talks Proposed

BERLIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Western Allies proposed today that Big Four representatives meet Thursday to fix a site and other details for the impending foreign ministers' conference in this Soviet-encircled city.

The United States, British and French high commissioners dispatched a note to Soviet High Commissioner Vladimir S. Semyenov asking that Russia name a man to confer with their Berlin commandants on the technical arrangements.

They suggested some specific place to Semyenov for the "little Big Four" session, but did not announce their choice publicly. Allied spokesmen refused to name the place. That leaves room for dickering. The Russians have officially ignored the West's recommendation that the foreign ministers' conference to open Jan. 25, be held in the former Allied Control Authority building in the U.S. sector. The Russians implied they opposed it, suggesting that the high commissioners pick a site.

FEC To Keep MIG15

TOKYO, Wednesday, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Far East Command today said it will keep the Russian built MIG15 turned over by a fleeing North Korean pilot because "no one seems willing to take credit for being owner of the plane."

The mother and children were reported doing well today. The father, a laborer frequently unemployed, was appealing for help.

Two of the sets of twins were boys. The four others, including the set born yesterday, were made up of a boy and a girl.

Tremblay, 31, and his 29-year-old wife, Rosa, live at St. Georges D'Alma, a village 150 miles northeast of Quebec City.

They were married in 1946. On Feb. 18, 1947, Raymond and Raymonde were born. Ronald and Ronaldo, both boys followed July 18, 1948. A year to the day later, Jacques and Jacqueline were born.

The Tremblays were surprised when a son, Clement, was born without a twin in 1950. But on Aug. 19, 1951, came the delivery of Jules and Julien, another set of boys.

Francois and Francine came along in 1952.

The Tremblays decided the latest additions will be christened Christian and Christiane. They were delivered by Dr. Joseph Bergeron, who said the family could not make ends meet on what Tremblay earns.

In Quebec City, provincial health department officials said the five previous sets of twins have been cared for with financial help of the Societe de Beinfaisance de Chicoutii — a diocesan charitable organization.

The new twins—each weighing about seven pounds—were left at home in care of a special nurse.

Eleven of the 12 twins survive. Raymond died soon after birth.

RESIGNS — Premier Giuseppe Pella of Italy (above) resigned yesterday in the wake of growing differences within his own Christian Democrat party.

Italian Premier Resigns In Wake Of Party Dispute

ROME, Jan. 5 (AP)—Premier Giuseppe Pella, who took over as Italy's interim government chief 4½ months ago, quit today in the wake of growing differences within his own Christian Democrat party.

The 51-year-old Premier, the financial brains of five previous Italian Cabinets, handed his resignation to President Luigi Einaudi following a 20-minute emergency meeting of his ministers.

Talks Are Scheduled

Adolfo de Nicola, Einaudi's secretary, said the President would begin talks with party leaders Thursday aimed at finding a man capable of forming a new government. Pella's resignation will not become effective until a new government is sworn in, De Nicola said.

After his meeting with Einaudi, Pella told newsmen he had been "confronted by facts and difficulties which convinced me it was impossible to continue."

The resignation came as a thunderbolt to this nation, which enjoyed stable government from the end of World War II until last June's elections. Pella had been expected to shake up his Cabinet and continue in the premiership.

Took Office Last August

The heavy-set, sandy-haired Christian Democrat took office last August with a "strictly business" Cabinet accepted on an admittedly temporary basis. It was hoped that he could end the political vacuum that developed after the June elections left the Center parties with only thin majorities in both the Senate and Chamber of Deputies.

Pella, long one of Italy's top financial experts, had been chosen as a non-controversial figure after the fall of Alcide de Gasperi's eighth government.

William C. Lane, SRC Engineer, Brother Of Ex-Governor, Dies

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—William Cartwright Lane, an engineer for the State Roads Commission and a younger brother of former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr., collapsed with a heart attack at his job today and died several hours later.

He was 55 and had worked as assistant office engineer for the commission about five years.

Lane complained of severe pains in one arm and across his chest soon after he reported for work this morning. He declined an offer of transportation home but about 10 a.m. collapsed and was taken to Mercy Hospital.

His condition was so critical doctors worked over him in the emergency room most of the day. His wife was called from their home in Baltimore and the former governor was summoned from New York, where he was on a business trip.

"Bobo" Now Demands 10 Million Settlement

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 5 (AP)—An attorney for Winthrop Rockefeller said today the oil millionaire's estranged wife now is demanding a settlement of 10 million dollars.

Edwin Dunaway, Little Rock attorney who has acted as spokesman for Rockefeller since the latter moved to a farm near here last year, said Mrs. Barbara Paul (Bobo) Rockefeller had repudiated a financial agreement signed last Oct. 1.

Ike Gives Demos Preview Of Foreign, Defense Plans

Legislators Mum On Eisenhower's Bid For Support

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower gave Democratic congressional leaders a preview of his foreign and defense programs today in a bid for two-party backing on these key issues in the new legislative session opening tomorrow.

The Democrats left the White House with polite pleasantries and a dozen different ways of saying "no comment."

Eisenhower sketched over for them only the parts of his State of the Union message on foreign policy, foreign aid and national security. All these are fields in which there has been sizable emphasis on a bipartisan approach in the past.

The Democrats got no look at presidential plans for handling such potentially explosive domestic problems as taxes, social security, budget balancing, farm and labor questions, Hawaiian statehood, and a proposal to limit treaty making powers.

Ike To Need Demo Help

In a Congress with almost even voting power between the two major parties, Eisenhower is going to need some Democratic help on those programs, too.

So it was perhaps an expressive, meaningful reply when House Democratic leader Rayburn of Texas managed a mere "hmmmph" to a question whether he thought today's White House huddle represented full cooperation with the Democrats.

Eisenhower will outline his program publicly, in general terms, at least, when he personally delivers his State of the Union message to Congress Thursday.

Republican congressional chiefs got a briefing on the full program at a White House conference yesterday. They came back to sit in with the Democrats on the foreign-defense policy discussions today.

Dulles, Stassen, Wilson Speak

The menu for the legislative conference, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty announced, was confined to these items:

Secretary of State Dulles "presented a summary by areas of world conditions and the effect those conditions will have on the foreign policy of the United States."

Foreign Operations Director Stassen "summarized the work of his agency, particularly as it will deal with the requests for foreign military, economic and technical assistance which the administration will make at this session of Congress." Authority for the foreign aid program expires June 30.

Secretary of Defense Wilson "outlined the defense plans of the administration, including a recitation of the general steps by which the program is to be carried qut."

Then, Hagerty said, there was a general discussion and exchange of views.

Unemployment Jumps 400,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Department of Commerce said today unemployment rose about 400,000 from November to December, increasing the jobless total to 1,850,000.

The department's monthly report on employment showed little change in non-farm employment, but a sharp drop in farm work with the onset of winter weather.

In addition to the rise in unemployment—which is the number of people without jobs who are seeking jobs — some 739,000 people dropped out of the labor force during the month. The department said these were principally farm workers who withdrew from the total of job seekers during the farm work off-season.

Non-agricultural employment, according to the monthly sampling survey, stood at 55,326,000 in the week of Dec. 6 to 12. That was slightly above the 55,274,000 non-farm jobs estimated during the week of Nov. 8 to 14.

Four Die In Plane Crash

Held In Money Theft

James Rufus Landis, 29, and his wife, Mamie, 26, sit close together in an automobile as they are taken from the Treasury Department in Washington for arraignment before a U. S. commissioner. The Secret Service reported they were arrested yesterday in connection with the theft of $160,000 from the Bureau of Engraving. Landis works in the wrapping section of the bureau.

Continental Can, CIO Union Settle 36-Day Walkout

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—A 36-day strike of 14,500 CIO steelworkers against the Continental Can Co. was settled today with an 8½-cent general increase and other money benefits.

The union said the agreement constituted a package increase of 15 cents an hour, including reduction of sex and geographical pay differentials and better holiday and vacation clauses.

Citrus Canners Worried

The settlement came as Florida citrus fruit canners were reporting they might suffer serious losses because of the shortage of cans for processing the fruit.

The strike also had created a shortage of paper cartons for milk.

Settlement of the Continental strike was expected by some union sources to set a pattern for agreement in the strike of 20,000 steel workers against the American Can Co.

James Robb, union district director, said he would ask American Can officials to meet with him Friday to discuss the situation.

Pact Covers 33 Plants

However, a spokesman for American Can said the company "knows of no effect" that the Continental settlement might have on American's talks with the union.

The agreement covers 33 Continental plants in the United States, and three in Canada. Present pay in the U. S. plants averages $1.80 an hour, and in Canada $1.50 an hour.

Tin Magnate Temporarily Bars Daughter's Marriage

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Jan. 5 (AP)—Papa Patino put a Scotch legal bar against his runaway daughter's marriage plans today, but lawyers said love will triumph in the end.

The father — Bolivian tin magnate Antenor Patino — won a last-minute High Court order barring for one week any marriage between 18-year-old Maria Isabella and her handsome English boy friend, James Goldsmith, 20-year-old son of a wealthy hotel boss.

Anyone could prevent the order from becoming permanent after one week by objecting that it should be set aside, Scotch lawyers said.

Patino, directing a squad of private detectives in a feverish hunt for the missing couple, all day long paced the carpet in the plush Caladonian Hotel here.

Some spectators of the romantic drama speculated he already had had a showdown talk with the Eton-educated James. A young man looking somewhat like Jimmy walked out of the hotel this afternoon and motored off.

But no one was willing to swear to it and Patino himself is unavailable for comment. Five carloads of reporters and cameramen chased the speeding car but lost it in the Edinburgh suburbs.

Patino arrived Sunday determined to thwart Isabella's plans.

Today he produced an ace — a High Court order barring — at least temporarily — any Scottish authority from issuing the marriage certificate without his say so.

But for that order the couple would have been free to marry after 10 a.m. tomorrow at any one of Scotland's 200-odd registry offices. They took out a license here a week ago — and Scots marriages normally do not need parental consent.

Marilyn Monroe Stars In Mystery

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (AP)—Movieland's mystery of the moment—where's Marilyn Monroe? — brought this flat statement today from her representative:

She's still in San Francisco.

He said he talked with her by telephone today.

Presumably she's staying with the family of her friend, Joe Di Maggio, former heavy-hitting center fielder for the New York Yankees.

In San Francisco, DiMaggio told a reporter that he and Marilyn have not been married and he added:

"We're neither confirming nor denying our marriage in the future. But if it occurs I'll issue a statement for everybody."

Her studio, 20th Century-Fox, which suspended her yesterday for failing to show up for the start of a picture, said it still didn't know where she was.

Europe Has Respite From Winter Storms

LONDON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Gale-battered Western Europe had a respite today from three days of blizzards and storms that claimed several lives and wreaked havoc from the Baltic down to Rome. But the weatherman warned more trouble may be on the way.

Gale and flood damage in Germany, Denmark, and Sweden was estimated at about two million dollars. Half a dozen persons were reported to have died from cold in the Paris area.

Rescue teams failed again to fight their way through a driving snowstorm to reach 17-year-old Marco Bones, lost for 50 hours on blizzard-swept Mt. Sperone near Trento, Italy.

Negro Couple Held; $128,300 Is Recovered

Engraving Bureau Employe, His Wife, Neighbor Arrested

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—An anguished father set police on the trail of his daughter and her husband today—and within hours the Secret Service nabbed the couple and recovered $128,300 of the $160,000 whisked from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing under the noses of armed guards.

Held as the chief figure in the bold, unprecedented New Year's Eve theft was a long-trusted bureau employe, James Rufus Landis, 29, a Negro.

His pretty bobby soxed wife Mamie, 26, whom he married when she was 14, also was charged with currency theft. A neighbor who lives in the same apartment house, William Giles, also a Negro, was picked up later in a Washington tavern and held as an accessory.

Heart-Rending Phone Call

The baffling disappearance of the $160,000 in new $20 bills from the heavily guarded currency printing plant was solved through a heart-rending 5 a.m. telephone call from a Fauquier County, Va., farm where Mamie Landis' father, Irving Grant, is a servant.

His story, blurted out to Virginia State Trooper S. S. Secrist, was stark and simple: he had "a big pile of Treasury money" in his tenant house. And he was "scared to death."

Troopers sped to the farm, about 50 miles southeast of Washington, found $95,000 in a new metal tool box, and heard the rest of farmhand Grant's story:

Last night his daughter, her husband and a friend of theirs drove down from the capital in a newly bought Oldsmobile, bragged they had "pulled a smoothie" and asked him to bury the money until "it cools off a little."

Grant Given $3,000

Grant—as quoted by the troopers and by Chief U. E. Baughman of the Secret Service—refused at first but changed his mind when one of the men drew a gun. His daughter and her companions then gave him $3,000 wrapped in a gray sock, for his help.

They left. Agonized, Grant wrestled with his conscience—and a fear of discovery. Finally he told his wife of the affair. She had a heart attack, and a doctor was called. Finally, at 5 a.m., Grant made his decision. He called the police.

They came and found the tool box with its stacks of bills — including the $3,000 rejected bribe.

Quickly the Virginia authorities called in the Secret Service and at 10 a.m. Landis was arrested as he went about his duties as a checker of distribution in the Engraving Bureau.

Chief Baughman said Landis soon admitted a role in the theft—told the agents he emptied two packages of $20 bills, and stuffed plain paper in their place, at the very jaws of a huge burglar-proof safe on the morning of Dec. 31.

"Little Big Four" Talks Proposed

BERLIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Western Allies proposed today that Big Four representatives meet Thursday to fix a site and other details for the impending foreign ministers' conference in this Soviet-encircled city.

The United States, British and French high commissioners dispatched a note to Soviet High Commissioner Vladimir S. Semyenov asking that Russia name a man to confer with their Berlin commandants on the technical arrangements.

They suggested some specific place to Semyenov for the "little Big Four" session, but did not announce their choice publicly. Allied spokesmen refused to name the place. That leaves room for dickering. The Russians have officially ignored the West's recommendation that the foreign ministers' conference to open, Jan. 25, be held in the former Allied Control Authority building in the U.S. sector. The Russians implied they opposed it, suggesting that the high commissioners pick a site.

FEC To Keep MIG15

TOKYO, Wednesday, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Far East Command today said it will keep the Russian built MIG15 turned over by a fleeing North Korean pilot because "no one seems willing to take credit for being owner of the plane."

'Suicide' Returns After Five Years

Former U. S. Housing Official Explains

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Harry A. Barbour, former U. S. housing official in California, told today how he disappeared after writing a "suicide" note five years ago and how he came back to "life."

Barbour said he left his wife and two small daughters in Richmond, Calif., on Nov. 8, 1948, with the intention of committing suicide because "I thought I was going blind."

Located in a small, bare apartment in suburban Glassmanor, Md., where he has been living with his family since last November, Barbour appeared startled when asked if he was the Harry Barbour who was involved in a previous disappearance, in 1938.

"Let's not talk about that," he told newsmen. "It was a political squabble. There were a lot of headaches and heartaches. If you please, I'd rather let it die."

A man named Harry Barbour, a candidate for the California State Assembly, dropped out of sight in August, 1938, shortly before the election and reappeared in November with a story of having been kidnaped on a San Francisco street and held captive in an adobe hut at San Pedro, Calif.

His wife's name at the time was Juanita. His present wife, about 41 years old, is named Frances. Dispatches from Richmond, Calif., said today that Barbour was married for a second time about 1941.

The Barbours spoke willingly today of events over the last five years, dating back to his "suicide" disappearance, but refused to discuss the 1938 incident.

"Frances has been on the verge of a nervous breakdown over all this," Barbour said. "We'd prefer not to talk about it. Politics are politics. People have motives, sometimes, that are hard to follow."

As for his 1948 disappearance, Barbour said he got in touch with his wife after an 18-month absence during which he went entirely blind at one point but recovered vision in one eye after an operation.

Late last year, he said, he and his wife agreed to try to reestablish a home for the sake of their children and moved to Washington.

Commenting on his 1948 disappearance, the tall, thin, grayhaired Earbour said:

"What makes a man do a thing like that? No man lives who hasn't done things of which he is ashamed. I thought at that time I was going blind. I had financial troubles. I decided I couldn't go on."

Barbour was executive director of the Federal Public Housing Authority office at Richmond, near San Francisco.

Army Lists 498 Missing Yanks As Legally Dead

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—The long period of waiting passed with still no word, and the Army today announced as "presumed dead" the names of 498 men who have been missing for more than a year in Korea.

For relatives, the notification they received in the last several days may have brought one final heart twinge. But it could only make final the growing feeling they must have had that hope now must be abandoned for the husband, or son, or brother from whom they had heard nothing for so long.

The Army told them it could not say when, or how, the men died, but "in view of the lapse of time without information to support a continued presumption of survival" it has listed the men dead as of Dec. 31, 1953.

Today's list was the first of eight which will be announced by the Defense Department for publication this week. The Army, in five more lists, will name another 2,874 men. The Air Force, with 256, and the Marine corps, with 228, each will issue a single list.

The eight lists will have named 3,856 men declared dead as of Dec. 31, raising the Korean battle death toll to at least 30,350. Another 3,193 men still are listed as missing, but these too eventually will be declared legally dead unless information turns up to indicate otherwise.

The Navy already has listed as dead 34 of the 103 Navy men who had been reported missing.

Pay and allowances of missing servicemen end as soon as they are listed as dead, but their beneficiaries will receive the amounts accumulated until Dec. 31 and in addition will get lump-sum payments equal to six more months of base pay.

HAPPY REUNION — Little Woo Chew Chung, 4, is held by his father, Billy Woo, Knoxville, Ill., as Mrs. Woo looks on after arrival at Midway Airport in Chicago yesterday. The boy, who escaped with his mother from the Chinese Communists, made the trip from Hong Kong by himself because his mother had joined her husband a couple of months ago. Both mother and son were smuggled out of Red China into Hong Kong to await opportunities to get into the U. S.

Ex-POW Hopes To Induce Others To Turn On Reds

TOKYO, Wednesday, Jan. 6 (AP)—Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor, a young GI who turned on communism, and his Japanese wife today sought with personal letters to induce at least four other Americans to walk out of the pro-Red camp at Panmunjom.

Batchelor, of Kermit, Tex., acknowledged at a news conference yesterday "I made a mistake" and said he hoped to prove himself by trying to persuade some of the 21 Americans remaining in camp to renounce the Reds.

"I'd like to fight communism in the future," he said.

Batchelor said he was persuaded to return home by letters from his wife, Kyoko. So he asked her to write to three undisclosed friends in the camp.

Last night he added a fourth name—Pvt. Richard R. Tenneson of Alden, Minn., who spurned his mother's pleas to return.

Batchelor received a telephone call last night from Mrs. Portia Howe, Tenneson's mother, who returned to the United States before Christmas after coming as far as Tokyo in an attempt to see her son.

Batchelor said he told Mrs. Howe that he could only say that her son was in good health. Previously the Texan has intimated that prisoners were under coercion and that Tenneson's letter to his mother was read openly in camp before it was sent to her.

Batchelor said that American prisoners received secret orders from the Communist command not to attend Allied explanations and to break them up. He said oral instructions came through contacts in the camp's Communist-staffed hospital.

Mrs. Mueller, Joanne, 3, and Jean Ellen, six months, were pronounced dead of suffocation at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Gamboling Buffalo Will Roam No More

PHILLIPSBURG, N.J., Jan. 5 (AP)—Benny the buffalo, a bachelor at heart, was shot dead today because he would rather roam than stay at home.

Benny met his end in a thicket three miles from here after a five-day fling.

He had been gamboling over the countryside since last Thursday when he busted out of a corral rather than settle down with a buffalo named Beulah.

Planes were his undoing. Several Civil Air Patrol craft took to the air when ground searchers reported he was as hard to find as a buffalo dime.

They radioed Benny's position to a jeep patrolling in the area. Men from Lanark Stables, owner of the wanderer, drove the jeep up hard by Benny's hiding place and shot him.

Dutch To Present Carillon To U. S.

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands, Jan. 5 (AP)—A 49-bell carillon to be presented to the United States as an expression of thanks for America's part in the World War II liberation of Europe was turned over by the manufacturers today to the Dutch committee which sponsored the gift.

Dr. L. G. Kortenkort, president of the committee, said it will be shipped to Baltimore, Md., shortly and hung in a belfry—also to be presented by the Dutch—in Arlington, Va., near Arlington National Cemetery.

Zsa Zsa Files Cross Complaint For Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Jan. 5 (AP)—Zsa Zsa Gabor, sued for divorce last Nov. 2 by actor George Sanders, denied his charges of mental cruelty today and filed a cross complaint for divorce on similar grounds.

The complaint said they had agreed on a property settlement. The couple separated last Oct. 20 after 4½ years of marriage.

Zsa Zsa was not in court today. She and her sisters, Eva and Magda, are appearing in a nightclub at Las Vegas, Nev.

Tax Relief Proposals Backed By Rep. Hyde

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — A Maryland congressman today got behind the proposal to permit working mothers to deduct baby-sitting expenses from their income taxes and said the measure has "a good chance of passing."

Rep. Hyde (R-Md) said he would actively support such legislation.

"I am also in favor of revising excise taxes downward," Hyde said in a statement.

"High rates on luxury items are hurting sales and thus hurting small businessmen who certainly deserve tax relief now," the Sixth District congressman said.

Might Be Forced To Move Struck Mill, Owner Says

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., Jan. 5 (AP) — The owner of the strikebound Federal Silk Mills here today asked the sheriff's office for additional protection for employes who want to return to work.

David Goetz, owner and operator of the mills, also hinted he would be forced to move operations out of Williamsport if conditions didn't improve.

The plant was shut down last week when most of the 400 workers walked out in protest of the company's failure to award the customary Christmas bonus.

Goetz said the bonus was based on the plant making a profit and that he couldn't afford to pay it. He ordered the workers to return to their jobs by yesterday or be fired. About 35 showed up.

Today, Goetz charged that many who wished to return were "prevented from doing so by threats, intimidation and violence."

He said he would carry his demand for protection to the Board of County Commissioners and circuit court if necessary.

The owner said the threats and violence stemmed from a union "which has not been certified to represent employes of Federal Silk Mills."

Cleo The Hippo Doesn't Forget

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 5 (AP)—Cleo the hippopotamus may not have as good a memory as the elephant, which never forgets, but she remembers what happened to her yesterday and made certain it didn't happen again.

And a scurrying veterinarian at Swope Park Zoo has a hypodermic needle bent to accordion proportions to prove it.

Yesterday that sneaking vet slipped up on Cleo from the rear and shot 25 cubic centimeters of vitamin B complex into the softer side of the hippo's rump. Cleo, who may be a mama soon, hadn't been eating and had a kidney infection attendant to pregnancy.

Today she ate her two loaves of bread, four heads of cabbage, 10 pounds of grain, hay and assorted vegetables with great relish. William Cully, zoo director, decided on another dose.

Cleo decided otherwise. She simply sat down. A hippo's hide isn't quite as hard as a turtle's on top but it's the same proposition. And the vet, who made one abortive attack with his needle, has the evidence. And so would several attendants who tried to move her if Cleo could have got her teeth into them. She tried hard enough—from a sitting position.

The Army told them it could not say when, or how, the men died, but "in view of the lapse of time without information to support a continued presumption of survival" it has listed the men dead as of Dec. 31, 1953.

Today's list was the first of eight which will be announced by the Defense Department for publication this week. The Army, in five more lists, will name another 2,874 men. The Air Force, with 256, and the Marine corps, with 228, each will issue a single list.

The eight lists will have named 3,856 men declared dead as of Dec. 31, raising the Korean battle death toll to at least 30,350. Another 3,193 men still are listed as missing, but these too eventually will be declared legally dead unless information turns up to indicate otherwise.

The Navy already has listed as dead 34 of the 103 Navy men who had been reported missing.

Pay and allowances of missing servicemen end as soon as they are listed as dead, but their beneficiaries will receive the amounts accumulated until Dec. 31 and in addition will get lump-sum payments equal to six more months of base pay.

HAPPY REUNION — Little Woo Chew Chung, 4, is held by his father, Billy Woo, Knoxville, Ill., as Mrs. Woo looks on after arrival at Midway Airport in Chicago yesterday. The boy, who escaped with his mother from the Chinese Communists, made the trip from Hong Kong by himself because his mother had joined her husband a couple of months ago. Both mother and son were smuggled out of Red China into Hong Kong to await opportunities to get into the U. S.

Ex-POW Hopes To Induce Others To Turn On Reds

TOKYO, Wednesday, Jan. 6 (AP)—Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor, a young GI who turned on communism, and his Japanese wife today sought with personal letters to induce at least four other Americans to walk out of the pro-Red camp at Panmunjom.

Batchelor, of Kermit, Tex., acknowledged at a news conference yesterday "I made a mistake" and said he hoped to prove himself by trying to persuade some of the 21 Americans remaining in camp to renounce the Reds.

"I'd like to fight communism in the future," he said.

Batchelor said he was persuaded to return home by letters from his wife, Kyoko. So he asked her to write to three undisclosed friends in the camp.

Last night he added a fourth name—Pvt. Richard R. Tenneson of Alden, Minn., who spurned his mother's pleas to return.

Batchelor received a telephone call last night from Mrs. Portia Howe, Tenneson's mother, who returned to the United States before Christmas after coming as far as Tokyo in an attempt to see her son.

Batchelor said he told Mrs. Howe that he could only say that her son was in good health. Previously the Texan has intimated that prisoners were under coercion and that Tenneson's letter to his mother was read openly in camp before it was sent to her.

Batchelor said that American prisoners received secret orders from the Communist command not to attend Allied explanations and to break them up. He said oral instructions came through contacts in the camp's Communist-staffed hospital.

Mrs. Mueller, Joanne, 3, and Jean Ellen, six months, were pronounced dead of suffocation at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Gamboling Buffalo Will Roam No More

PHILLIPSBURG, N.J., Jan. 5 (AP)—Benny the buffalo, a bachelor at heart, was shot dead today because he would rather roam than stay at home.

Benny met his end in a thicket three miles from here after a five-day fling.

He had been gamboling over the countryside since last Thursday when he busted out of a corral rather than settle down with a buffalo named Beulah.

Planes were his undoing. Several Civil Air Patrol craft took to the air when ground searchers reported he was as hard to find as a buffalo dime.

They radioed Benny's position to a jeep patrolling in the area. Men from Lanark Stables, owner of the wanderer, drove the jeep up hard by Benny's hiding place and shot him.

Dutch To Present Carillon To U. S.

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands, Jan. 5 (AP)—A 49-bell carillon to be presented to the United States as an expression of thanks for America's part in the World War II liberation of Europe was turned over by the manufacturers today to the Dutch committee which sponsored the gift.

Dr. L. G. Kortenkort, president of the committee, said it will be shipped to Baltimore, Md., shortly and hung in a belfry—also to be presented by the Dutch—in Arlington, Va., near Arlington National Cemetery.

Zsa Zsa Files Cross Complaint For Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Jan. 5 (AP)—Zsa Zsa Gabor, sued for divorce last Nov. 2 by actor George Sanders, denied his charges of mental cruelty today and filed a cross complaint for divorce on similar grounds.

The complaint said they had agreed on a property settlement. The couple separated last Oct. 20 after 4½ years of marriage.

Zsa Zsa was not in court today. She and her sisters, Eva and Magda, are appearing in a nightclub at Las Vegas, Nev.

Tax Relief Proposals Backed By Rep. Hyde

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — A Maryland congressman today got behind the proposal to permit working mothers to deduct baby-sitting expenses from their income taxes and said the measure has "a good chance of passing."

Rep. Hyde (R-Md) said he would actively support such legislation.

"I am also in favor of revising excise taxes downward," Hyde said in a statement.

"High rates on luxury items are hurting sales and thus hurting small businessmen who certainly deserve tax relief now," the Sixth District congressman said.

Might Be Forced To Move Struck Mill, Owner Says

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., Jan. 5 (AP) — The owner of the strikebound Federal Silk Mills here today asked the sheriff's office for additional protection for employes who want to return to work.

David Goetz, owner and operator of the mills, also hinted he would be forced to move operations out of Williamsport if conditions didn't improve.

The plant was shut down last week when most of the 400 workers walked out in protest of the company's failure to award the customary Christmas bonus.

Goetz said the bonus was based on the plant making a profit and that he couldn't afford to pay it. He ordered the workers to return to their jobs by yesterday or be fired. About 35 showed up.

Today, Goetz charged that many who wished to return were "prevented from doing so by threats, intimidation and violence."

He said he would carry his demand for protection to the Board of County Commissioners and circuit court if necessary.

The owner said the threats and violence stemmed from a union "which has not been certified to represent employes of Federal Silk Mills."

Cleo The Hippo Doesn't Forget

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 5 (AP)—Cleo the hippopotamus may not have as good a memory as the elephant, which never forgets, but she remembers what happened to her yesterday and made certain it didn't happen again.

And a scurrying veterinarian at Swope Park Zoo has a hypodermic needle bent to accordion proportions to prove it.

Yesterday that sneaking vet slipped up on Cleo from the rear and shot 25 cubic centimeters of vitamin B complex into the softer side of the hippo's rump. Cleo, who may be a mama soon, hadn't been eating and had a kidney infection attendant to pregnancy.

Today she ate her two loaves of bread, four heads of cabbage, 10 pounds of grain, hay and assorted vegetables with great relish. William Cully, zoo director, decided on another dose.

Cleo decided otherwise. She simply sat down. A hippo's hide isn't quite as hard as a turtle's on top but it's the same proposition. And the vet, who made one abortive attack with his needle, has the evidence. And so would several attendants who tried to move her if Cleo could have got her teeth into them. She tried hard enough—from a sitting position.

'54 FORD the "worth more" car declares a dividend

3 distinctive lines—14 brilliant body styles

YOU JUST OUGHT TO TRY the '54 Ford . . . the car that brings a whole new set of value features to the low-price field. You'll find that each new feature is an extra dividend in driving enjoyment. And each new dividend establishes Ford, even more in '54, as the "Worth More" car.

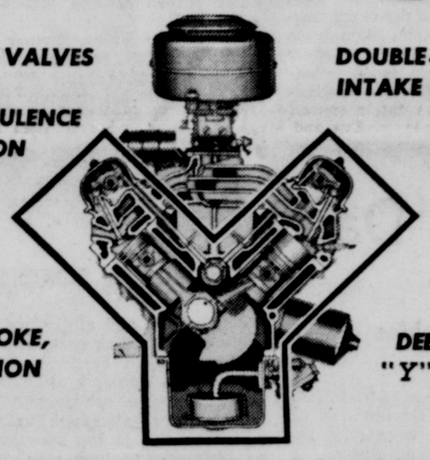
You get a special dividend in styling, for example, with Ford's distinctive new appearance . . . smooth, clean lines. You get sparkling new interiors, too, that are a dividend in themselves. New custom-selected upholstery and trim are color-harmonized with your choice of glamorous new body colors. And Ford's new Astra-Dial Control Panel is not only the most beautiful you've ever seen . . . it's designed for safety, too, with the speedometer located high on the control panel.

And each of the new Fords gives you special dividends in ride and performance . . . with new Ball-Joint Front Suspension, the greatest advance in chassis design in 20 years . . . with your choice of Ford's new low-friction Y-block V-8 or I-block Six, the most modern engines in any car today! And, as an additional dividend, Ford makes available all the power assists you might expect to find only in the costliest cars.

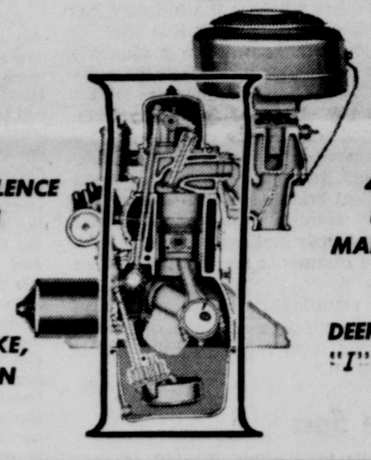
With 28 brilliant new models to choose from, you'll find the exact car to suit your tastes and requirements. Come in and see the '54 Ford. Test Drive it. Once you try it, you'll want to drive it home.

PERFORMANCE DIVIDENDS

The new 130-h.p. Y-block V-8

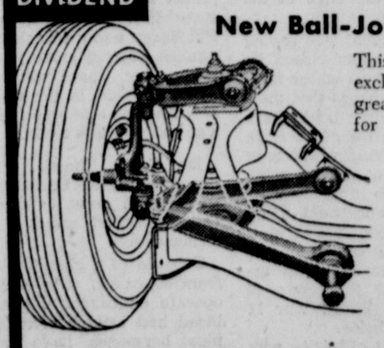


The new 115-h.p. I-block SIX



RIDE DIVIDEND

New Ball-Joint Front Suspension



This revolutionary new suspension is exclusive to Ford in its field. It allows greater up and down wheel travel for a smoother ride. And it helps keep wheels in true alignment for consistently easy handling. Movement of the wheels is on ball joints, whether in up and down motion as wheels travel over rough spots, or in steering motion as wheels turn right or left. Lubrication points are cut from sixteen to four.

The greatest engine advances since the original FORD V-8

TWENTY-TWO YEARS AGO Ford introduced to the low-price field a fine-quality precision-engineered V-8 engine. This basic design—soon to become famous throughout the world—quickly established a new standard of performance for low-priced cars. And now, with its 22 years' experience in building over 13,000,000 V-8's, it is only logical that Ford is first in its field to introduce a brand new type of V-8—the Y-block V-8 . . . together with the most modern Six in the industry—the new and advanced I-block Six.

Both new 1954 Ford engines have overhead valves for most efficient high-compression operation on today's fuels. Valves are free-breathing to give you the most GO . . . free-turning to seat tightly and maintain high compression. Both engines have a deep-cast block with skirt that extends well below the crankshaft for greater strength and rigidity . . . smoother, quieter performance and extra-long engine life. Their modern short-stroke, low-friction design cuts friction losses . . . gives you more usable horsepower, more miles per gallon of gasoline. And new high-turbulence combustion chambers assure a more thorough mixing of fuel and air for faster, more efficient firing of fuel.

Plan to Test Drive a '54 Ford. You'll find these new Ford power plants stand out as the greatest engine advances since the original Ford V-8.

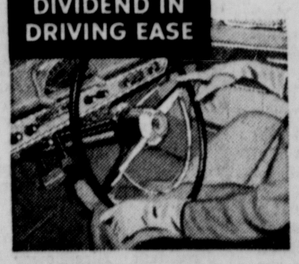
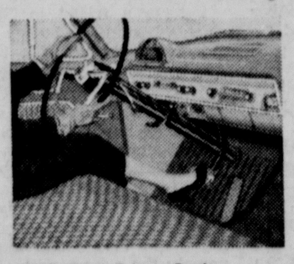
DIVIDEND IN DRIVING EASE



Master-Guide Power Steering

It does up to 75% of your steering work for you, when you need it . . . makes parking a pleasure. Yet it leaves you with the normal feel of steering on the straight-away. And, in addition, it cushions out steering wheel "shock" on rough roads.



Swift Sure Power Brakes

Power does up to one-third of the work of stopping for you! You are more relaxed in the stop and go driving of congested traffic. And should the system ever lose its power, no more effort is required to make a stop than with conventional brakes.

Power-Lift Windows

Smooth, silent electric power opens or closes windows at the touch of a button. There's a master control beside driver plus an individual control under each window. You may operate any of the Power-Lift Windows safely while driving.

4-Way Power Seat

You push one of two controls and the front seat goes up or down . . . push the other and it goes front or back. It's a real convenience when different people have to drive—or when you want to change position to relieve fatigue or avoid sun glare.

Fordomatic Drive

It combines the best in "automatic" engineering to give you the most versatile automatic shifting ever. You get the smoothness of a fluid torque converter, the "go" of an automatic intermediate gear. Ford also offers gas-saving Overdrive.

While Flies Eat

Scientists have not given up the battle against one annoying and dangerous pest—the fly. They have been forced to admit that DDT is not the ultimate weapon against this enemy of man, and in fact only results in DDT-resistant strains when the chemical is used repeatedly. But they are adamant in their determination to win.

This they hope to do by a procedure reminiscent of a famous political aphorism that goes, "If you can't lick 'em, jine 'em." That is, the scientists are studying fly psychology in the hope of discovering where the insect is vulnerable.

At the recent meeting of the Entomological Society of America at Los Angeles, two researchers described work they have done in this direction.

Dr. Bernard Greenberg of the University of Kansas reported that houseflies have pepsin in their systems. This was an eye-opener, for it had been believed that they didn't have this enzyme that helps meat-eating animals digest protein.

Also, if a fly's interior arrangements are not as different from those of animals as had been thought, then some of the conclusions based on that supposition may be wrong and the problem can be attacked from some new angles.

Along the same general line, Dr. W. Chefurka of the Canadian government's experimental station at London, Ont., reported that he has determined the steps by which houseflies break down carbohydrates. He says the process involves a whole series of changes. One or more of them may be prevented, perhaps, by some simple chemical. If so, the insects will be poisoned or they will starve to death. While flies eat, there's hope—hope, that is, that they can be fed something that will not agree with them.

TV—Black and Blue

Several of the major television manufacturers are taking roundhouse swings at each other over the sharing of credit for development of the compatible system of TV broadcast and reception.

The compatible system, which permits a color telecast to be viewed on any of the present monochrome tube sets, was approved last month by the Federal Communications Commission as a standard method of telecast. It is admittedly in a crude stage, provides a picture limited to 11½-inch size and sets will cost four or five times as much as a comparable size black and white set.

But the major setmakers are proceeding on the theory that they have something that will sell as soon as it hits the market, although the chief engineer of one major manufacturer is quoted by a Chicago newspaper as saying he wonders whether the industry has hit upon a "Rube Goldberg contraption" this time.

Currently the major setmakers are in a squabble over the wording of a newspaper advertisement published by the Radio Corporation of America. RCA's ad was headlined "RCA Wins Fight for Compatible Color Television." Immediately Philco ordered ads to say that the newly-approved system was not the work of any one company and listed 42 organizations that had contributed technical knowledge and backing.

Two other major manufacturers, Zenith and Admiral, have now aired their feelings about the RCA claim and none of the comments are what might be termed friendly.

Presumably, the manufacturers are convinced there is a great deal of prestige at stake — prestige which can be a weighty sales factor if color TV is improved and "catches on."

Perils Of The Sea

The wintry Atlantic isn't often cheated of seafaring lives as quickly and competently as it was the other morning a few hundred miles off Newfoundland. The setting was well rigged for tragedy at sea.

A Swedish freighter, named quite inappropriately "Oklahoma," radioed that its hull had cracked in heavy, twisting seas but that she was proceeding on a course for Boston at reduced speed. This set in motion a chain of events which, in any day and age, marks man's instinctive reaction to the perils of the sea and a ship in distress.

Rescue plans were pushed at full speed following a second ominous message that the ship had broken in two. A U. S. naval vessel and a Finnish freighter, both eastbound, altered course to converge on the estimated position of the foundered ship. Salvage tugs and a coast guard cutter headed for the spot where four life boats, with 43 persons aboard, were bobbing and pitching in the heavy weather.

Winter twilight closed in before the rescue ships could reach the lifeboats. Then life boat flares were sighted, and under the most trying conditions the captain and 35 crew members of the Oklahoma were taken aboard the Navy cargo ship Bluejacket. The Finnish freighter took aboard those who were in the fourth lifeboat.

Such a feat requires smart seamanship on the part of the skipper and precise work on the part of his crew. At night the perils of the sea are greatly intensified.

New Filipino Leader

Ramon Magsaysay, new president of the Philippines, has qualities of greatness, in the opinion of many competent observers of the Far East. What he lacks in polish and worldly savvy he makes up in ability and in devotion to principles of freedom and justice.

It was the former guerilla chief of World War II who licked the Red-inspired Huks and gave the Philippine army new strength. His election to the presidency was assured when Carlos Romulo, another strong candidate, withdrew from the race and threw his support to Magsaysay.

If Magsaysay is a man of destiny it is because he seems equipped by training and talents to lead the Philippines further into a major role in the Orient. Under wise leadership the islands, in partnership with America, can perform great services to the cause of peace and become a bastion of Western defense as solid as Corregidor Rock in Manila Bay.

A man of Magsaysay's stamp can indeed be a man of destiny at the edge of Asia. The continued progress of the Philippines under the island's own flag, cooperating with the anti-Communist world, cannot escape the notice of the people of India and the people of China later on.

The Philippines may have reached the status of a key factor in preventing what some prophets believe must, some day, be a colossal East-West conflict.

How To Keep Well

Nature's Cure Of Constipation

A 60 year old woman wanted to be cured of constipation. She had endured the condition since the age of 15 and, for the last quarter of a century, had been able to keep it under control with a mild laxative. After a thoro examination she was told to continue her medication because lifelong habits are difficult to overcome. Furthermore, the laxative she was using was so gentle, the bowel had not been harmed. In all probability the product has become part of the habit and, after all those years, had as much effect as the morning cigaret or glass of warm water in stimulating the daily movement.

Laxatives are time honored for constipation but most physicians are against their usage because they hate to see anyone become a slave to a tablet or pill. When constipation exists, an enema or a suppository is preferred to a purge for several reasons. It is natural for waste to accumulate in the rectum until a suitable time for elimination. Some individuals consider themselves constipated when they fail to develop the urge. Others are unconcerned unless they miss going every third day because they have found thru experience that this schedule does no harm. This is normal. At any rate, it is more logical to wash out this residue via an enema than to force it out with a strong cathartic which throws the entire gastrointestinal tract into turmoil. In addition, the enema does no harm to the tissues even when used daily over a long period.

The best treatment for constipation is nature's remedy. Drink plenty of fluids to overcome dehydration. Fruits and vegetables supply bulk, which steps up the activity of the bowel; figs, prunes, raisins, apples, and apricots are excellent as well as cabbage, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, celery, broccoli, tomatoes, squash, asparagus, onions, cucumbers, and spinach. Many find a green salad for lunch or dinner a satisfactory procedure.

Set aside five minutes each day for the chore. It is best to select the same time each day and most persons prefer the period after breakfast. The bowel rests all night and the first meal of the day stimulates the churning movements of the intestines which in turn sends more waste into the rectum. As the material accumulates, the wall stretches to impart the call; when the individual always responds to the urge, the reflex remains acute and has a tendency to reappear whenever the rectum is filled. This is essential for regularity. But when the impulse is disregarded, the bowel no longer gives warning and when this stage is reached the person believes he is constipated, because he no longer receives the signal. But the bowel usually is normal and the mechanism still is present. By taking the time, many are able to have a movement and ultimately re-establish the habit. (Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope or leaflet on constipation.)

JUVENILE HEMORRHOIDS

T. N. writes: My 2-year-old son has hemorrhoids. Should they be treated the same as in adults?

REPLY

Yes, except that in youngsters medicines are stressed rather than surgery. True hemorrhoids in a child is a rare condition.

SPEECH AFTER STROKE

N. B. writes: Less than a year ago my grandmother suffered a stroke and lost her speech. Now she says only a few words like "yes" and "no," but on her birthday recently she started singing "Happy Birthday" along with the family. Do you think hypnotism would bring back her speech?

REPLY

Singing "Happy Birthday" is a hopeful sign but why not consult your grandmother's physician as he knows more about her condition.

BRAIN TUMOR

S. K. writes: What are the symptons of brain tumor?

REPLY

Some of the victims have no symptoms; others are bothered with headache, convulsions, and visual disturbances.

LEPROSY

P. B. writes: Is leprosy a skin or bone disease?

REPLY

The skin, mucous membranes, and nerves are involved.

ACNE SCAR REMOVER

T. V. writes: Is sandpaper helpful in removing scars left by acne?

REPLY

Some physicians are enthusiastic about the results. The latest procedure is the use of a motor-driven wire brush instead of sandpaper. The skin is anesthetized with ethyl chloride which is cooled to freezing temperature by directing a fan over the scarred area.

Wall Street Thinks Ike Drifting Too Far To Left; President Listens To His Staff Now, More Than To Millionaires

WASHINGTON — If you talk to Wall Street or to certain conservative GOP leaders today you would almost think that Franklin D. Roosevelt was in the White House. This results from the liberal advisers now influencing Ike and is the biggest change to come over the administration as it prepares to do battle with Congress.

One year ago the President leaned almost exclusively on millionaire businessmen for advice. Gen. Lucius Clay of Continental Can, Sidney Weinberg of the Goldmann-Sachs investment firm, Alton Jones of Cities Service, were not only golfing partners but business advisers. Today he still sees big-business advisers, but relies more on his White House staff.

Even millionaire Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, rated the closest cabinet member to Ike, does not have quite as much power as before.

Instead, here are the men who are chiefly charting the Eisenhower program through Congress in this the most crucial year of his administration.

The Palace Guard

Kevin McCann, president of the Defiance College, Ohio, a liberal on domestic issues, one of Ike's chief speech writers and advisers.

Dr. Arthur Burns, former Columbia professor, now chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, new dealish in his economic slant.

Charles Moore, former liberal public relations counsel to the Ford Motor Co., who helped stabilize Ike's drooping popularity.

C. D. Jackson, former publisher of Fortune magazine, chiefly responsible for Ike's atom-pool speech, also is credited with stopping the popularity sag.

Robert Cutler, Boston banker with liberal Republican ideas, close friend of Justice Felix Frankfurter who masterminded his appointment. Cutler is secretary of the National Security Council, to which Ike has entrusted deciding defense problems.

Max Rabb, assistant to Sherman Adams and adviser on immigration-minority problems; sometimes called the David Niles of the Eisenhower administration.

These are the men with whom Ike consults most of late, the men who have molded a program which they believe will win back both liberal Republican and Democratic support.

They realize, of course, that the time is late. But what they may not realize is the bitterness of right-wing GOP opposition and the fact that some of the latter are planning a conservative isolationist third party if Ike swings too far to the left.

Old-Age Pensions

Significant illustration of what Eisenhower is up against from GOP reactionaries and big business is the current backstage battle over old-age pensions. This affects several million oldsters, though few people understand what's been happening. Here are the two opposing factions battling inside the Republican party:

Faction No. 1 — The White House wants a liberalized social security bill with a $10 increase of old-age pensions, but paid for by spreading the salary base on which the wage-earner is taxed.

Faction No. 2 — Is headed by Congressman Curtis of Nebraska with the quiet support of Congressman Dan Reed of New York. They want liberalized pensions, but have adopted the U. S. Chamber of Commerce plan of paying for them by dipping into the trust fund already accumulated. This would make farmers and others, who originally said they didn't want pensions, now benefit from the funds deducted from the salaries of wage-earners.

Important for the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, this plan would reduce the general tax burden paid by business.

However, not even all Republican members of Curtis' subcommittee studying social security will accept the U. S. Chamber of Commerce formula. Here is the inside story of what happened.

When Nebraska's Curtis was made chairman of the subcommittee to study social security, he carefully avoided putting Bob Kean of New Jersey, a Republican who is an expert on the subject, on his committee. Instead he picked Republicans whom he described as "unprejudiced," but who actually knew little about pensions. They included GOP Congressmen Baker of Tennessee, Goodwin of Massachusetts and Tom Curtis of St. Louis, Mo.

Big-Business Staff

But he also picked a staff thoroughly prejudiced — in favor of the U. S. Chamber. They included: Rita Ricardo Campbell, wife of the U. S. Chamber's No. 2 economist; Howard Friend of the Indiana Chamber of Commerce which has now made the Indiana unemployment compensation program one of the weakest in the nation; and Karl Schlatterback of the Brookings Institute, long an opponent of social security.

Also on the Curtis staff are Howard Metz of the Brookings Institute, a rabid critic of social security and a drafter of the Taft-Hartley Act; and W. R. Williamson, formerly with Travelers' Insurance, but who has become so vigorous in his views that he has parted company from insurance groups.

This staff has now brought out a report. However, the congressmen for whom they made the report, namely the subcommittee, did not issue the report. And the reason they did not issue it is that Chairman Curtis knew he couldn't persuade them to sign.

Curtis himself issued a report, but not his committee. However, Resolution 243 instructing the Ways and Means Committee to study social security did not say it wanted a report from a staff. It specified that it wanted a report from congressmen themselves. Yet they haven't issued one.

Reason they haven't is that the staff report proposes transferring those on state relief rolls to the federal security $18,000,000,000 trust fund. Also it would let new pensioners, not having paid into this fund, benefit from what others paid in previously.

This would save the federal government money and reduce taxes to business, but White House advisers consider it inadvisable. The battle illustrates the cross fires Ike faces inside his own party.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

We Have Troubles Enough

I have always assumed that those employed by the Government of the United States were only required to be American citizens. I can find no reference in the Constitution insisting that any employe of the American government also be a Catholic, a Protestant or a Jew. Nor can I find that any application form for such employment includes a line stipulating religious affiliation. I was therefore shocked to read this paragraph in an article by Joseph C. Harsch, in "The Christian Science Monitor:"

"While the facts are not available in full, enough information has been gathered in Protestant circles ot make it clear that the activities of Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R) of Wisconsin have had the incidental effect, whether accidental or intentional, of increasing the proportion of Roman Catholics to Protestants employed in the public service."

"How would Mr. Harsch or anyone else know what the religion is of the more than 2,400,000 employes of the government of the United States? Has he or anyone else sent a questionnaire to each and every man and woman who works for Uncle Sam inquiring as to religious affiliation? Surely there are no statistics on the subject nor can there be. Unless Mr. Harsch can produce statistica, data, it must be accepted that his conclusion is reached on the basis of his private estimate.

Mr. Harsch further says:

"Inquiries by this reporter have failed to find a single Roman Catholic among employes dismissed from the State Department . . ."

This is an indirect insult to the Protestants. Some of those dismissed were subversives; some were homosexuals; some were blabber-mouths. The secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, is an important Protestant churchman. Are we to believe that John Foster Dulles, whose father is a Protestant clergyman, and who, himself, headed the principal Protestant organization in this country, discriminates against Protestants? Or are we to say no Catholic was a subversive, a homosexual or a blabber-mouth and that Dulles could find no one to dismiss? Both assumptions are equally untenable without more factual data than appears in Mr. Harsch's article. Surely so broad a statement requires some spelling out in detail, giving names and affiliations.

We have troubles enough in our country without anybody permitting private bigotry disturb the national unity of our people. Perhaps the most attractive factor of American life is the freedom to be different, to hold views that are not standard, to worship God according to each man's beliefs and traditions. Americans are of many faiths, including such as Buddhism, Confucianism, Bahamism, to say nothing about many forms of Christianity and Judaism.

And in a world that is embittered by bigotry and hatred, it is a source of pride to an American that he can enjoy the privilege of government employment without any confession of religious faith. He is only required to uphold and maintain the Constitution of the United States.

The statement that Protestants see ". . . a possibility that the open Roman Catholic attack on communism spearheaded by Senator McCarthy actually is directed as much against Protestantism at home as it is against the Kremlin abroad; even that Roman Catholic fervor against communism may turn out in the end to be primarily a vehicle for an assault on Protestanism," is unfortunate.

It is as unfortunate and as untruthful as saying that Jews are Communists and spies because a few scoundrels among us, such as Julius Rosenberg and Harry Dexter White, wandered from the morality of their ancestors. For every indecent Jew of that sort, I can name hundreds who serve their country well. It would be a stupid thing to do, however, because were it not true that most Americans, of whatever faith, are loyal to this country, we should have been captured by the Kremlin. To generalize from the particular is always illogical.

In the face of the frightful war that is being waged against our country, why do we have to divide on such an issue as religious beliefs? When our sons are killed in war, they die as Americans, whatever their creed or faith, or complexion. Only the Kremlin can benefit from bigotry in America; only America can lose by such divisions.

Being neither a Catholic nor a Protestant, I can be lovingly impartial in an appeal that they maintain a truce of God in the presence of Satan.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower is such a sincere and conscientious man that it is too bad his speech on television failed to gain for him the maximum effect which he deserved to get. This is because his speechwriters evidently haven't learned the difference between words written for the eye and those prepared for the ear.

Franklin D. Roosevelt and his successor, Harry Truman, both had the benefit of experts in short-sentence technique, who used simple, striking words that the average man could readily grasp over the radio. But Mr. Eisenhower's address of Monday night was one of his poorest—a lost opportunity, especially since television time is so precious and so many millions are reached by it.

The total impression, of course, will be on the favorable side. The listener or observer probably caught, at least, the spirit of the President's promise to use governmental power to help the average man. That's a big pledge, of course, but is not unusual nowadays and politically it has become the customary thing to promise in this social-welfare age.

Simple Words Better

Many of the sentences of the address, however, were ponderous and clumsy. The President could have made a big hit with the same theme—if he had dealt with it in simple words.

Not long ago Professor Rudolf Flesch of New York University wrote some textbooks in which he rated spoken words on the basis of their appeal to persons of different educational levels. He showed how, without talking down to people, words can be used that can be understood by lots more persons. Here are some examples. The President said:

"The fantastic paradox of farm prices, on a toboggan slide, while living costs soared skyward, has ceased."

That's a bit difficult to grasp by ear. It would have been better to have said: "'Farm prices have stopped falling. The cost of living is no longer going up."

Another point made by the President was worded this way:

"Tax reductions which go into effect this month have been made financially feasible by substantial reductions in expenditures."

It could have been phrased better for the ear this way:

"We are cutting down your taxes beginning this month. We couldn't have done this if we hadn't cut down government expenses."

The average man doesn't like to try to guess what "financially feasible" means. He wants to know if taxes are coming down and he understands that, if you first cut expenses, you can then cut taxes.

Another sentence in the speech claimed this point as an accomplishment:

"Strangling controls on our economy have been promptly removed."

This is a lot of big words. The President might have said: "We've gotten rid of wage controls and price controls and those controls over the supply of goods which were needed for the Korean War."

There were other points mentioned which also were abstract and vague. Thus, the average man will get little out of this sentence: "The proper working relationship between the executive and legislative branches of the federal government has been made effective." Maybe the political-science professors will understand it.

Even more confusing to listen to was this sentence in the President's address: "The cheapening by inflation of every dollar you earn, every savings account and insurance policy you own, and every pension payment you receive has been halted."

Better Writers Needed

It would have sounded better thus: "We've stopped the inflation which has been cheapening every dollar you earn, every savings account, every insurance policy and every payment of pensions to our retired folks."

There was another sentence which left the listener a bit puzzled. The President listed as an "accomplishment" the following: "The fighting and the casualties in Korea mercifully have come to an end. We can therefore take more satisfaction in other blessings of our daily life."

Why the "other"? Certainly the Korean War was no blessing to anybody.

Finally, the President referred to "emergency immigration legislation" without telling his audience what it was. He then went on to the next point: "A strong and consistent policy has been developed toward gaining and retaining the initiative in foreign affairs."

It would be interesting to know what proportion of the television public knows what the President meant by the "initiative in foreign affairs."

It's just too bad that Mr. Eisenhower doesn't have a better speechwriting staff—there are dozens of experts in the television companies who would gladly have translated his address into conversational television English. It was billed in advance as a "chat."

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK —(INS)— The true tragedy in the case of the 21 GIs who have chosen to remain on the wrong side of the wire in Korea is that public interest in their strange tale has obscured a much more significant and poignant story of that war.

Generally ignored in the excitement over the de-defection of one Claude Batchelor, for instance, was a sombre notice from the Defense Department. It quietly announced during the period of Batchelor's platitudinous reports, after he obtained freedom, that 3,000 (plus) men previously declared "missing" must now be presumed to be dead. The families were so notified by wire.

That brought the U. S. death rate in Korea to the edge of the 30,000 mark.

What the department was saying in effect is that it has closed its books on a host of men whose families still hold high hopes that their loved ones were alive somewhere behind the Iron Curtain. The Reds have a habit of taking whole men and wounded men and nursing them back to health in the hope of putting them to work and using them in other ways. There is a standing demand by Germany and Japan that the Soviet Union release hundreds of thousands of "missing" men of World War II it apparently still holds.

But we have said officially now that our "missing" are dead.

Families with boys listed as "missing" never really close the books, as over-worked and sometimes impatient Defense Department officers will attest.

I have a friend in New York named Lepselter who has searched the world for his son, in person and by printed appeal. The boy was shot down in France in July, 1944, in a plane that carried a crew of three. Two bodies were recovered. Sgt. Lepselter remains very much alive in the minds and hearts of his mother and father. Now and then the family receives scraps of information that sustain their belief. They could not conceivably consider him dead.

There will be other Lepselters among the recipients of the Defense Department telegrams of last week. There will be families, too, which will want to know why all this loving attention is being paid to men who took the easy way out in Korea and why, apparently, so little was done to protect the "missing."

Some of the "missing" were subjected to rigors and probably tortures that cost them their lives. But Korea was a war that militates against international justice ever being done. There will be no war criminal trials in the wake of Korea. And for a simple reason. This was one we didn't win.

Dr. C. P. Rhoads, director of the Sloan-Kettering Institute, has issued that great cancer center's bi-ennial report, and it is generally encouraging.

Because of a chemical prepared from soybeans, it is now safer to operate on cancer patients whose blood had trouble clotting. X-rays plus hormones have become a blessing in breast cancer. A new treatment for leukemia, 6-mercaptopurine, is making quiet history in the world of research. Seventy per cent of sufferers from widespread thyroid cancer can now be treated by radioactive iodine, as compared to 15 per cent a few years ago. Human cancer tissues of several types can now be grown and transplanted from animal to animal.

Top forms of cancer in animals, leukemia and cancer of the adrenal gland, now can be prevented by administration of steroid hormones.

God speed the day.

President Eisenhower is not only an enthusiastic golfer but a silent one.

One who played in a foursome with the chief executive not long ago reported, upon arrival at the 19th hole, that the President uttered only one sentence during the previous 18 holes.

"He said, 'Well, a five beats a six.'"

While Flies Eat

Scientists have not given up the battle against one annoying and dangerous pest—the fly. They have been forced to admit that DDT is not the ultimate weapon against this enemy of man, and in fact only results in DDT-resistant strains when the chemical is used repeatedly. But they are adamant in their determination to win.

This they hope to do by a procedure reminiscent of a famous political aphorism that goes, "If you can't lick 'em, jine 'em." That is, the scientists are studying fly psychology in the hope of discovering where the insect is vulnerable.

At the recent meeting of the Entomological Society of America at Los Angeles, two researchers described work they have done in this direction.

Dr. Bernard Greenberg of the University of Kansas reported that houseflies have pepsin in their systems. This was an eye-opener, for it had been believed that they didn't have this enzyme that helps meat-eating animals digest protein.

Also, if a fly's interior arrangements are not as different from those of animals as had been thought, then some of the conclusions based on that supposition may be wrong and the problem can be attacked from some new angles.

Along the same general line, Dr. W. Chefurka of the Canadian government's experimental station at London, Ont., reported that he has determined the steps by which houseflies break down carbohydrates. He says the process involves a whole series of changes. One or more of them may be prevented, perhaps, by some simple chemical. If so, the insects will be poisoned or they will starve to death. While flies eat, there's hope—hope, that is, that they can be fed something that will not agree with them.

TV–Black and Blue

Several of the major television manufacturers are taking roundhouse swings at each other over the sharing of credit for development of the compatible system of TV broadcast and reception.

The compatible system, which permits a color telecast to be viewed on any of the present monochrome tube sets, was approved last month by the Federal Communications Commission as a standard method of telecast. It is admittedly in a crude stage, provides a picture limited to 11½-inch size and sets will cost four or five times as much as a comparable size black and white set.

But the major setmakers are proceeding on the theory that they have something that will sell as soon as it hits the market, although the chief engineer of one major manufacturer is quoted by a Chicago newspaper as saying he wonders whether the industry has hit upon a "Rube Goldberg contraption" this time.

Currently the major setmakers are in a squabble over the wording of a newspaper advertisement published by the Radio Corporation of America. RCA's ad was headlined "RCA Wins Fight for Compatible Color Television." Immediately Philco ordered ads to say that the newly-approved system was not the work of any one company and listed 42 organizations that had contributed technical knowledge and backing.

Two other major manufacturers, Zenith and Admiral, have now aired their feelings about the RCA claim and none of the comments are what might be termed friendly.

Presumably, the manufacturers are convinced there is a great deal of prestige at stake — prestige which can be a weighty sales factor if color TV is improved and "catches on."

Perils Of The Sea

The wintry Atlantic isn't often cheated of seafaring lives as quickly and competently as it was the other morning a few hundred miles off Newfoundland. The setting was well rigged for tragedy at sea.

A Swedish freighter, named quite inappropriately "Oklahoma," radioed that its hull had cracked in heavy, twisting seas but that she was proceeding on a course for Boston at reduced speed. This set in motion a chain of events which, in any day and age, marks man's instinctive reaction to the perils of the sea and a ship in distress.

Rescue plans were pushed at full speed following a second ominous message that the ship had broken in two. A U. S. naval vessel and a Finnish freighter, both eastbound, altered course to converge on the estimated position of the foundered ship. Salvage tugs and a coast guard cutter headed for the spot where four life boats, with 43 persons aboard, were bobbing and pitching in the heavy weather.

Winter twilight closed in before the rescue ships could reach the lifeboats. Then life boat flares were sighted, and under the most trying conditions the captain and 35 crew members of the Oklahoma were taken aboard the Navy cargo ship Bluejacket. The Finnish freighter took aboard those who were in the fourth lifeboat.

Such a feat requires smart seamanship on the part of the skipper and precise work on the part of his crew. At night the perils of the sea are greatly intensified.

New Filipino Leader

Ramon Magsaysay, new president of the Philippines, has qualities of greatness, in the opinion of many competent observers of the Far East. What he lacks in polish and worldly savvy he makes up in ability and in devotion to principles of freedom and justice.

It was the former guerilla chief of World War II who licked the Red-inspired Huks and gave the Philippine army new strength. His election to the presidency was assured when Carlos Romulo, another strong candidate, withdrew from the race and threw his support to Magsaysay.

If Magsaysay is a man of destiny it is because he seems equipped by training and talents to lead the Philippines further into a major role in the Orient. Under wise leadership the islands, in partnership with America, can perform great services to the cause of peace and become a bastion of Western defense as solid as Corregidor Rock in Manila Bay.

A man of Magsaysay's stamp can indeed be a man of destiny at the edge of Asia. The continued progress of the Philippines under the island's own flag, cooperating with the anti-Communist world, cannot escape the notice of the people of India and the people of China later on.

The Philippines may have reached the status of a key factor in preventing what some prophets believe must, some day, be a colossal East-West conflict.

How To Keep Well

Nature's Cure Of Constipation

A 60 year old woman wanted to be cured of constipation. She had endured the condition since the age of 15 and, for the last quarter of a century, had been able to keep it under control with a mild laxative. After a thoro examination she was told to continue her medication because lifelong habits are difficult to overcome. Furthermore, the laxative she was using was so gentle, the bowel had not been harmed. In all probability the product has become part of the habit and, after all those years, had as much effect as the morning cigaret or glass of warm water in stimulating the daily movement.

Laxatives are time honored for constipation but most physicians are against their usage because they hate to see anyone become a slave to a tablet or pill. When constipation exists, an enema or a suppository is preferred to a purge for several reasons. It is natural for waste to accumulate in the rectum until a suitable time for elimination. Some individuals consider themselves constipated when they fail to develop the urge. Others are unconcerned unless they miss going every third day because they have found thru experience that this schedule does no harm. This is normal. At any rate, it is more logical to wash out this residue via an enema than to force it out with a strong cathartic which throws the entire gastrointestinal tract into turmoil. In addition, the enema does no harm to the tissues even when used daily over a long period.

The best treatment for constipation is nature's remedy. Drink plenty of fluids to overcome dehydration. Fruits and vegetables supply bulk, which steps up the activity of the bowel; figs, prunes, raisins, apples, and apricots are excellent as well as cabbage, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, celery, broccoli, tomatoes, squash, asparagus, onions, cucumbers, and spinach. Many find a green salad for lunch or dinner a satisfactory procedure.

Set aside five minutes each day for the chore. It is best to select the same time each day and most persons prefer the period after breakfast. The bowel rests all night and the first meal of the day stimulates the churning movements of the intestines which in turn sends more waste into the rectum. As the material accumulates, the wall stretches to impart the call; when the individual always responds to the urge, the reflex remains acute and has a tendency to reappear whenever the rectum is filled. This is essential for regularity. But when the impulse is disregarded, the bowel no longer gives warning and when this stage is reached the person believes he is constipated, because he no longer receives the signal. But the bowel usually is normal and the mechanism still is present. By taking the time, many are able to have a movement and ultimately re-establish the habit. (Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope or leaflet on constipation.)

JUVENILE HEMORRHOIDS

T. N. writes: My 2-year-old son has hemorrhoids. Should they be treated the same as in adults?

REPLY

Yes, except that in youngsters medicines are stressed rather than surgery. True hemorrhoids in a child is a rare condition.

SPEECH AFTER STROKE

N. B. writes: Less than a year ago my grandmother suffered a stroke and lost her speech. Now she says only a few words like "yes" and "no," but on her birthday recently she started singing "Happy Birthday" along with the family. Do you think hypnotism would bring back her speech?

REPLY

Singing "Happy Birthday" is a hopeful sign but why not consult your grandmother's physician as he knows more about her condition.

BRAIN TUMOR

S. K. writes: What are the symptons of brain tumor?

REPLY

Some of the victims have no symptoms; others are bothered with headache, convulsions, and visual disturbances.

LEPROSY

P. B. writes: Is leprosy a skin or bone disease?

REPLY

The skin, mucous membranes, and nerves are involved.

ACNE SCAR REMOVER

T. V. writes: Is sandpaper helpful in removing scars left by acne?

REPLY

Some physicians are enthusiastic about the results. The latest procedure is the use of a motor-driven wire brush instead of sandpaper. The skin is anesthetized with ethyl chloride which is cooled to freezing temperature by directing a fan over the scarred area.

Wall Street Thinks Ike Drifting Too Far To Left; President Listens To His Staff Now, More Than To Millionaires

WASHINGTON — If you talk to Wall Street or to certain conservative GOP leaders today you would almost think that Franklin D. Roosevelt was in the White House. This results from the liberal advisers now influencing Ike and is the biggest change to come over the administration as it prepares to do battle with Congress.

One year ago the President leaned almost exclusively on millionaire businessmen for advice. Gen. Lucius Clay of Continental Can, Sidney Weinberg of the Goldmann-Sachs investment firm, Alton Jones of Cities Service, were not only golfing partners but business advisers. Today he still sees big-business advisers, but relies more on his White House staff.

Even millionaire Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, rated the closest cabinet member to Ike, does not have quite as much power as before.

Instead, here are the men who are chiefly charting the Eisenhower program through Congress in this the most crucial year of his administration.

The Palace Guard

Kevin McCann, president of the Defiance College, Ohio, a liberal on domestic issues, one of Ike's chief speech writers and advisers.

Dr. Arthur Burns, former Columbia professor, now chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, new dealish in his economic slant.

Charles Moore, former liberal public relations counsel to the Ford Motor Co., who helped stabilize Ike's drooping popularity.

C. D. Jackson, former publisher of Fortune magazine, chiefly responsible for Ike's atom-pool speech, also is credited with stopping the popularity sag.

Robert Cutler, Boston banker with liberal Republican ideas, close friend of Justice Felix Frankfurter who masterminded his appointment. Cutler is secretary of the National Security Council, to which Ike has entrusted deciding defense problems.

Max Rabb, assistant to Sherman Adams and adviser on immigration-minority problems; sometimes called the David Niles of the Eisenhower administration.

These are the men with whom Ike consults most of late, the men who have molded a program which they believe will win back both liberal Republican and Democratic support.

They realize, of course, that the time is late. But what they may not realize is the bitterness of right-wing GOP opposition and the fact that some of the latter are planning a conservative isolationist third party if Ike swings too far to the left.

Old-Age Pensions

Significant illustration of what Eisenhower is up against from GOP reactionaries and big business is the current backstage battle over old-age pensions. This affects several million oldsters, though few people understand what's been happening. Here are the two opposing factions battling inside the Republican party:

Faction No. 1 — The White House wants a liberalized social security bill with a $10 increase of old-age pensions, but paid for by spreading the salary base on which the wage-earner is taxed.

Faction No. 2 — Is headed by Congressman Curtis of Nebraska with the quiet support of Congressman Dan Reed of New York. They want liberalized pensions, but have adopted the U. S. Chamber of Commerce plan of paying for them by dipping into the trust fund already accumulated. This would make farmers and others, who originally said they didn't want pensions, now benefit from the funds deducted from the salaries of wage-earners.

Important for the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, this plan would reduce the general tax burden paid by business.

However, not even all Republican members of Curtis' subcommittee studying social security will accept the U. S. Chamber of Commerce formula. Here is the inside story of what happened.

When Nebraska's Curtis was made chairman of the subcommittee to study social security, he carefully avoided putting Bob Kean of New Jersey, a Republican who is an expert on the subject, on his committee. Instead he picked Republicans whom he described as "unprejudiced," but who actually knew little about pensions. They included GOP Congressmen Baker of Tennessee, Goodwin of Massachusetts and Tom Curtis of St. Louis, Mo.

Big-Business Staff

But he also picked a staff thoroughly prejudiced — in favor of the U. S. Chamber. They included: Rita Ricardo Campbell, wife of the U. S. Chamber's No. 2 economist; Howard Friend of the Indiana Chamber of Commerce which has now made the Indiana unemployment compensation program one of the weakest in the nation; and Karl Schlatterback of the Brookings Institute, long an opponent of social security.

Also on the Curtis staff are Howard Metz of the Brookings Institute, a rabid critic of social security and a drafter of the Taft-Hartley Act; and W. R. Williamson, formerly with Travelers' Insurance, but who has become so vigorous in his views that he has parted company from insurance groups.

This staff has now brought out a report. However, the congressmen for whom they made the report, namely the subcommittee, did not issue the report. And the reason they did not issue it is that Chairman Curtis knew he couldn't persuade them to sign.

Curtis himself issued a report, but not his committee. However, Resolution 243 instructing the Ways and Means Committee to study social security did not say it wanted a report from a staff. It specified that it wanted a report from congressmen themselves. Yet they haven't issued one.

Reason they haven't is that the staff report proposes transferring those on state relief rolls to the federal security $18,000,000,000 trust fund. Also it would let new pensioners, not having paid into this fund, benefit from what others paid in previously.

This would save the federal government money and reduce taxes to business, but White House advisers consider it inadvisable. The battle illustrates the cross fires Ike faces inside his own party.

We Have Troubles Enough

I have always assumed that those employed by the Government of the United States were only required to be American citizens. I can find no reference in the Constitution insisting that any employe of the American government also be a Catholic, a Protestant or a Jew. Nor can I find that any application form for such employment includes a line stipulating religious affiliation. I was therefore shocked to read this paragraph in an article by Joseph C. Harsch, in "The Christian Science Monitor:"

"While the facts are not available in full, enough information has been gathered in Protestant circles ot make it clear that the activities of Senator Joseph R. "How would Mr. Harsch or anyone else know what the religion is of the more than 2,400,000 employes of the government of the United States? Has he or anyone else sent a questionnaire to each and every man and woman who works for Uncle Sam inquiring as to religious affiliation? Surely there are no statistics on the subject nor can there be. Unless Mr. Harsch can produce statistical data, it must be accepted that his conclusion is reached on the basis of his private estimate.

Mr. Harsch further says:

"Inquiries by this reporter have failed to find a single Roman Catholic among employes dismissed from the State Department . . ."

This is an indirect insult to the Protestants. Some of those dismissed were subversives; some were homosexuals; some were blabber-mouths. The secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, is an important Protestant churchman. Are we to believe that John Foster Dulles, whose father is a Protestant clergyman, and who, himself, headed the principal Protestant organization in this country, discriminates against Protestants? Or are we to say no Catholic was a subversive, a homosexual or a blabber-mouth and that Dulles could find no one to dismiss? Both assumptions are equally untenable without more factual data than appears in Mr. Harsch's article. Surely so broad a statement requires some spelling out in detail, giving names and affiliations.

We have troubles enough in our country without anybody permitting private bigotry disturb the national unity of our people. Perhaps the most attractive factor of American life is the freedom to be different, to hold views that are not standard, to worship God according to each man's beliefs and traditions. Americans are of many faiths, including such as Buddhism, Confucianism, Bahamism, to say nothing about many forms of Christianity and Judaism.

And in a world that is embittered by bigotry and hatred, it is a source of pride to an American that he can enjoy the privilege of government employment without any confession of religious faith. He is only required to uphold and maintain the Constitution of the United States.

The statement that Protestants see ". . . a possibility that the open Roman Catholic attack on communism spearheaded by Senator McCarthy actually is directed as much against Protestantism at home as it is against the Kremlin abroad; even that Roman Catholic fervor against communism may turn out in the end to be primarily a vehicle for an assault on Protestanism," is unfortunate.

It is as unfortunate and as untruthful as saying that Jews are Communists and spies because a few scoundrels among us, such as Julius Rosenberg and Harry Dexter White, wandered from the morality of their ancestors. For every indecent Jew of that sort, I can name hundreds who serve their country well. It would be a stupid thing to do, however, because were it not true that most Americans, of whatever faith, are loyal to this country, we should have been captured by the Kremlin. To generalize from the particular is always illogical.

In the face of the frightful war that is being waged against our country, why do we have to divide on such an issue as religious beliefs? When our sons are killed in war, they die as Americans, whatever their creed or faith, or complexion. Only the Kremlin can benefit from bigotry in America; only America can lose by such divisions.

Being neither a Catholic nor a Protestant, I can be lovingly impartial in an appeal that they maintain a truce of God in the presence of Satan.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower is such a sincere and conscientious man that it is too bad his speech on television failed to gain for him the maximum effect which he deserved to get. This is because his speechwriters evidently haven't learned the difference between words written for the eye and those prepared for the ear.

Franklin D. Roosevelt and his successor, Harry Truman, both had the benefit of experts in short-sentence technique, who used simple, striking words that the average man could readily grasp over the radio. But Mr. Eisenhower's address of Monday night was one of his poorest—a lost opportunity, especially since television time is so precious and so many millions are reached by it.

The total impression, of course, will be on the favorable side. The listener or observer probably caught, at least, the spirit of the President's promise to use governmental power to help the average man. That's a big pledge, of course, but is not unusual nowadays and politically it has become the customary thing to promise in this social-welfare age.

Simple Words Better

Many of the sentences of the address, however, were ponderous and clumsy. The President could have made a big hit with the same theme—if he had dealt with it in simple words.

Not long ago Professor Rudolf Flesch of New York University wrote some textbooks in which he rated spoken words on the basis of their appeal to persons of different educational levels. He showed how, without talking down to people, words can be used that can be understood by lots more persons. Here are some examples. The President said:

"The fantastic paradox of farm prices, on a toboggan slide, while living costs soared skyward, has ceased."

That's a bit difficult to grasp by ear. It would have been better to have said: "'Farm prices have stopped falling. The cost of living is no longer going up."

Another point made by the President was worded this way:

"Tax reductions which go into effect this month have been made financially feasible by substantial reductions in expenditures."

It could have been phrased better for the ear this way:

"We are cutting down your taxes beginning this month. We couldn't have done this if we hadn't cut down government expenses."

The average man doesn't like to try to guess what "financially feasible" means. He wants to know if taxes are coming down and he understands that, if you first cut expenses, you can then cut taxes.

Another sentence in the speech claimed this point as an accomplishment:

"Strangling controls on our economy have been promptly removed."

This is a lot of big words. The President might have said: "We've gotten rid of wage controls and price controls and those controls over the supply of goods which were needed for the Korean War."

There were other points mentioned which also were abstract and vague. Thus, the average man will get little out of this sentence: "The proper working relationship between the executive and legislative branches of the federal government has been made effective." Maybe the political-science professors will understand it.

Even more confusing to listen to was this sentence in the President's address: "The cheapening by inflation of every dollar you earn, every savings account and insurance policy you own, and every pension payment you receive has been halted."

Better Writers Needed

It would have sounded better thus: "We've stopped the inflation which has been cheapening every dollar you earn, every savings account, every insurance policy and every payment of pensions to our retired folks."

There was another sentence which left the listener a bit puzzled. The President listed as an "accomplishment" the following: "The fighting and the casualties in Korea mercifully have come to an end. We can therefore take more satisfaction in other blessings of our daily life."

Why the "other"? Certainly the Korean War was no blessing to anybody.

Finally, the President referred to "emergency immigration legislation" without telling his audience what it was. He then went on to the next point: "A strong and consistent policy has been developed toward gaining and retaining the initiative in foreign affairs."

It would be interesting to know what proportion of the television public knows what the President meant by the "initiative in foreign affairs."

It's just too bad that Mr. Eisenhower doesn't have a better speechwriting staff—there are dozens of experts in the television companies who would gladly have translated his address into conversational television English. It was billed in advance as a "chat."

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK —(INS)— The true tragedy in the case of the 21 GIs who have chosen to remain on the wrong side of the wire in Korea is that public interest in their strange tale has obscured a much more significant and poignant story of that war.

Generally ignored in the excitement over the de-defection of one Claude Batchelor, for instance, was a sombre notice from the Defense Department. It quietly announced during the period of Batchelor's platitudinous reports, after he obtained freedom, that 3,000 (plus) men previously declared "missing" must now be presumed to be dead. The families were so notified by wire.

That brought the U. S. death rate in Korea to the edge of the 30,000 mark.

What the department was saying in effect is that it has closed its books on a host of men whose families still hold high hopes that their loved ones were alive somewhere behind the Iron Curtain. The Reds have a habit of taking whole men and wounded men and nursing them back to health in the hope of putting them to work and using them in other ways. There is a standing demand by Germany and Japan that the Soviet Union release hundreds of thousands of "missing" men of World War II it apparently still holds.

But we have said officially now that our "missing" are dead.

Families with boys listed as "missing" never really close the books, as over-worked and sometimes impatient Defense Department officers will attest.

I have a friend in New York named Lepselter who has searched the world for his son, in person and by printed appeal. The boy was shot down in France in July, 1944, in a plane that carried a crew of three. Two bodies were recovered. Sgt. Lepselter remains very much alive in the minds and hearts of his mother and father. Now and then the family receives scraps of information that sustain their belief. They could not conceivably consider him dead.

There will be other Lepselters among the recipients of the Defense Department telegrams of last week. There will be families, too, which will want to know why all this loving attention is being paid to men who took the easy way out in Korea and why, apparently, so little was done to protect the "missing."

Some of the "missing" were subjected to rigors and probably tortures that cost them their lives. But Korea was a war that militates against international justice ever being done. There will be no war criminal trials in the wake of Korea. And for a simple reason. This was one we didn't win.

Dr. C. P. Rhoads, director of the Sloan-Kettering Institute, has issued that great cancer center's bi-ennial report, and it is generally encouraging.

Because of a chemical prepared from soybeans, it is now safer to operate on cancer patients whose blood had trouble clotting. X-rays plus hormones have become a blessing in breast cancer. A new treatment for leukemia, 6-mercaptopurine, is making quiet history in the world of research. Seventy per cent of sufferers from widespread thyroid cancer can now be treated by radioactive iodine, as compared to 15 per cent a few years ago. Human cancer tissues of several types can now be grown and transplanted from animal to animal.

Top forms of cancer in animals, leukemia and cancer of the adrenal gland, now can be prevented by administration of steroid hormones.

God speed the day.

President Eisenhower is not only an enthusiastic golfer but a silent one.

One who played in a foursome with the chief executive not long ago reported, upon arrival at the 19th hole, that the President uttered only one sentence during the previous 18 holes.

"He said, 'Well, a five beats a six.'"

Russians Live Amid Constant Propaganda Din But Ignore It

(EDITOR'S NOTE—An American in the Soviet Union hears all sorts of stories about the United States. They are the fruit of a din on never-ceasing propaganda. In another of his series of articles, William L. Ryan tells of the propaganda — and of the questions Russians propounded to him).

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Loudspeakers constantly blast propaganda into the streets of the Soviet republics' capitals.

Nobody seems to be paying the slightest attention. It is as if the people had an immunity to the fretful nagging voices which never seem to tire of saying the same things.

Aged women sweep away endlessly at the streets, utterly oblivious to the loudspeakers above them laying down the principles of "socialist competition."

On Stalin Street in Tashkent, capital of the Uzbek S.R.R., a loudspeaker above a movie theater blasts a lecture at a Sunday crowd about the importance of the tasks of animal husbandry. But the city just moves along with the odd sort of shuffling noise which marks many an Eastern city.

An evening crowd leaves the opera in Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, full of the memory of rich Ukrainian voices, and heads directly into the din of loudspeakers above the big square, crying out the latest anti-American propaganda in the form of a news broadcast. It gets no apparent attention.

Everywhere one turns in the Soviet Union, there is propaganda. It assaults both eyes and ears. The dreary sameness of its tone accentuates the sense of drabness and monotony.

Frequently propaganda goes in Asia, where the Communists must direct their propaganda to Soviet minority populations, the American Negro singer Paul Robeson has been built up to hero proportions. A big portrait of him ranked first in a display of pictures of Stalin prize winners along the streets of Alma Ata, capital of the Kazakh Republic. The display was in honor of the Nov. 7 revolution anniversary. The picture also was in evidence in neighboring Uzbekstan.

Going the rounds of all the Soviet republics is the violently anti-American motion picture, "Silver Dust." This, too, plays up the theme of American persecution of minorities. The film is a fantastic story about the invention of a new weapon in the form of a powder which can wipe out vast areas but leave them uncontaminated. The story Soviet citizens see is that of American Army generals, in alliance with a priest, the Ku Klux Klan, a former Nazi general and big business, planning to use six Negroes as human guinea pigs to test their new weapon.

With propaganda like that, it is small wonder that in the Soviet republics populated by minority peoples I was asked so many questions about Robeson. There was a strong impression the American singer was cruelly persecuted. They seem almost obsessed with the idea.

The propaganda is one of a number of depressing features of a journey through the Soviet republics. Aside from the general air of monotony, it is discouraging to realize just how cut off from the rest of the world these people have been.

What do they think of the United States?

They know woefully little about America — in fact about any Western country in today's terms. They have only the scraps of misinformation and propaganda which appear in their controlled press. The remarks and questions encountered by a traveller display an abysmal ignorance.

Some think Harry S. Truman is boss in the United States; others that if Truman is not actually president, he has much to do with running America, because they believe Democratic and Republican parties work together to hold down the working classes.

My answers to questions were listened to eagerly, sometimes with disbelief, but always with deep interest. Some of the questions:

A school teacher in Kazakhstan: "Do they have an opera house in the United States?"

A woman in Uzbekstan: "Do many children go to school in America?"

An engineer in Stalingrad: "Why does Mr. Dulles (Secretary of State John Foster Dulles) want a war?"

Many Soviet citizens have heard rumors that a vast number of American workers have automobiles. This is almost incredible to them. To own an automobile in the Soviet Union a worker has to save for years and go through piles of red tape. He gets no car before he has a garage for it, and to get a garage he must have official permission plus an allotment of land and the materials. There are not many privately owned automobiles in the Soviet Union by any Western standards.

Communist propaganda about America and Americans, which never ceases in Soviet republics, is believed implicitly by those brought up in strict party discipline, but it meets skepticism in some surprsing circles.

What the campaign has accomplished is to make the Soviet people afraid. Everywhere I went in the Soviet Union, one question always was asked: "Will there be peace?"

"Quaker" was the nickname given to the followers of George Fox in 17th century England when, at a magistrate's trial in Derby, they trembled at the word of God.

Ruth Neely Becomes Bride Of Richard B. McCullough

Miss Ruth Angela Neely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Robert Neely, 115 Cumberland Street, became the bride of Richard Bernard McCullough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine Patrick McCullough, Decatur, Ga., January 2.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 10 a. m. in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, with Rev. Marius Elsener, O.F.M. Cap., officiating. Candles and poinsettias decorated the altar.

Miss Alice Neely was her sister's maid of honor while Miss Elizabeth Russell and Miss Ann McCullough, sister of the bridegroom, were her bridesmaids. Fred Neely, brother of the bride, served as Mr. McCullough's best man, and Paul Pratt and John Winterson, both of Baltimore, were the ushers.

A program of nuptial music, the traditional wedding march from the opera Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's recessional were played by Prof. Peter Schumacher, who also accompanied Miss Angela Neely, Berkeley Springs, W. Va., cousin of the bride, singing Shubert's "Ave Maria," and "Panis Angelicus."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice, long sleeves and full waltz-length skirt. Her fingertip-length veil was held by a band of satin trimmed in pearls and completing her costume, she carried a bridal bouquet of white baby mums with white satin streamers.

Her maid of honor wore a lavender net gown similar to the bride's. She had a headdress of yellow baby mums matching her old-fashioned bouquet. The bridesmaids' gowns were fashioned with purple bodices and lavender net skirts. They also had yellow baby mum headdress and old-fashioned bouquets with matching streamers.

Mrs. Neely chose a navy blue lace dress for her daughter's wedding. With it she wore matching navy accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. McCullough was attired in a gray lace gown and had gray accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

A granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Carpenter, Greene Street, the bride is a graduate of Ursuline Academy and of St. Agnes' Hospital School of Nursing, Baltimore, class of 1953. During her senior year at St. Agnes' she was president of her class.

Mr. McCullough is a graduate of Creighton Prep School, Omaha, Neb., and Loyola College, Baltimore, where he majored in business administration. He is a personnel man third class with the Fleet Aircraft Service Squadron 12, stationed at the Naval Air Station, Miramar, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Neely entertained the bridal party and immediate families at a wedding breakfast at the Ali Ghan Country Club following the ceremony. An arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums centered the table. The wedding reception was held at their home from 1 until 3 o'clock. The bridal motif was carried out in the decorations and tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

For their wedding trip south and west the bride selected a blue knit suit with pink accessories. A corsage of pink rosebuds completed her costume. Mr. and Mrs. McCullough will reside in San Diego, Calif.

Out of town guests, besides the bridal party and parents of the bridegroom were Mr. and Mrs. William Manger and children, Baltimore; Thomas Rice, Baltimore; Miss Florence O'Donnohue, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Neely and daughter, Angela, Berkeley Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carpenter and children, Pittsburgh; and the following classmates of the bride at St. Agnes', Miss Patricia Evans, Miss Carol Clauson, Miss Dorothy Lehmkuhl, Miss Agnes Maskavich, Miss Anna May Becker and Miss Elva Homrighausen.

Woman's Association Has Installation, Announcement

Announcements of meetings were made and officers installed at the annual meeting of the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church, Monday evening. The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Edward Athey, president. Mrs. Ross O. Decker conducted the devotionals.

Members were reminded of the meeting of the Council of Church Women, January 7. It is to be in First Presbyterian Church, beginning at 10 a. m. and will be followed by a luncheon at 12:30.

The annual congregational meeting is to be January 20. It will follow the "Church Family Night Dinner" at 6:30 o'clock in the fellowship hall. Dr. Cordell Powers, Baltimore, secretary and representative of the Maryland Bible Society, is to be the speaker.

A memorial service was held for the late Mrs. Annie Morgan, Mrs. N. S. Adams, Mrs. Robert Barnes, Mrs. G. L. Campbell, Mrs. Margaret N. Harness and Mrs. Benjamin B. Lyons. Taking part in the service were Mrs. Edward Solomon, Mrs. Howard Will, Mrs. William Ludman, Mrs. James Conrad and Mrs. Luther Hutter Sr.

Installation of officers was conducted by Mrs. Athey, with Mrs. Gaither L. Martin installed as president; Mrs. W. A. Britt, vice president; Mrs. Edward D. Finan recording secretary; Mrs. Luther Hutter Sr., corresponding secretary; and Mrs. R. O. McCullough, treasurer.

In behalf of the association, Mrs. Lester Martin presented a gift to Mrs. Athey in appreciation of her services as president.

Concluding the evening a social hour was held with the executive board of the association as hostesses.

The next business meeting of the association will be February 1.

Club Has Program On Antiques

A discussion of antiques featured the program at the meeting of the Piney Plains Homemakers Club at the home of Mrs. D. D. Norris. Mrs. Alma Mann presided and opened the meeting with the group repeating the homemakers' creed in unison. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Jessie Opdyke.

The history of the song, "America," was given by Mrs. Norris, Music chairman, which was sung by the members. Roll call was answered to "What Antiques Have You in Your Home?" A discussion followed on cut glass, china and wooden antiques.

Mrs. Franklin Norris discussed the making of Christmas candles and exhibited some she had made.

The meeting closed with the group singing "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," after which refreshments were served. Twelve members attended.

The February meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Maude Mann.

Ruth Neely Becomes Bride Of Richard B. McCullough

Miss Ruth Angela Neely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Robert Neely, 115 Cumberland Street, became the bride of Richard Bernard McCullough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine Patrick McCullough, Decatur, Ga., January 2.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 10 a. m. in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, with Rev. Marius Elsener, O.F.M. Cap., officiating. Candles and poinsettias decorated the altar.

Miss Alice Neely was her sister's maid of honor while Miss Elizabeth Russell and Miss Ann McCullough, sister of the bridegroom, were her bridesmaids. Fred Neely, brother of the bride, served as Mr. McCullough's best man, and Paul Pratt and John Winterson, both of Baltimore, were the ushers.

A program of nuptial music, the traditional wedding march from the opera Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's recessional were played by Prof. Peter Schumacher, who also accompanied Miss Angela Neely, Berkeley Springs, W. Va., cousin of the bride, singing Shubert's "Ave Maria," and "Panis Angelitus."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice, long sleeves and full waltz-length skirt. Her fingertip-length veil was held by a band of satin trimmed in pearls and completing her costume, she carried a bridal bouquet of white baby mums with white satin streamers.

Her maid of honor wore a lavender net gown similar to the bride's. She had a headdress of yellow baby mums matching her old-fashioned bouquet. The bridesmaids' gowns were fashioned with purple bodices and lavender net skirts. They also had yellow baby mum headdress and old-fashioned bouquets with matching streamers.

Mrs. Neely chose a navy blue lace dress for her daughter's wedding. With it she wore matching navy accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. McCullough was attired in a gray lace gown and had gray accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

A granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Carpenter, Greene Street, the bride is a graduate of Ursuline Academy and of St. Agnes' Hospital School of Nursing, Baltimore, class of 1953. During her senior year at St. Agnes' she was president of her class.

Mr. McCullough is a graduate of Creighton Prep School, Omaha, Neb., and Loyola College, Baltimore, where he majored in business administration. He is a personnel man third class with the Fleet Aircraft Service Squadron 12, stationed at the Naval Air Station, Miramar, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Neely entertained the bridal party and immediate families at a wedding breakfast at the Ali Ghan Country Club following the ceremony. An arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums centered the table. The wedding reception was held at their home from 1 until 3 o'clock. The bridal motif was carried out in the decorations and tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

For their wedding trip south and west the bride selected a blue knit suit with pink accessories. A corsage of pink rosebuds completed her costume. Mr. and Mrs. McCullough will reside in San Diego, Calif.

Out of town guests, besides the bridal party and parents of the bridegroom were Mr. and Mrs. William Manger and children, Baltimore; Thomas Rice, Baltimore; Miss Florence O'Donnohue, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Neely and daughter, Angela, Berkeley Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carpenter and children, Pittsburgh; and the following classmates of the bride at St. Agnes', Miss Patricia Evans, Miss Carol Clauson, Miss Dorothy Lehmkuhl, Miss Agnes Maskavich, Miss Anna May Becker and Miss Elva Homrighausen.

SRC Plans To Start Work In 1954 On $78 Million Worth Of Projects

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP) — The State Roads Commission today designated 78 million dollars worth of roads it hopes to start building in 1954.

It is the first year's bite, and the biggest one, in the 12-year, 568-million dollar highway overhaul program on which Maryland embarked last spring.

The magnitude of the undertaking is illustrated by the fact the highest previous level the commission has ever reached in getting road projects started was 55½ million worth in 1949.

The 78-million dollar plan for 1954 includes 114 projects. Roads commission engineers said the work on many of these will be finished and they will be open to traffic before the end of this year.

The more complicated ones—involving intricate right-of-way problems, bridges, and traffic interchanges—cannot be finished until sometime in 1955.

But Norman M. Pritchett, the commission's new chief engineer, promised they would be ready for traffic before the end of the 1955 construction season.

"If they aren't," he said, "we're lost."

The 78-million dollar plan for 1954 was detailed for newsmen today at a press conference held by the three-man roads commission and almost two dozen heads of departments and district engineers.

A. F. DiDomenico, the commission's office engineer, explained almost 9½ million dollars worth of jobs in the long range program already have been put under contract. Some already have been started and a few minor jobs actually have been completed.

The commission already has taken bids on another $2,300,000 worth and is in the process of awarding the contracts.

So it has an almost 12-million dollar head start on the long-range plan.

In addition to the new 78 million dollars worth of construction work it set up today for 1954, the commission alloted its right-of-way people 11 million and its surveyors and blue print draftsmen 3 million in 1954 to lay out routes and get the land for roads to be built in future years.

Wholesale Prices Rise

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Wholesale prices increased ½ of 1 per cent in the week ended Dec. 29, the Bureau of Labor statistics reported today.

Blind Woman Wins Radio-TV Honors

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP) — Mrs. Helen Tullis today was honored as "Outstanding Woman of the Year in Radio and Television" at a luncheon here featuring Gov. McKeldin as principal speaker.

Blind since she was 14, Mrs. Tullis conducts the weekly show, "As You Can See", over WMAR-TV.

The award is sponsored by a national magazine (McCalls).

"Not so long ago, I thought the handicap of blindness was not being able to see," the attractive television personality told luncheon guests.

"But the biggest handicap, I found, was the negative attitude others have toward us," she said.

All Tax Forms Mailed

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP) — All Maryland taxpayers should have their federal income tax forms in hand this week, Collector L. A. Chamberlain said today.

Chamberlain said a delay at the printers slowed delivery of the blanks to his office and that many forms are just now being mailed.

Tax returns are due March 15.

D. C. Bread Price Upped

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — The price of bread has gone up one cent a loaf on most brands sold in the Washington area. A one pound loaf now costs 18 cents.

State's Use Tax Debated Before Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Supreme Court today heard the Maryland use tax attacked as unconstitutional and defended as an equitable law.

Counsel for a Delaware company told the court that if the two per cent tax is upheld it could create "a serious situation" in interstate trade.

Maryland argued that it is only fair to require out-of-state merchants to collect on sales to Maryland customers the same tax collected by Maryland merchants.

The case was appealed to the Supreme Court by Miller Brothers Co., Wilmington, Del., furniture dealer. The Maryland Court of Appeals had ruled that out-of-state firms may be held liable for the collection of the Maryland use tax from Maryland customers.

The use tax is similar to a two per cent sales tax collected by Maryland merchants.

William L. Marbury, Baltimore, counsel for the company, argued that "if this sort of thing is a basis for state taxation there seems to be no limit" for such taxes.

"If this exaction—I call it that instead of a tax—is sustained you will have a situation where the conduct of interstate commerce will be so burdensome" that it will create "a serious situation," he said.

Francis D. Murnaghan Jr. Maryland assistant attorney general, argued that Maryland is only asking the Delaware company to do what all Maryland merchants are required to do—collect a sales tax on goods to be used in Maryland.

"There is no discrimination in favor of the local (Maryland) merchants," he said.

What the Delaware company really hopes to do, he added, is to keep a competitive advantage in the Maryland market over Maryland merchants.

Three Found Dead In Car Near Fair Hill

FAIR HILL, Md., Jan. 5 (AP)—Two employes at the William du Pont farm near here and the daughter of another employe were found dead of asphyxiation early today in a car which had stopped in the middle of the road near the farm.

The three were identified as William Carter, 35, driver of the car; Jesse Jennings, 33, and Opal Sturgill, 14. Sheriff Nathan Kaplan theorized that they were overcome by fumes from a faulty heater.

Byrd Endorses Idea Of "Clean" Demo Primary; Mahoney Says Victory Is Goal

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—Dr. H. C. Byrd endorsed today the idea of a gentlemanly Democratic primary campaign and George P. Mahoney agreed that "our main objective . . . is victory in November."

Both men were commenting on the principal results of Monday night's Democratic "harmony" meeting: One resolution calling for a constructive primary "in the best traditions of our party," and another declaring that the successful candidate would be the one to prove most forecefully "the glaring weaknesses and failures" of the Republican state administration.

Both Byrd and Mahoney have filed for the Democratic nomination for governor and neither has given any indication of withdrawing.

Byrd said today, in commenting on the plea for a clean primary:

"I don't see how anyone could help but subscribe to that sentiment. However, no one has worried about me carrying on a dirty campaign, and as far as I am concerned I'm not worried about anybody else doing so."

Mahoney said nothing of primary campaign tactics.

"My impression is that all agreed that primaries are not harmful to the health of the party," he said after congratulating and commending those who organized and conducted the meeting.

"Our main objective, as most of the speakers pointed out, is victory in November," Mahoney added.

"I agree and repeat the message I sent to the meeting, 'The Democratic party is suffering from no ailment which victory cannot cure.'

"I think most Democrats agree with that statement and will unite behind me to win that victory in November."

Neither Byrd nor Mahoney attended the meeting, although both had supporters among the 300 invited and uninvited party members who were there.

SRC Plans To Start Work In 1954 On $78 Million Worth Of Projects

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP) — The State Roads Commission today designated 78 million dollars worth of roads it hopes to start building in 1954.

It is the first year's bite, and the biggest one, in the 12-year, 568-million dollar highway overhaul program on which Maryland embarked last spring.

The magnitude of the undertaking is illustrated by the fact the highest previous level the commission has ever reached in getting road projects started was 55½ million worth in 1949.

The 78-million dollar plan for 1954 includes 114 projects. Roads commission engineers said the work on many of these will be finished and they will be open to traffic before the end of this year.

The more complicated ones—involving intricate right-of-way problems, bridges, and traffic interchanges—cannot be finished until sometime in 1955.

But Norman M. Pritchett, the commission's new chief engineer, promised they would be ready for traffic before the end of the 1955 construction season.

"If they aren't," he said, "we're lost."

The 78-million dollar plan for 1954 was detailed for newsmen today at a press conference held by the three-man roads commission and almost two dozen heads of departments and district engineers.

A. F. DiDomenico, the commission's office engineer, explained almost 9½ million dollars worth of jobs in the long range program already have been put under contract. Some already have been started and a few minor jobs actually have been completed.

The commission already has taken bids on another $2,300,000 worth and is in the process of awarding the contracts.

So it has an almost 12-million dollar head start on the long-range plan.

In addition to the new 78 million dollars worth of construction work it set up today for 1954; the commission alloted its right-of-way people 11 million and its surveyors and blue print draftsmen 3 million in 1954 to lay out routes and get the land for roads to be built in future years.

Wholesale Prices Rise

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Wholesale prices increased ½ of 1 per cent in the week ended Dec. 29, the Bureau of Labor statistics reported today.

Blind Woman Wins Radio-TV Honors

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP) — Mrs. Helen Tullis today was honored as "Outstanding Woman of the Year in Radio and Television" at a luncheon here featuring Gov. McKeldin as principal speaker.

Blind since she was 14, Mrs. Tullis conducts the weekly show, "As You Can See", over WMAR-TV.

The award is sponsored by a national magazine (McCalls).

"Not so long ago, I thought the handicap of blindness was not being able to see," the attractive television personality told luncheon guests.

"But the biggest handicap, I found, was the negative attitude others have toward us," she said.

All Tax Forms Mailed

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP) — All Maryland taxpayers should have their federal income tax forms in hand this week, Collector L. A. Chamberlain said today.

Chamberlain said a delay at the printers slowed delivery of the blanks to his office and that many forms are just now being mailed.

Tax returns are due March 15.

D. C. Bread Price Upped

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — The price of bread has gone up one cent a loaf on most brands sold in the Washington area. A one pound loaf now costs 18 cents.

State's Use Tax Debated Before Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Supreme Court today heard the Maryland use tax attacked as unconstitutional and defended as an equitable law.

Counsel for a Delaware company told the court that if the two per cent tax is upheld it could create "a serious situation" in interstate trade.

Maryland argued that it is only fair to require out-of-state merchants to collect on sales to Maryland customers the same tax collected by Maryland merchants.

The case was appealed to the Supreme Court by Miller Brothers Co., Wilmington, Del., furniture dealer. The Maryland Court of Appeals had ruled that out-of-state firms may be held liable for the collection of the Maryland use tax from Maryland customers.

The use tax is similar to a two per cent sales tax collected by Maryland merchants.

William L. Marbury, Baltimore, counsel for the company, argued that "if this sort of thing is a basis for state taxation there seems to be no limit" for such taxes.

"If this exaction—I call it that instead of a tax—is sustained you will have a situation where the conduct of interstate commerce will be so burdensome" that it will create "a serious situation," he said.

Francis D. Murnaghan Jr. Maryland assistant attorney general, argued that Maryland is only asking the Delaware company to do what all Maryland merchants are required to do—collect a sales tax on goods to be used in Maryland.

"There is no discrimination in favor of the local (Maryland) merchants," he said.

What the Delaware company really hopes to do, he added, is to keep a competitive advantage in the Maryland market over Maryland merchants.

Three Found Dead In Car Near Fair Hill

FAIR HILL, Md., Jan. 5 (AP)—Two employes at the William du Pont farm near here and the daughter of another employe were found dead of asphyxiation early today in a car which had stopped in the middle of the road near the farm.

The three were identified as William Carter, 35, driver of the car; Jesse Jennings, 33, and Opal Sturgill, 14. Sheriff Nathan Kaplan theorized that they were overcome by fumes from a faulty heater.

Byrd Endorses Idea Of "Clean" Demo Primary; Mahoney Says Victory Is Goal

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—Dr. H. C. Byrd endorsed today the idea of a gentlemanly Democratic primary campaign and George P. Mahoney agreed that "our main objective . . . is victory in November."

Both men were commenting on the principal results of Monday night's Democratic "harmony" meeting: One resolution calling for a constructive primary "in the best traditions of our party," and another declaring that the successful candidate would be the one to prove most forecefully "the glaring weaknesses and failures" of the Republican state administration.

Both Byrd and Mahoney have filed for the Democratic nomination for governor and neither has given any indication of withdrawing.

Byrd said today, in commenting on the plea for a clean primary:

"I don't see how anyone could help but subscribe to that sentiment. However, no one has worried about me carrying on a dirty campaign, and as far as I am concerned I'm not worried about anybody else doing so."

Mahoney said nothing of primary campaign tactics.

"My impression is that all agreed that primaries are not harmful to the health of the party," he said after congratulating and commending those who organized and conducted the meeting.

"Our main objective, as most of the speakers pointed out, is victory in November," Mahoney added.

"I agree and repeat the message I sent to the meeting, 'The Democratic party is suffering from no ailment which victory cannot cure.'

"I think most Democrats agree with that statement and will unite behind me to win that victory in November."

Neither Byrd nor Mahoney attended the meeting, although both had supporters among the 300 invited and uninvited party members who were there.

With a willingness to study and improve, there is no limit to the charm any woman can achieve!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

In my years spent interviewing and selecting applicants who aspired to become models, I have seen transformations in the attractiveness of a girl or a woman that were every bit as startling and wondrous as the change of a caterpillar into a beautiful butterfly. What it takes to accomplish this feat are determination, eagerness to learn, the intelligence to ascertain how that improvement can be made and a willingness to pay the price in time and effort.

Fame and Fortune

Such was the case of a girl who eventually achieved the accolade of being known as "one of New York's ten most beautiful girls." But when she first came to me for an interview, I turned her down. Noting her fussy, elaborate clothes which she obviously considered "elegant," her brassy-bleached, ill-groomed hair, heavily made-up eyes and the thick layer of rouge, lipstick and cosmetics that completely hid her features so it was impossible to evaluate their potential, I said to her: "Sorry—you might become a chorus girl, but I'm afraid you are not model material."

A few months later, among the applicants of the day I quickly picked out a girl with soft brown hair becomingly arranged, very little make-up, and clothes that had been chosen with a knowing eye to her good points. She looked and behaved as a lovely woman should.

As I was signing her up she said, "You don't remember me, do you?" Then she recalled to my mind her first application and related what took place since that day. I certainly had underrated her determination and aptitude for learning!

This little charmer had sought and found a sustaining job in New York, carried her lunch to work in a paper bag and spent most of her lunch hours visiting department store patronized by New York's best-dressed women. She soon discovered that simplicity is the hallmark of smartness and that a woman of charm is always distinguished by her grooming, her bearing and her manner. She noted the look of poise and self-reliance that accompanies good posture. And she emulated what she saw and discovered, practicing until she made the art of being charming her own. From this simple beginning, she climbed to fame.

For any woman, the ceiling of charm is unlimited. The measure of charm you attain depends on your willingness to search out what it takes to make the most of yourself—and then to put this knowledge to work!

DEATHS and FUNERALS

BRUCE F. RICHARDSON

Bruce Francis Richardson, 59, of 210 Harrison Street, died yesterday morning in Newton Baker VA Center, Martinsburg, where he had been a patient since December 17.

Mr. Richardson was co-owner of the Richardson Brothers Confectionery at the corner of Park and Harrison Streets. His parents were the late John W. and Sarah (Williams) Richardson.

A native of Bayard, W. Va., he held membership in Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks; Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion; Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church. Mr. Richardson was a veteran of World War I.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. May (Wilson) Wilson, and a brother, Kirk C. Richardson, city.

The body will be at the Hafer Funeral Home today at 10 a. m. Services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. by Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's Church, officiating. Interment will take place in Hillcrest Burial Park with military honors accorded by the Legion.

CLARENCE WILSON

LONACONING—Clarence Wilson, 46, died yesterday in Newton D. Baker VA Center, Martinsburg, where he had been a patient since November 30.

Mr. Wilson was born in Lonaconing, a son of the late John and Margaret Wilson. He held membership in James P. Love Post, American Legion, and Alvin Neat Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Surviving are three sisters, Miss Althea Wilson, at home; Mrs. Marion Bumbaugh, Detroit, and Mrs. Fred Fraley, Harrisville, W. Va., and four brothers, James Wilson, Barton; Harry Wilson, Midland; William Wilson, Cumberland, and Irvin Wilson, Harrisville. He was unmarried.

The body will be brought to Lonaconing.

MILLARD L. JARBOE

LONACONING — Millard Lee Jarboe, 63, a native of here, died Sunday at Greenville (Pa.) Hospital from injuries sustained in a two-car mishap on December 27 near Pittsburgh.

His wife, Mrs. Edna Jarboe, 60, also a native of Lonaconing was killed instantly in the crash. The accident occurred while they were returning to their home in Glenshaw, Pa., from a visit with a daughter in Ohio.

Mr. Jarboe was an insurance consultant and retired vice president of the Diamond Alkali Company of Pittsburgh. He suffered a skull fracture, broken jawbone and internal injuries in the crash.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. William Dearing, Painesville, Ohio; a sister-in-law, Mrs. James A. Niland, Westernport; and two brothers-in-law, Harry Dixon, Lonaconing, and Arch Dixon, Midland.

MRS. SAINTILE LONG

QUINCY, Pa. — Rites for Mrs. Saintile Long, 73, widow of John Long of Kitzmiller (Md.), who died Dec. 29 at the Evangelical United Brethren Home here, were held Thursday in Cottage 1 chapel room.

Rev. John Ness Jr., local pastor, officiated with the assistance of Dr. S. Fred Christman assistant superintendent of the home, and Rev. Andrew C. Agnew, pastor of Westernport (Md.) EUB Church, of which she was a member. Burial was in Quincy Cemetery.

Mrs. Long was born April 11, 1880 near Cross, W. Va., a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Noah Welch. Her first husband, Robert Abernathy of Cross, died in 1915. She was the last surviving member of her immediate family.

Survivors include a cousin, Mrs. John Elias, Westernport, and several nieces and nephews.

Among those attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shank, Kitzmiller; Mrs. Edgar Biggs, Edgar T. Biggs and Mrs. Walter Tasker, Keyser; Mrs. Dayton Ours, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Clark, Arnold Clark, Mrs. Walter Martin and son, Robert, Westernport; Elwood Shank, Akron; Frank Shank, Dixie Burrell and Betty Jane Lancaster, Baltimore.

County Democrats Planning To Attend Training Meet

A number of Allegany County Democrats will attend the Maryland Democratic Workshop Training course sponsored by the Woman's National Democratic Club Saturday in Washington.

The county group will include Mrs. Anne Everline, Mrs. Jim McQuown, Thomas B. Finan, David Kauffman, Leslie Clark, and William L. Wilson Jr.

Wilson is chairman of the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee.

Topics to be presented on a local, state and national basis, are "Democratic Party from Precinct to National Committee;" "Building Democratic Relations in Your Community;" "Elections are Won in the Precincts," and "Issues in the Coming Campaign."

Those who attend will later devote their time to a leadership training course for speakers to conduct a series of Democratic workshops in Maryland.

These workshops are being sponsored jointly by the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland and the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland.

They will get under way in all sections of the state after the completion of the training course Saturday.

It is a Maryland program initiated by these two groups in an effort to aid the Democratic party in the coming elections. It will be nonfactional both before and during the primary campaign.

Old-Fashioned Train Whistles Coming Back

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 5 (AP)—The "toot! toot!" of old-fashioned train whistles is making a comeback.

A spokesman for New York Central here said the railroad is installing "souped-up" versions of the old steam whistles in place of horns on all its new diesel engines.

R. T. Martin, New York Central division passenger agent said many letters were received expressing regret at the passing of the old-time whistles.

Area POW Re-Enlists In Armed Forces

Cpl. Harry Junior Fichtner, 28, of Hyndman, Pa., who was a prisoner of war in Korea for 31 months, has re-enlisted in the Army for six years.

He has almost five years previous military service. Cpl. Fichtner is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Fichtner.

Expansion Of C&O Parkway Plan Proposed

The planned construction of a C & O Canal Parkway between Cumberland and Hancock may find a second section of roadway built along the old canal bed between Harpers Ferry and Great Falls.

That became known when Robert M. Watkins, chairman of Washington's Regional Planning Council, revealed that a plan to construct the road from Great Falls to Harpers Ferry is under consideration.

Maryland has already made plans for building the section of the highway between Cumberland and Hancock. Original plans for a parkway all the way from Cumberland to Great Falls were dropped when opposition to the idea concentrated in Washington County.

Reports from Washington indicated that the Harpers Ferry-Great Falls stretch might be built for about $100,000 per mile. Backers of the idea think it would bring much tourist trade into the area, and would coordinate with plans to clean up the Potomac River, into which much untreated sewerage and wastes are now being dumped.

The new Harpers Ferry-Great Falls plan calls for using either the canal bed or towpath as the right of way, leaving large areas of wilderness untouched in the area, and not extending the road into the portion of the canal east of Great Falls which has been restored.

If both proposed stretches of the parkway were built, tourists wishing to avoid heavy traffic could cross the river at Sandy Hook and Hancock, using Route 9 for most of the distance through West Virginia. Those wishing to stay on the Maryland side would presumably follow the winding road from Weverton to Boonsboro, then take Route 40 to Hancock.

Churches To Show Film On Missions

SPRINGFIELD, W. Va. — A color movie, "Highland Heritage," prepared by the Board of Church Extension, will be shown at the Springfield Presbyterian Church at 6:45 o'clock this evening.

The film depicts home mission work conducted in the mountains of Kentucky. It tells the story of the dreams and fulfillments of a pioneer missionary. The film will last for 30 minutes. The public is invited.

Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock the same film will be shown at Mt. Bethel Presbyterian Church.

Report Given On City Jail "Lodgers"

Cumberland is becoming a mecca for "tourists", but not the type the Chamber of Commerce would offer a welcoming handshake.

With the city jail rated as the cleanest lockup in the state during 1953, the billing proved to be a boon to transients and "guest" patronage ran at peak levels.

Police records reveal 205 persons, including two women, were provided with free overnight sleeping accommodations. They came from many states as well as from here and other sections of Maryland.

Listed are addresses in California, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, District of Columbia, Virginia, Rhode Island, Oregon, Ohio, Colorado, New Jersey, Maine, Indiana, South Carolina, Michigan, Georgia, North Carolina, Illinois, Delaware and Missouri.

Lodgers are required to register their names and hometowns in case local and out-of-state authorities want to look them up later in connection with criminal offenses.

Of the two women "sleepers", one was from Boston and the other resided here.

Also listed are the names of two soldiers from Oregon.

Lack of funds was the standard reason for transients asking for a free place to bed down for the night. Ironically, some had pockets that still jingled with loose coins.

Police theorized that now and then a lodger holds back enough money for a "nip".

As usual, the majority of transients hit Cumberland during the winter months. A breakdown disclosed:

January, 21; February, 22; March, 22; April, 21; May, 18; June, 18; July, nine; August, 21; September, 15; October, 22; November, 12, and December, 26.

Police List Sledding Streets

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn announces that eight local streets will be used for sled riding when sufficient snow blankets Cumberland.

Flynn named the following thoroughfares:

Gephart Drive to Cleveland Avenue; Grand Avenue to Second Street; Oak Street to Springdale; Chase Street to Fayette; Sylvan Avenue to Franklin Street and all of Marietta and Warren Streets.

The streets will be barricaded and patroled by members of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police Force, the chief stated, adding that the hours will be from 7 to 10 p. m. Bottom areas will be ashed to prevent sleds from coasting on to main streets.

Flynn urged motorists to use caution while driving in the vicinity of the posted thoroughfares. He also asked parents to permit children to sled ride only on the marked streets, and to teach them to observe safety rules while coasting.

He offered five suggestions for coasters to heed:

"Do not run and slam your sled when starting because many a person has slipped and seriously injured himself while doing so; do not ride one on top of another person as most accidents that occur are caused by this action; do not try to ram another sled; keep clear of the track when returning with your sled and be careful of small children on the track."

With a willingness to study and improve, there is no limit to the charm any woman can achieve!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

In my years spent interviewing and selecting applicants who aspired to become models, I have seen transformations in the attractiveness of a girl or a woman that were every bit as startling and wondrous as the change of a caterpillar into a beautiful butterfly. What it takes to accomplish this feat are determination, eagerness to learn, the intelligence to ascertain how that improvement can be made and a willingness to pay the price in time and effort.

Fame and Fortune

Such was the case of a girl who eventually achieved the accolade of being known as "one of New York's ten most beautiful girls." But when she first came to me for an interview, I turned her down. Noting her fussy, elaborate clothes which she obviously considered "elegant," her brassy-bleached, ill-groomed hair, heavily made-up eyes and the thick layer of rouge, lipstick and cosmetics that completely hid her features so it was impossible to evaluate their potential, I said to her: "Sorry—you might become a chorus girl, but I'm afraid you are not model material."

A few months later, among the applicants of the day I quickly picked out a girl with soft brown hair becomingly arranged, very little make-up, and clothes that had been chosen with a knowing eye to her good points. She looked and behaved as a lovely woman should.

As I was signing her up she said, "You don't remember me, do you?" Then she recalled to my mind her first application and related what took place since that day. I certainly had underrated her determination and aptitude for learning!

This little charmer had sought and found a sustaining job in New York, carried her lunch to work in a paper bag and spent most of her lunch hours visiting department store patronized by New York's best-dressed women. She soon discovered that simplicity is the hallmark of smartness and that a woman of charm is always distinguished by her grooming, her bearing and her manner. She noted the look of poise and self-reliance that accompanies good posture. And she emulated what she saw and discovered, practicing until she made the art of being charming her own. From this simple beginning, she climbed to fame.

For any woman, the ceiling of charm is unlimited. The measure of charm you attain depends on your willingness to search out what it takes to make the most of yourself—and then to put this knowledge to work!

LaSalle High Floormen Jolt Fort Hill, 42-31

Explorer Quint Stages Upset In City Game

Nolan, Spearman Pace Geatzmen To Initial Intra-City Triumph

By TED TROXELL

Both the Fort Hill Sentinels and LaSalle's Explorers staged a poor display of shooting last night on the Fort Hill court, with the Explorers coming out on top in the low-scoring affair, 42-31.

The Explorers of Coach Norm Geatz, in recording their first win in the triangular city championship race, hit on only 13 of 61 field goal attempts, with the Sentinels, who were definitely not up to their usual standard, posting an even worse mark of 9 for 56.

Pace Slacks Off

The contest started off normally enough, but after a few minutes of the first period had elapsed, the pace slackened off considerably, and neither club was able to find the range from the floor.

The two clubs battled back and forth in the initial stanza, with the score being tied twice at two, and then again at five. Billy Kerns converted twice from the foul line to give the Sentinels a 9-8 edge, but an overhead set shot by Explorer center Hugh Nolan reverted the lead back to LaSalle, which they never relinquished.

Gene Weber and Denny Shuck traded baskets to open the action on the spacious floor, which was filled to near capacity, but a field goal and foul by Kerns and Weber shoved Fort Hill to the forge, 5-2. Barney Spearman and Shuck countered with the same offensive methods, and the count was tied.

Spearman and Shuck collected a trio of fouls to up it to 8-5, then a field goal by Jack Hann and the foul conversions by Kerns put the Fort Hillians in front for the final time.

Cavanaugh Uses Subs

The Explorers held a nine-point lead at the end of the third period, 32-23, and it was at this point that Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh began wholesale substitutions in the Fort Hill lineup. The revamped five couldn't seem to fare any better than its first string counterparts, and the Explorers played conservatively in the final quarter to wrap up the decision, their first win over the Hilltoppers since 1947.

The triumph left LaSalle with a 1-1 mark in city competition, having lost to Allegany, 75-48, last Friday night. This was Fort Hill's first intra-city contest, and it gave them a seasonal mark of five wins against two losses, the same as the Explorers.

Nolan, Spearman Lead Attack

Nolan and Spearman led the upset-minded LaSalle cagers in the scoring column, with 12 and 11 tallies, respectively, each hitting from the floor three times. Nolan connected on six of eight fouls, while Spearman, generally regarded as one of the top foul shooters in the area, had a perfect night at the charity stripe, hooping five of five.

Kerns, who had the best shooting eye of the evening, hitting on three of eight tries, paced the losers with 11 points, adding five for six at the foul line.

The lineups:

Petersburg High Defeats Romney In PVC Contest

Stump Racks Up 19 In 58-42 Triumph

Petersburg High School's Vikings kept their record unblemished in the Potomac Valley Conference by scoring their third straight win last night at the expense of Romney High School's Pioneers at Petersburg. The score was 58-42.

Stump headed the Petersburg attack with nine goals and 19 points while Barr collected 13 tallies and Kessel garnered an even dozen. Hartman and Quinn with 12 and 11 tallies headed the Romney scorers.

The halftime score was 26-26.

Kessel was ejected on personal fouls.

In the preliminary game, Petersburg Junior High downed Romney, 36-26.

The Petersburg-Franklin game will be played Thursday instead of Friday at Petersburg. Lineups.

Maryland Beats Cavaliers, 70-64

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 5 (AP)—Maryland's basketball forces collected their seventh straight victory here tonight with a 70-64 decision over Virginia's Cavaliers in an Atlantic Coast Conference contest.

Gene Shue once again paced the Maryland attack with seven fielders and six free throws for 20 points. But individual scoring honors went to the visitors' Buzz Wilkinson, who poured in 22 tallies from his guard spot.

Valley Cagers Even Accounts With Northern

Notch 55-41 Victory, Waddell Chalks Up 24

LONACONING, Jan. 5 — Valley High School's floormen registered their third straight victory by defeating Northern High of Garrett County here tonight, 55-41, thereby avenging an earlier 53-51 setback suffered at Accident.

The win gave Coach John Meyers' Black Knights a 4-4 record for the season.

Dick Waddell, Valley center, featured with his rebounds work and sparked the Valley High offensive with nine field goals and 6-8 fouls for a total of 24 points, increasing his season's total to 175. Tod Cuthbertson collected 11 points while Bobby Mundeno had 10.

Northern's high scoring Murphy was limited to three field goals and eight points but Wright broke loose for eight baskets and 15 tallies to pace the visitors in scoring.

Allegany Cops 7th Straight Over Ridgeley

Undefeated Campers Win 60-33; Reiber Is Defensive Star

Jumping off to a 15-1 lead in the opening quarter, Allegany High School's undefeated basketball team rolled to its seventh victory of the season last night by taking Ridgeley High School's Blackhawks into camp at Campobello to the tune of 60-33.

Coach Walter Bowers' Campers held a 28-10 advantage at the halfway mark and were out in front by the score of 45-20 when the third period ended.

Jim Hoffman, Dave Steele and Bob Kirtley were the chief scorers for the Campobello aggregation with 15, 12 and 10 points while Kenny Hartman was high man for the Hawks with eleven.

Bob Reiber turned in a sterling defensive effort in limiting the high scoring Fritz Showers to two field goals.

Allegany outscored Ridgeley 26 to 11 in field goals. The Campers converted only 8 of 19 free throws while Ridgeley was meshing 11 of 28 shots. Lineups:

Presenting the mighty aristocrat of light-duty trucks—
the 1954 GMC

HERE is the most extraordinary light-duty truck ever built.

It has the smart styling of a fine passenger car—a sweeping grille of modern design—a panoramic one-piece windshield—two-tone interiors with harmonizing upholstery—luxury features that will make you proud to be seen in it.

And it has a whopping 125-horsepower engine—more powerful than many trucks with a two-ton rating.

The Pickup—one of 19 models—has a box that holds up to 11 more cubic feet than last year's capacious model. Its tail gate is grain-tight—and sand-tight.

And—a truck feature pioneered by GMC—it offers the driversaving, moneysaving advantages of Truck Hydra-Matic Drive*.

One final and surprising point. The price of the GMC, value for value, is unsurpassed anywhere on the truck market.

That's the story. The next move is yours. Come in and see "the world's most modern truck." And—make it soon.

Free MINK STOLE

Get that Million Dollar Look From the
MILLION DOLLAR BEER

That's right, Old German Beer this month will give away a natural ranch mink stole of matchless beauty, worth hundreds & hundreds of dollars. Old German, the beer that's so dry, so light, so smooth, so fine that its formula is insured for one million dollars, is giving away the one garment that provides a million dollar appearance.

No employee of the Brewery or its advertising agency nor any wholesaler or retailer or their employees selling Old German Beer is eligible to win the mink stole.

HERE'S ALL YOU DO:

Examine Old German bottle caps. Pry up the cork lining—it's easy with a key or nail file—and you'll find a letter there. Save your letters till you can spell out O-L-D G-E-R-M-A-N. Then send all nine letters or reasonable facsimiles thereof to Queen City Brewing Co., Cumberland, Md. In the same envelope complete this statement in 10 words or less "I prefer Old German Beer because . . ." Winning entry each month will be judged on basis of accuracy, cleverness and clarity. It is not necessary to buy the beer from which the caps come in order to win. The letter will be found in cap-sealed bottles or cans. Judges have no connection with Brewery and their decision is final.

County Democrats Planning To Attend Training Meet

A number of Allegany County Democrats will attend the Maryland Democratic Workshop Training course sponsored by the Woman's National Democratic Club Saturday in Washington.

The county group will include Mrs. Anne Everline, Mrs. Jim McQuown, Thomas B. Finan, David Kauffman, Leslie Clark, and William L. Wilson Jr.

Wilson is chairman of the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee.

Topics to be presented on a local, state and national basis, are "Democratic Party from Precinct to National Committee;" "Building Democratic Relations in Your Community;" "Elections are Won in the Precincts," and "Issues in the Coming Campaign."

Those who attend will later devote their time to a leadership training course for speakers to conduct a series of Democratic workshops in Maryland.

These workshops are being sponsored jointly by the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland and the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland.

They will get under way in all sections of the state after the completion of the training course Saturday.

It is a Maryland program initiated by these two groups in an effort to aid the Democratic party in the coming elections. It will be nonfactional both before and during the primary campaign.

Old-Fashioned Train Whistles Coming Back

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 5 (AP)—The "toot! toot!" of old-fashioned train whistles is making a comeback.

A spokesman for New York Central here said the railroad is installing "souped-up" versions of the old steam whistles in place of horns on all its new diesel engines.

R. T. Martin, New York Central division passenger agent said many letters were received expressing regret at the passing of the old-time whistles.

Expansion Of C&O Parkway Plan Proposed

The planned construction of a C & O Canal Parkway between Cumberland and Hancock may find a second section of roadway built along the old canal bed between Harpers Ferry and Great Falls.

That became known when Robert M. Watkins, chairman of Washington's Regional Planning Council, revealed that a plan to construct the road from Great Falls to Harpers Ferry is under consideration.

Maryland has already made plans for building the section of the highway between Cumberland and Hancock. Original plans for a parkway all the way from Cumberland to Great Falls were dropped when opposition to the idea concentrated in Washington County.

Reports from Washington indicated that the Harpers Ferry-Great Falls stretch might be built for about $100,000 per mile. Backers of the idea think it would bring much tourist trade into the area, and would coordinate with plans to clean up the Potomac River, into which much untreated sewerage and wastes are now being dumped.

The new Harpers Ferry-Great Falls plan calls for using either the canal bed or towpath as the right of way, leaving large areas of wilderness untouched in the area, and not extending the road into the portion of the canal east of Great Falls which has been restored.

If both proposed stretches of the parkway were built, tourists wishing to avoid heavy traffic could cross the river at Sandy Hook and Hancock, using Route 9 for most of the distance through West Virginia. Those wishing to stay on the Maryland side would presumably follow the winding road from Weverton to Boonsboro, then take Route 40 to Hancock.

Churches To Show Film On Missions

SPRINGFIELD, W. Va. — A color movie, "Highland Heritage," prepared by the Board of Church Extension, will be shown at the Springfield Presbyterian Church at 6:45 o'clock this evening.

Report Given On City Jail "Lodgers"

Cumberland is becoming a mecca for "tourists", but not the type the Chamber of Commerce would offer a welcoming handshake.

With the city jail rated as the cleanest lockup in the state during 1953, the billing proved to be a boon to transients and "guest" patronage ran at peak levels.

Police records reveal 205 persons, including two women, were provided with free overnight sleeping accommodations. They came from many states as well as from here and other sections of Maryland.

Listed are addresses in California, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, District of Columbia, Virginia, Rhode Island, Oregon, Ohio, Colorado, New Jersey, Maine, Indiana, South Carolina, Michigan, Georgia, North Carolina, Illinois, Delaware and Missouri.

Lodgers are required to register their names and hometowns in case local and out-of-state authorities want to look them up later in connection with criminal offenses.

Of the two women "sleepers", one was from Boston and the other resided here.

Also listed are the names of two soldiers from Oregon.

Lack of funds was the standard reason for transients asking for a free place to bed down for the night. Ironically, some had pockets that still jingled with loose coins.

Police theorized that now and then a lodger holds back enough money for a "nip".

As usual, the majority of transients hit Cumberland during the winter months. A breakdown disclosed:

January, 21; February, 22; March, 22; April, 21; May, 18; June, 18; July, nine; August, 21; September, 15; October, 22; November, 12, and December, 26.

Police List Sledding Streets

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn announces that eight local streets will be used for sled riding when sufficient snow blankets Cumberland.

Flynn named the following thoroughfares:

Gephart Drive to Cleveland Avenue; Grand Avenue to Second Street; Oak Street to Springdale; Chase Street to Fayette; Sylvan Avenue to Franklin Street and all of Marietta and Warren Streets.

The streets will be barricaded and patroled by members of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police Force, the chief stated, adding that the hours will be from 7 to 10 p. m. Bottom areas will be ashed to prevent sleds from coasting on to main streets.

Flynn urged motorists to use caution while driving in the vicinity of the posted thoroughfares. He also asked parents to permit children to sled ride only on the marked streets, and to teach them to observe safety rules while coasting.

He offered five suggestions for coasters to heed:

"Do not run and slam your sled when starting because many a person has slipped and seriously injured himself while doing so; do not ride one on top of another person as most accidents that occur are caused by this action; do not try to ram another sled; keep clear of the track when returning with your sled and be careful of small children on the track."

Fromhart Is New Detroit Grid Mentor

Former Notre Dame Star Is Successor To "Dutch" Clark

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT, Jan. 5 (AP)—Earl H. (Dutch) Clark, a brilliant collegiate and professional player 20 years ago, has quit football for the second time and Wally Fromhart was named today to succeed him as head coach of the University of Detroit.

Serving in a dual role as head coach and athletic director, Clark handed in his resignation Dec. 29 and it was accepted Monday night.

He was replaced as head coach by the raspy-voiced Fromhart, a former Notre Dame quarterback in the mid-thirties, who was elevated from his position as backfield coach. Clark said he will retain his position as athletic director until a replacement can be found.

Clark Was Colorado Star

An All-America quarterback with Colorado College in 1928 and later a star with the Detroit Lions in the National Football League, Clark said he resigned to enter private business in Detroit.

Clark leaves as a winner, which is something of a rarity in collegiate coaching ranks. Last season he guided Detroit to the co-championship in the Missouri Valley Conference. The Titans tied Oklahoma A. & M. for the title.

However, Clark had a losing record in his three years as head coach of Detroit. His teams won 13 games while losing 17. Last season Detroit had a 6-4 record.

After leading the Lions to their first NFL title in 1935, as a quarterback, Clark took over as head coach of the pro team in 1937-38. He moved on to Cleveland where he was player and coach for four seasons with the Rams, now the Los Angeles Rams.

Then he quit football for the first time, only to return in 1949 as backfield coach of the Los Angeles Dons of the old All-America Conference. In 1950, he came to Detroit as backfield coach and a year later was named head man.

Coached Detroit Backs

Fromhart, 40, was Clark's backfield coach for the last three years. The likeable West Virginian had played the key quarterback spot for Notre Dame in 1934-35, teaming with such greats as halfback Bill Shakespeare and end Wayne Milner.

He also coached Mt. Carmel High School in Chicago for 10 years. In 1947, he moved to Loras (Ia.) College where his teams won 29 games and lost only nine in four years.

NEW MENTOR OF TITANS — Wally Fromhart, backfield coach at the University of Detroit, yesterday was named the school's new head football coach to succeed Earl "Dutch" Clark, who has resigned. Fromhart is a native of Newburg, Preston county, W. Va., and has many relatives in this area. He starred as Notre Dame University's quarterback in 1934 and 1935.

Dykes And Giambra Tangle In Florida

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP)—Joey Giambra, Buffalo, N. Y., was listed as a 2-1 favorite today for his 10-round middleweight bout with Bobby Dykes, Miami, tomorrow night in Miami Beach Auditorium.

Both fighters wound up light workouts in preparation for the nationally televised (CBS) bout and reported they were in excellent shape.

Giambra, 22, the No. 5 challenger in the division, said he intended to take the fight to Dykes. "I like to go right in fast and keep hitting," he said.

In his last fight he knocked out Jimmy Herring with one punch in the fourth round. Altogether he's won 36 fights, lost 2 and drawn 1 since he became a professional three years ago.

Dykes has won his last 4 fights and has a record of 91 wins, 11 losses and 5 draws.

Bruce's Unsung Stars — $500 Gift For Boggs

By C. V. BURNS

WALLACE (Wally) Fromhart, whose appointment as head football coach at the University of Detroit was announced yesterday, is a native of Newburg, Preston county, W. Va.

He attended Newburg High School for two years and was graduated from Moundsville (W. Va.) High School. From there he went to Notre Dame where he played the key quarterback spot in 1934-35. Following his brilliant career with the "Fighting Irish" Fromhart was honored by his many friends in this section at a dinner at the Clary Club.

Wally was an infant when his father, a B. & O. engineer, was fatally injured in a locomotive explosion near Newburg. His brothers, Vincent and Frederick now reside in Moundsville while a sister lives in New York State.

The new mentor of the Titans has many relatives in this area among whom are the Fromharts of Keyser, and the Burkes, Coyles, Sellers and Fretwells of Cumberland.

THE BI-STATE Baseball League has rectified the mistake of trying to pass off a broken trophy on Tommy Donnelly, of Westvaco, the circuit's batting champion, by presenting the Papermakers' slugger with a large trophy of a baseball player in a batting pose.

COACH Augie Eichhorn of Bruce High School's high-powered basketball machine is singing the praises of Gene Dawson and Harry Foreman, who are playing a bangup brand of defensive ball for the undefeated Bulldogs.

It's true that Marple, Nofsinger and Cave are getting the points but Dawson and Foreman are playing an important part in these scoring plays, Eichhorn says.

KEMP WICKER, the clever southpaw who pitched winning ball for the Cumberland Colts before the local club passed out of the Middle Atlantic League, will manage the Lancaster (Pa.) Club in the Class B Piedmont League this year.

The Colts acquired Wicker when Jeannette, Pa., gave up its M. A. franchise in the early 1930s.

Kemp pitched for the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers and has managed several minor league clubs since he quit pitching.

Lancaster is a farm of the Philadelphia A's.

THE POPULARITY of Carroll Boggs as professional at the Cumberland Country Club is borne out by the fact that the Men's Golf Association and other members of the club presented him with a purse of $500 as a Christmas present.

Donations were voluntary and Ed Statler handled the subscriptions.

Boggs is now in Florida as assistant winter pro at the Palm Beach Golf Club.

A LETTER signed by Ron and Jim, Fort Hillians:

"Your article Chronology of 1953 Sports Events in the Tri-State Area was very interesting reading. However, on the basketball summary I'm quite sure Fort Hill High School has two players on the All-City team. Sorry of the mistake. Please take note."

The article was correct. McGregor was the only Fort Hill player on the NEWS' all-city team.

A NOTE of appreciation:

"Many thanks for the nice write-up in your column about our father, the late "Bill" Holcomb. It was indeed heart warming."

Signed: Holcombs.

Martin L. "Bill" Holcomb, 71, one of Cumberland's outstanding sports figures, died at Memorial Hospital December 17.

Crosby Will Sell Stock In Pirates

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph said today it learned from a reliable source that singer Bing Crosby plans to sell his stock in the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club.

The newspaper said Hugh Grant, a wealthy oil operator from Bradford, Pa., reportedly is anxious to buy stock in the National League team. He is a friend of John Galbreath, Pirate president.

Sox Farm Kennedy

BOSTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox today assigned lefthanded pitcher Bill Kennedy to their Louisville farm on an outright basis.

Kennedy came to Boston last winter.

Keyser To Test Piedmont High Quint Tonight

Beall Hosts Southern, Bobcats At Shepherd

Piedmont High School's defending champions will do battle with Keyser High School in a Potomac Valley Conference game tonight at Keyser.

It will be the first meeting of the Lions and Golden Tornado this season.

Piedmont now owns a 2-0 record in the 10-school conference while Keyser stands 1-1 in the race. Last season the schools split even, Piedmont taking the overtime opener, 43-41, while Keyser captured the return game, 63-55. The latter game was Piedmont's only defeat in 13 starts in the conference.

Beall High School's floormen will be after their fifth win of the season when they meet Southern High of Oakland in a return contest tonight in Frostburg. Coach "Ebbie" Finzel's Mountaineers took the opener from the Garrett countians by the score of 64-47.

Idle during the holidays, Frostburg State Teachers College returns to the basketball wars tonight by tackling a classy Shepherd College quint that has won three in a row by the margin of a single point from Glenville, 54-53, West Liberty 60-59 and Fairmont College 83-82 after dropping the first two games to Alderson-Broaddus and D. & E. The Teachers lost their first four games to Westinghouse, Altoona Center, Mountain State College of Parkersburg, W. Va. and Johnstown Center. Frostburg will invade Washington, D. C. Saturday to play Gallaudet.

Yanks Named Team Of Year

Champions Honored 4th Straight Time

GLENDALE, Calif., Jan. 5 (AP)—Casey Stengel was delighted to hear that his New York Yankees had swept the field for the fourth straight year as the nation's finest team in 1953, as voted in the 23rd annual poll by The Associated Press.

He was only too pleased to discourse on the prowess of his club, but he asked a momentary delay because he wanted to listen to a television program last night.

"I gotta hear the President speak. Wanta see if Eisenhower is on the ball like my ball club was," explained Casey.

An hour later, Glendale's favorite citizen began his address. It took him slightly longer to cover the state of the Yankees than it did President Eisenhower to handle his topics.

The poll gave the Yankees 79 first place votes for 289 points. Next was Maryland's college football team, 10 firsts for 109, followed by the Cleveland Browns professional football team, 13 and 106 points. Notre Dame football, Indiana basketball, Milwaukee baseball, Detroit Lions football, Minneapolis Lakers basketball, Naval Academy rowing and Brooklyn baseball rounded out the top 10 teams.

Richmond Clears Final Hurdle In Bid For IL Berth

$200,000 Is Raised To Improve Park

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 5 (AP) — Richmond cleared the last hurdle in its efforts to become a member of the Class AAA International League tonight when four men raised $200,000 to make improvements of municipally owned Parker Field.

Mayor Ed Haddock made the announcement less than four hours before the deadline set by the league for Richmond to find a home park that would meet Triple-A requirements.

Only last night, City Council agreed by a vote of 7 to 2 to make Parker Field available for baseball use. Haddock had regarded this as the biggest obstacle and had considered the action of the council as assurance Richmond would have a place in the league.

Richmond's IL entry also paves the way for Havana, Cuba, to become the loop's eighth member. Havana is now in the Class B Florida-International League and has been waiting for the Richmond position to be clarified.

Orioles To Make Offer For Zernial

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Philadelphia Athletics can have their pick of four Baltimore Oriole outfielders and some money in exchange for outfielder Gus Zernial, General Manager Art Ehlers said today.

Ehlers said he will offer Don Lenhardt, Jim Dyck, Dick Kokos and Hank Edwards to Earle Mack of the Athletics in a few days.

LaSalle High Floormen Jolt Fort Hill, 42-31

Explorer Quint Stages Upset In City Game

By TED TROXELL

Both the Fort Hill Sentinels and LaSalle's Explorers staged a poor display of shooting last night on the Fort Hill court, with the Explorers coming out on top in the low-scoring affair, 42-31.

The Explorers of Coach Norm Geatz, in recording their first win in the triangular city championship race, hit on only 13 of 61 field goal attempts, with the Sentinels, who were definitely not up to their usual standard, posting an even worse mark of 9 for 56.

Pace Slacks Off

The contest started off normally enough, but after a few minutes of the first period had elapsed, the pace slackened off considerably, and neither club was able to find the range from the floor.

The two clubs battled back and forth in the initial stanza, with the score being tied twice at two, and then again at five. Billy Kerns converted twice from the foul line to give the Sentinels a 9-8 edge, but an overhead set shot by Explorer center Hugh Nolan reverted the lead back to LaSalle, which they never relinquished.

Gene Weber and Denny Shuck traded baskets to open the action on the spacious floor, which was filled to near capacity, but a field goal and foul by Kerns and Weber shoved Fort Hill to the forge, 5-2. Barney Spearman and Shuck countered with the same offensive methods, and the count was tied.

Spearman and Shuck collected a trio of fouls to up it to 8-5, then a field goal by Jack Hann and the foul conversions by Kerns put the Fort Hillians in front for the final time.

Cavanaugh Uses Subs

The Explorers held a nine-point lead at the end of the third period, 32-23, and it was at this point that Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh began wholesale substitutions in the Fort Hill lineup. The revamped five couldn't seem to fare any better than its first string counterparts, and the Explorers played conservatively in the final quarter to wrap up the decision, their first win over the Hilltoppers since 1947.

The triumph left LaSalle with a 1-1 mark in city competition, having lost to Allegany, 75-48, last Friday night. This was Fort Hill's first intra-city contest, and it gave them a seasonal mark of five wins against two losses, the same as the Explorers.

Nolan, Spearman Lead Attack

Nolan and Spearman led the upset-minded LaSalle cagers in the scoring column, with 12 and 11 tallies, respectively, each hitting from the floor three times. Nolan connected on six of eight fouls, while Spearman, generally regarded as one of the top foul shooters in the area, had a perfect night at the charity stripe, hooping five of five.

Kerns, who had the best shooting eye of the evening, hitting on three of eight tries, paced the losers with 11 points, adding five for six at the foul line.

Petersburg High Defeats Romney In PVC Contest

Stump Racks Up 19 In 58-42 Triumph

Petersburg High School's Vikings kept their record unblemished in the Potomac Valley Conference by scoring their third straight win last night at the expense of Romney High School's Pioneers at Petersburg. The score was 58-42.

Stump headed the Petersburg attack with nine goals and 19 points while Barr collected 13 tallies and Kessel garnered an even dozen. Hartman and Quinn with 12 and 11 tallies headed the Romney scorers.

The halftime score was 26-26.

Kessel was ejected on personal fouls.

In the preliminary game, Petersburg Junior High downed Romney, 36-26.

Maryland Beats Cavaliers, 70-64

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 5 (AP)—Maryland's basketball forces collected their seventh straight victory here tonight with a 70-64 decision over Virginia's Cavaliers in an Atlantic Coast Conference contest.

Gene Shue once again paced the Maryland attack with seven fielders and six free throws for 20 points. But individual scoring honors went to the visitors' Buzz Wilkinson, who poured in 22 tallies from his guard spot.

Valley Cagers Even Accounts With Northern

Notch 55-41 Victory, Waddell Chalks Up 24

LONACONING, Jan. 5 — Valley High School's floormen registered their third straight victory by defeating Northern High of Garrett County here tonight, 55-41, thereby avenging an earlier 53-51 setback suffered at Accident.

The win gave Coach John Meyers' Black Knights a 4-4 record for the season.

Dick Waddell, Valley center, featured with his rebounds work and sparked the Valley High offensive with nine field goals and 6-8 fouls for a total of 24 points, increasing his season's total to 175. Tod Cuthbertson collected 11 points while Bobby Mundeno had 10.

Northern's high scoring Murphy was limited to three field goals and eight points but Wright broke loose for eight baskets and 15 tallies to pace the visitors in scoring.

Valley High's Jayvees whipped Northern in the preliminary game, 34-24. Lineups:

Allegany Cops 7th Straight Over Ridgeley

Undefeated Campers Win 60-33; Reiber Is Defensive Star

Jumping off to a 15-1 lead in the opening quarter, Allegany High School's undefeated basketball team rolled to its seventh victory of the season last night by taking Ridgeley High School's Blackhawks into camp at Campobello to the tune of 60-33.

Coach Walter Bowers' Campers held a 28-10 advantage at the halfway mark and were out in front by the score of 45-20 when the third period ended.

Jim Hoffman, Dave Steele and Bob Kirtley were the chief scorers for the Campobello aggregation with 15, 12 and 10 points while Kenny Hartman was high man for the Hawks with eleven.

Bob Reiber turned in a sterling defensive effort in limiting the high scoring Fritz Showers to two field goals.

St. John's Tops West Virginia

Free MINK STOLE

Get that Million Dollar Look From the

MILLION DOLLAR BEER

That's right, Old German Beer this month will give away a natural ranch mink stole of matchless beauty, worth hundreds & hundreds of dollars. Old German, the beer that's so dry, so light, so smooth, so fine that its formula is insured for one million dollars, is giving away the one garment that provides a million dollar appearance.

No employee of the Brewery or its advertising agency nor any wholesaler or retailer or their employees selling Old German Beer is eligible to win the mink stole.

HERE'S ALL YOU DO:

Examine Old German bottle caps. Pry up the cork lining—it's easy with a key or nail file—and you'll find a letter there. Save your letters till you can spell out O-L-D G-E-R-M-A-N. Then send all nine letters or reasonable facsimiles thereof to Queen City Brewing Co., Cumberland, Md. In the same envelope complete this statement in 10 words or less "I prefer Old German Beer because . . ." Winning entry each month will be judged on basis of accuracy, cleverness and clarity. It is not necessary to buy the beer from which the caps come in order to win. The letter will be found in cap-sealed bottles or cans. Judges have no connection with Brewery and their decision is final.

Presenting the mighty aristocrat of light-duty trucks—

the 1954 GMC

HERE is the most extraordinary light-duty truck ever built.

It has the smart styling of a fine passenger car—a sweeping grille of modern design—a panoramic one-piece windshield—two-tone interiors with harmonizing upholstery—luxury features that will make you proud to be seen in it.

And it has a whopping 125-horsepower engine—more powerful than many trucks with a two-ton rating.

The Pickup—one of 19 models—has a box that holds up to 11 more cubic feet than last year's capacious model. Its tail gate is grain-tight—and sand-tight.

And—a truck feature pioneered by GMC—it offers the driversaving, moneysaving advantages of Truck Hydra-Matic Drive*.

One final and surprising point. The price of the GMC, value for value, is unsurpassed anywhere on the truck market.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 — (INS) — We'll be getting the showdown on what's on (or off) in the Leslie Caron-Geordie Hormel marriage sooner than you think.

Within just a very short time Leslie planes back to Hollywood from Paris for one of the most exciting loanout deals on record—she and Fred Astaire go to 20th Century-Fox for "Daddy Longlegs" with the official blessing of MGM, their home studio.

Need I remind you that "Daddy" is a classic, first made immortal by Belasco and later in a Mary Pickford film. But, you'll hardly recognize it in the new modern musical treatment Producer Sol Siegel is having whipped up.

Very quietly, without a word to anyone, MGM flew Tina Elg, a Finnish ballerina who has been with the Sadler's Wells Ballet, into Hollywood.

When Edward Knapf was in Europe he signed her for "The Glass Slipper," the story of Cinderella. I'd say it's a very appropriate title inasmuch as this is a Cinderella experience for Tina, who is described as petite, fair of face, and with great talent.

She arrived last night and today the cameras are turning at MGM.

The least surprising news of the new year is that Walter Lang has signed a new contract with 20th. This is a mutual love affair between a director and a studio that will probably be going strong 20 years from now.

And, why not? Walter has made some of the greatest musicals of all time from "State Fair" to "Call Me Madame."

His contract permits him to do an outside picture, but I doubt if he will exercise the right. He is just as happy with 20th as Darryl Zanuck is with him. All Walter asked for on his new deal is that he have time off between films and that the number he directs be limited to one or two per year.

This week Mary Garden, the indestructible opera star, arrives in this country from Scotland to go on a tour for the National Arts Foundation. She'll visit 20 cities in search of young musical talent. Then she heads for Hollywood to discuss a film story of her life.

Carleton Smith, art director of National Arts, also writes most interestingly about a young priest named Father Sidney MacEwen, a tenor, with a voice like the late John McCormack who discovered him.

Seems Father MacEwen will sing in this country for six weeks and then must return to his parish in Scotland.

Joan Bennett returns from New York Jan. 23 on an assignment which makes her very happy. She and her daughter, Melinda Markey, will co-star in a Bing Crosby Enterprises film for TV, "You Are Young Only Once"—the deal signed by Producer Frank Wisbar with Joan via long distance.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Dorothy Dandridge has again postponed a serious operation for an intestinal disturbance.

At Santa Anita race track David Sawaya told me that he and Bob Howard, of the Seabiscuit family, are building a $10,000,000 hotel in Las Vegas. Bob did very well in Palm Springs with Howard Manor.

Ran into Betty Grable, who was hurrying at the last minute to put a bet down. Cary Grant didn't look too happy—said he hadn't been lucky.

I picked a long shot, and being the foolish type blew all my winnings on a loser.

At Chasen's John Wayne was with Pilar Palette, Ned Marin and a party. John's romance with the Peruvian beauty looks serious.

Marie Wilson, with her new hair-cut, was having dinner with Bob Fallon, same place.

A group of us saw Bing Crosby's TV show from Dave Chasen's office, among them Charlie Farrell, who, with the success of his own TV show, "My Little Margie," has become very TV conscious.

Sugar Millionaire Adolph Spreckels, who was accused by his ex-wife Key Spreckels, of beating her over the head with a slipper, at the Mocambo with Dallas beauty Jackie Manley. This is a repeat engagement.

Again Johnny (Pickup the Check) Meyer was out with Marianna O'Brien Reynolds, ex-wife of tobacco millionaire Dick Reynolds.

Dennis Day opens at the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas April 20.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Estate Case Injunction Is Granted

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris prepared an opinion yesterday following a hearing in Circuit Court, in which he grants a mandatory injunction against the executor of the estate of a Luke merchant.

Plaintiffs in the case were Carl G. Miller and his wife, Mary Lee Miller. The defendants were E. Ray Jones and Lewis Jones, executors and trustees of the estate of the late John H. Miller, who died last June.

When Miller's will was probated he had left $150,000 in trust with the Garrett County Memorial Hospital at Oakland to receive $3,000 annually for a period of 25 years. The balance of the estate was to be divided among the heirs upon completion of the 25 year period.

Had Deed For Property

Carl G. Miller, a grandnephew of the deceased, and his wife were given a deed November 6, 1947 by the deceased for the home property on Pratt Street in Luke in four lots. The deed was never recorded in the land records at the Court House with Carl Miller keeping the document in the safe at his store.

Later John Miller and his grandnephew were about to take an extended trip to the south. The deed at that time was placed in the safe deposit box of John Miller at the Citizens National Bank.

When John Miller died the deed was in the safe deposit box at the bank. Carl G. Miller went to the executors of the will and told them about the document and requested they turn it over to him.

The executors, of Oakland, refused to do so on the premise that they did not know if it was the proper legal procedure. It was then that Horace P. Whitworth Jr., filed a petition in Circuit Court asking for the injunction and return of the deed to his clients.

Denied Previously

A previous hearing in the matter was held in Circuit Court here before Judge Harris and at that time he denied the injunction pending further information and testimony in the matter.

Arguments in the case were heard by Judge Harris yesterday and he decided on the basis of the facts that Carl G. Miller and his wife were entitled to the deed. A written opinion in the case is being prepared by the court stenographer.

The executors were represented in court by E. Ray Jones, who is an attorney.

carry off this nonsense with such charm and insouciance and complete authority. He is a very fine actor indeed, and I'm happy that the television people are finally discovering it.

One of the pleasant Thurberian twists I rather like concerns Hagga, a remarkable lady who cries, not tears, but jewels. Since the Prince and the Golux are in quest of 1,000 jewels, they try to get this lady to weep some jewels for them. But neither jokes nor sad stories will move the lady. Then, quite unexpectedly, she starts telling a story of her own and gets to laughing so hard at her own joke that she spews jeweled tears all over the place.

I laughed till I very nearly split from my guggle to my zatch.

Fromhart Is New Detroit Grid Mentor

Former Notre Dame Star Is Successor To "Dutch" Clark

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT, Jan. 5 (AP)—Earl H. (Dutch) Clark, a brilliant collegiate and professional player 20 years ago, has quit football for the second time and Wally Fromhart was named today to succeed him as head coach of the University of Detroit.

Serving in a dual role as head coach and athletic director, Clark handed in his resignation Dec. 29 and it was accepted Monday night.

He was replaced as head coach by the raspy-voiced Fromhart, a former Notre Dame quarterback in the mid-thirties, who was elevated from his position as backfield coach. Clark said he will retain his position as athletic director until a replacement can be found.

Clark Was Colorado Star

An All-America quarterback with Colorado College in 1928 and later a star with the Detroit Lions in the National Football League, Clark said he resigned to enter private business in Detroit.

Clark leaves as a winner, which is something of a rarity in collegiate coaching ranks. Last season he guided Detroit to the co-championship in the Missouri Valley Conference. The Titans tied Oklahoma A. & M. for the title.

However, Clark had a losing record in his three years as head coach of Detroit. His teams won 13 games while losing 17. Last season Detroit had a 6-4 record.

After leading the Lions to their first NFL title in 1935, as a quarterback, Clark took over as head coach of the pro team in 1937-38. He moved on to Cleveland where he was player and coach for four seasons with the Rams, now the Los Angeles Rams.

Then he quit football for the first time, only to return in 1949 as backfield coach of the Los Angeles Dons of the old All-America Conference. In 1950, he came to Detroit as backfield coach and a year later was named head man.

Coached Detroit Backs

Fromhart, 40, was Clark's backfield coach for the last three years. The likeable West Virginian had played the key quarterback spot for Notre Dame in 1934-35, teaming with such greats as halfback Bill Shakespeare and end Wayne Milner.

He also coached Mt. Carmel High School in Chicago for 10 years. In 1947, he moved to Loras (Ia.) College where his teams won 29 games and lost only nine in four years.

Dykes And Giambra Tangle In Florida

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP)—Joey Giambra, Buffalo, N. Y., was listed as a 2-1 favorite today for his 10-round middleweight bout with Bobby Dykes, Miami, tomorrow night in Miami Beach Auditorium.

Both fighters wound up light workouts in preparation for the nationally televised (CBS) bout and reported they were in excellent shape.

Giambra, 22, the No. 5 challenger in the division, said he intended to take the fight to Dykes. "I like to go right in fast and keep hitting," he said.

In his last fight he knocked out Jimmy Herring with one punch in the fourth round. Altogether he's won 36 fights, lost 2 and drawn 1 since he became a professional three years ago.

Dykes has won his last 4 fights and has a record of 91 wins, 11 losses and 5 draws.

NEW MENTOR OF TITANS — Wally Fromhart, backfield coach at the University of Detroit, yesterday was named the school's new head football coach to succeed Earl "Dutch" Clark, who has resigned. Fromhart is a native of Newburg, Preston county, W. Va., and has many relatives in this area. He starred as Notre Dame University's quarterback in 1934 and 1935.

WALLACE (Wally) Fromhart, whose appointment as head football coach at the University of Detroit was announced yesterday, is a native of Newburg, Preston county, W. Va.

He attended Newburg High School for two years and was graduated from Moundsville (W. Va.) High School. From there he went to Notre Dame where he played the key quarterback spot in 1934-35. Following his brilliant career with the "Fighting Irish" Fromhart was honored by his many friends in this section at a dinner at the Clary Club.

Wally was an infant when his father, a B. & O. engineer, was fatally injured in a locomotive explosion near Newburg. His brothers, Vincent and Frederick now reside in Moundsville while a sister lives in New York State.

The new mentor of the Titans has many relatives in this area among whom are the Fromharts of Keyser, and the Burkes, Coyles, Sellers and Fretwells of Cumberland.

THE BI-STATE Baseball League has rectified the mistake of trying to pass off a broken trophy on Tommy Donnelly, of Westvaco, the circuit's batting champion, by presenting the Papermakers' slugger with a large trophy of a baseball player in a batting pose.

COACH Augie Eichhorn of Bruce High School's high-powered basketball machine is singing the praises of Gene Dawson and Harry Foreman, who are playing a bangup brand of defensive ball for the undefeated Bulldogs.

It's true that Marple, Nofsinger and Cave are getting the points but Dawson and Foreman are playing an important part in these scoring plays, Eichhorn says.

KEMP WICKER, the clever southpaw who pitched winning ball for the Cumberland Colts before the local club passed out of the Middle Atlantic League, will manage the Lancaster (Pa.) Club in the Class B Piedmont League this year.

The Colts acquired Wicker when Jeannette, Pa., gave up its M. A. franchise in the early 1930s.

Kemp pitched for the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers and has managed several minor league clubs since he quit pitching. Lancaster is a farm of the Philadelphia A's.

THE POPULARITY of Carroll Boggs as professional at the Cumberland Country Club is borne out by the fact that the Men's Golf Association and other members of the club presented him with a purse of $500 as a Christmas present.

Donations were voluntary and Ed Statler handled the subscriptions.

Boggs is now in Florida as assistant winter pro at the Palm Beach Golf Club.

A LETTER signed by Ron and Jim, Fort Hillians:

"Your article Chronology of 1953 Sports Events in the Tri-State Area was very interesting reading. However, on the basketball summary I'm quite sure Fort Hill High School has two players on the All-City team. Sorry of the mistake. Please take note."

The article was correct. McGregor was the only Fort Hill player on the NEWS' all-city team.

A NOTE of appreciation:

"Many thanks for the nice write-up in your column about our father, the late "Bill" Holcomb. It was indeed heart warming."

Signed: Holcombs.

Martin L. "Bill" Holcomb, 71, one of Cumberland's outstanding sports figures, died at Memorial Hospital December 17.

Crosby Will Sell Stock In Pirates

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph said today it learned from a reliable source that singer Bing Crosby plans to sell his stock in the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club.

The newspaper said Hugh Grant, a wealthy oil operator from Bradford, Pa., reportedly is anxious to buy stock in the National League team. He is a friend of John Galbreath, Pirate president.

Sox Farm Kennedy

BOSTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox today assigned lefthanded pitcher Bill Kennedy to their Louisville farm on an outright basis.

Kennedy came to Boston last winter.

Keyser To Test Piedmont High Quint Tonight

Beall Hosts Southern, Bobcats At Shepherd

Piedmont High School's defending champions will do battle with Keyser High School in a Potomac Valley Conference game tonight at Keyser.

It will be the first meeting of the Lions and Golden Tornado this season.

Piedmont now owns a 2-0 record in the 10-school conference while Keyser stands 1-1 in the race. Last season the schools split even, Piedmont taking the overtime opener, 43-41, while Keyser captured the return game, 63-55. The latter game was Piedmont's only defeat in 13 starts in the conference.

Beall High School's floormen will be after their fifth win of the season when they meet Southern High of Oakland in a return contest tonight in Frostburg. Coach "Ebbie" Finzel's Mountaineers took the opener from the Garrett countians by the score of 64-47.

Idle during the holidays, Frostburg State Teachers College returns to the basketball wars tonight by tackling a classy Shepherd College quint that has won three in a row by the margin of a single point from Glenville, 54-53, West Liberty 60-59 and Fairmont College 83-82 after dropping the first two games to Alderson-Broaddus and D. & E. The Teachers lost their first four games to Westinghouse, Altoona Center, Mountain State College of Parkersburg, W. Va. and Johnstown Center. Frostburg will invade Washington, D. C. Saturday to play Gallaudet.

Yanks Named Team Of Year

Champions Honored 4th Straight Time

GLENDALE, Calif., Jan. 5 (AP)—Casey Stengel was delighted to hear that his New York Yankees had swept the field for the fourth straight year as the nation's finest team in 1953, as voted in the 23rd annual poll by The Associated Press.

He was only too pleased to discourse on the prowess of his club, but he asked a momentary delay because he wanted to listen to a television program last night.

"I gotta hear the President speak. Wanta see if Eisenhower is on the ball like my ball club was," explained Casey.

An hour later, Glendale's favorite citizen began his address. It took him slightly longer to cover the state of the Yankees than it did President Eisenhower to handle his topics.

The poll gave the Yankees 79 first place votes for 289 points. Next was Maryland's college football team, 10 firsts for 109, followed by the Cleveland Browns professional football team, 13 and 106 points. Notre Dame football, Indiana basketball, Milwaukee baseball, Detroit Lions football, Minneapolis Lakers basketball, Naval Academy rowing and Brooklyn baseball rounded out the top 10 teams.

Richmond Clears Final Hurdle In Bid For IL Berth

$200,000 Is Raised To Improve Park

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 5 (AP) — Richmond cleared the last hurdle in its efforts to become a member of the Class AAA International League tonight when four men raised $200,000 to make improvements of municipally owned Parker Field.

Mayor Ed Haddock made the announcement less than four hours before the deadline set by the league for Richmond to find a home park that would meet Triple-A requirements.

Only last night, City Council agreed by a vote of 7 to 2 to make Parker Field available for baseball use. Haddock had regarded this as the biggest obstacle and had considered the action of the council as assurance Richmond would have a place in the league.

Richmond's IL entry also paves the way for Havana, Cuba, to become the loop's eighth member. Havana is now in the Class B Florida-International League and has been waiting for the Richmond position to be clarified.

Orioles To Make Offer For Zernial

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Philadelphia Athletics can have their pick of four Baltimore Orioles outfielders and some money in exchange for outfielder Gus Zernial, General Manager Art Ehlers said today.

Ehlers said he will offer Don Lenhardt, Jim Dyck, Dick Kokos and Hank Edwards to Earle Mack of the Athletics in a few days.

Memorial Gets High Rating In Cancer Cases

Memorial Hospital has been rated in a national survey as a top hospital for diagnosis and treatment of cancer.

In the latest issue of Woman's Home Companion, Memorial was chosen as one of the six best hospitals in Maryland for cancer detection and treatment.

The other five are located in Baltimore. They are Johns Hopkins, Provident, Sinai, South Baltimore General and University hospitals.

One Of 232

Memorial is one of the 232 selected out of 7,000 hospitals in the United States for this honor in the public survey conducted by the magazine and Albert Q. Maisel, author of "How You Can Double Your Chances Against Cancer," which appears in the current issue.

Many of the 7,000 hospitals in the country lack the radium, X-ray, diagnostic and therapeutic equipment necessary for effective treatment, the magazine points out.

Many lack the highly trained and broadly experienced personnel who are even more important in fighting cancer, the article states.

Each of the 232 hospitals selected as four-star, or the best, for cancer work, met the following tests, the author reports: It meets the American College of Surgeons' standards for cancer clinics; it maintains a program of graduate training in surgery approved by the American College of Surgeons; it is approved by the American Medical Association for the training of interns and it is approved for residencies or fellowships by the American Medical Association.

Offers Better Chance

The magazine further states, however,

"We do not suggest that other hospitals not listed here are bad or inadequate. But we do say that the hospitals listed here meet the four key profession tests.

"This list does not guarantee perfect treatment for every cancer patient. It does not mean that you cannot get good care from non-listed hospitals or doctors associated with other institutions. It does offer you a way of doubling your chances against cancer by turning to these."

Veterans GI Bill Deadline Is Nearing

The spring school terms, starting early this year, mark the last enrollment opportunity under the Korean GI Bill for hundreds of area post-Korea veterans, the Veterans Administration announces.

The reason, W. L. Limburg, manager of the Baltimore regional office, explained is that the law's cut-off date of August 20, 1954, (eight months away) applies to Korean veterans separated from service before August 20, 1952. If they want GI training, they must begin by the 1954 deadline in order to continue afterwards.

The deadline, however, comes before next fall's school term gets underway. Therefore, except for the summer session, the school term starting early in 1954 will offer many veterans their last opportunity to get started under the Korean GI Bill.

Veterans who left service after August 20, 1952, need not concern themselves with the forthcoming 1954 cut-off date, Limburg said. Instead, they have two years from the date of their separation in which to begin GI training.

Under the law, a veteran actually must "enroll in and begin" training before his deadline, if he wants to go on with it afterwards. The mere filing of an application beforehand, with the intention of starting afterwards, is not enough, Limburg pointed out.

Generally, the veteran will be expected to be in the classroom or at the training bench on his deadline date. But so long as he started in time, he may be permitted to interrupt his course because of the summer vacation, or for other reasons beyond his control, or for any circumstances that VA deems to be excusable.

Limburg emphasized that these cut-off-date rules apply only to veterans training under the Korean GI Bill. They do not pertain to those enrolled under the original World War II GI Bill.

Father, Son Will Be Primary Candidates

A father and son combination filed for Republican nominations for the June primaries, according to William A. Wilson, chairman of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors.

George F. S. Jeffrey, 69-year-old resident of Detmold, filed his papers for nomination to the Republican State Central Committee.

County Bar Association Meets January 14

The annual meeting of the Allegany County Bar Association will be held Thursday, January 14, at 9:15 a. m. in the law library in the Court House, according to Simon F. Reilly, president.

Election of officers will be one of the items on the agenda.

Aid For Section Is Sought By Senator Beall

Senator J. Glenn Beall has announced that he has requested the Secretary of Defense to give every consideration to Cumberland in implementing President Eisenhower's policy of placing defense contracts in areas where there is unemployment.

President Eisenhower has given his personal endorsement to placement of defense contracts in areas having a labor surplus and where local industries are in need of contracts in order to maintain the economic welfare of the community.

Senator Beall pointed out to Secretary Charles E. Wilson that Cumberland has long been designated as a "critical area," and that recent statements that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is compelled to furlough some employes will have an adverse effect on Cumberland's economic situation.

"President Eisenhower and his Administration have demonstrated their sincere interest in the economic prosperity of the nation," Senator Beall stated, "and by giving preference to such areas as Cumberland in awarding defense contracts, our industries and workers are assured that the Administration will do everything possible to assist them.

Incentives Offered

"In addition, the President's statement gives encouragement to new industries to locate in such economically depressed areas by offering incentives such as a faster rate of tax write-off on their capital investment, and by making 'set-asides' in procuring defense equipment. Under the 'set-asides' method, the purchasing agency obtains part of a purchase on a competitive basis from the lowest bidder but sets aside part of the appropriation in order to purchase the remainder from firms in labor surplus areas.

"The firm in such an area must supply the item at the same price as that of the low bidder," Senator Beall explained.

Senator Beall also stated that Cumberland should consider every means of obtaining defense work and suggested that the Industrial Promotion Division of the Chamber of Commerce look into the possibilities of obtaining contracts for maintaining and warehousing machine tools and production equipment which are being held in readiness for all-out mobilization.

Warehousing Possible

"The Office of Defense Mobilization," Senator Beall said, "has the responsibility for maintaining our production facilities so that in case of war they could be instantly mobilized. This means that machine tools and production equipment which are stored must be maintained and serviced. Cumberland has suitable facilities and the skilled mechanics and labor to do the work.

"In cases where it is feasible, the Office of Defense Mobilization will favor such areas as Cumberland. We are located on a main line railroad which means that any machinery stored here could be sent out in case of war to such cities as Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Youngstown, Akron, Cincinnati, Baltimore, etc., without any delay."

In his letter to Secretary Wilson, Senator Beall requested the Defense Department "to seriously consider any bids received from firms in the Cumberland area for the Department of Defense to exert every effort to establish full employment again in that community."

The Senator stated that "as always I am ready to cooperate with the Chamber of Commerce and business leaders in any endeavor to bring new industries to Cumberland or to assist in obtaining defense work."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 — (INS) — We'll be getting the showdown on what's on (or off) in the Leslie Caron-Geordie Hormel marriage sooner than you think.

Within just a very short time Leslie planes back to Hollywood from Paris for one of the most exciting loanout deals on record—she and Fred Astaire go to 20th Century-Fox for "Daddy Longlegs" with the official blessing of MGM, their home studio.

Need I remind you that "Daddy" is a classic, first made immortal by Belasco and later in a Mary Pickford film. But, you'll hardly recognize it in the new modern musical treatment Producer Sol Siegel is having whipped up.

Very quietly, without a word to anyone, MGM flew Tina Elg, a Finnish ballerina who has been with the Sadler's Wells Ballet, into Hollywood.

When Edward Knapf was in Europe he signed her for "The Glass Slipper," the story of Cinderella. I'd say it's a very appropriate title inasmuch as this is a Cinderella experience for Tina, who is described as petite, fair of face, and with great talent.

She arrived last night and today the cameras are turning at MGM.

The least surprising news of the new year is that Walter Lang has signed a new contract with 20th. This is a mutual love affair between a director and a studio that will probably be going strong 20 years from now.

And, why not? Walter has made some of the greatest musicals of all time from "State Fair" to "Call Me Madame."

His contract permits him to do an outside picture, but I doubt if he will exercise the right. He is just as happy with 20th as Darryl Zanuck is with him. All Walter asked for on his new deal is that he have time off between films and that the number he directs be limited to one or two per year.

This week Mary Garden, the indestructible opera star, arrives in this country from Scotland to go on a tour for the National Arts Foundation. She'll visit 20 cities in search of young musical talent. Then she heads for Hollywood to discuss a film story of her life.

Carleton Smith, art director of National Arts, also writes most interestingly about a young priest named Father Sidney MacEwen, a tenor, with a voice like the late John McCormack who discovered him.

Seems Father MacEwen will sing in this country for six weeks and then must return to his parish in Scotland.

Joan Bennett returns from New York Jan. 23 on an assignment which makes her very happy. She and her daughter, Melinda Markey, will co-star in a Bing Crosby Enterprises film for TV, "You Are Young Only Once"—the deal signed by Producer Frank Wisbar with Joan via long distance.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Dorothy Dandridge has again postponed a serious operation for an intestinal disturbance.

At Santa Anita race track David Sawaya told me that he and Bob Howard, of the Seabiscuit family, are building a $10,000,000 hotel in Las Vegas. Bob did very well in Palm Springs with Howard Manor.

Ran into Betty Grable, who was hurrying at the last minute to put a bet down. Cary Grant didn't look too happy—said he hadn't been lucky.

I picked a long shot, and being the foolish type blew all my winnings on a loser.

At Chasen's John Wayne was with Pilar Palette, Ned Marin and a party. John's romance with the Peruvian beauty looks serious.

Marie Wilson, with her new haircut, was having dinner with Bob Fallon, same place.

A group of us saw Bing Crosby's TV show from Dave Chasen's office, among them Charlie Farrell, who, with the success of his own TV show, "My Little Margie," has become very TV conscious.

Sugar Millionaire Adolph Spreckels, who was accused by his ex-wife Key Spreckels, of beating her over the head with a slipper, at the Mocambo with Dallas beauty Jackie Manley. This is a repeat engagement.

Again Johnny (Pickup the Check) Meyer was out with Marianna O'Brien Reynolds, ex-wife of tobacco millionaire Dick Reynolds.

Dennis Day opens at the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas April 20.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Estate Case Injunction Is Granted

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris prepared an opinion yesterday following a hearing in Circuit Court, in which he grants a mandatory injunction against the executor of the estate of a Luke merchant.

Plaintiffs in the case were Carl G. Miller and his wife, Mary Lee Miller. The defendants were E. Ray Jones and Lewis Jones, executors and trustees of the estate of the late John H. Miller, who died last June.

When Miller's will was probated he had left $150,000 in trust with the Garrett County Memorial Hospital at Oakland to receive $3,000 annually for a period of 25 years. The balance of the estate was to be divided among the heirs upon completion of the 25 year period.

Had Deed For Property

Carl G. Miller, a grandnephew of the deceased, and his wife were given a deed November 6, 1947 by the deceased for the home property on Pratt Street in Luke in four lots. The deed was never recorded in the land records at the Court House with Carl Miller keeping the document in the safe at his store.

Later John Miller and his grandnephew were about to take an extended trip to the south. The deed at that time was placed in the safe deposit box of John Miller at the Citizens National Bank.

When John Miller died the deed was in the safe deposit box at the bank. Carl G. Miller went to the executors of the will and told them about the document and requested they turn it over to him.

The executors, of Oakland, refused to do so on the premise that they did not know if it was the proper legal procedure. It was then that Horace P. Whitworth Jr., filed a petition in Circuit Court asking for the injunction and return of the deed to his clients.

Denied Previously

A previous hearing in the matter was held in Circuit Court here before Judge Harris and at that time he denied the injunction pending further information and testimony in the matter.

Arguments in the case were heard by Judge Harris yesterday and he decided on the basis of the facts that Carl G. Miller and his wife were entitled to the deed. A written opinion in the case is being prepared by the court stenographer.

The executors were represented in court by E. Ray Jones, who is an attorney.

carry off this nonsense with such charm and insouciance and complete authority. He is a very fine actor indeed, and I'm happy that the television people are finally discovering it.

One of the pleasant Thurberian twists I rather like concerns Hagga, a remarkable lady who cries, not tears, but jewels. Since the Prince and the Golux are in quest of 1,000 jewels, they try to get this lady to weep some jewels for them. But neither jokes nor sad stories will move the lady. Then, quite unexpectedly, she starts telling a story of her own and gets to laughing so hard at her own joke that she spews jeweled tears all over the place.

I laughed till I very nearly split from my guggle to my zatch.

Md. Horticulture Group Elects Hagerstown Man

Voting Concludes Annual Meeting

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 5 (AP)—William C. Main of Hagerstown was elected president of the Maryland Horticultural Society today at the closing session of the society's 56th annual meeting.

Main succeeds Samuel Dillon Jr. of Hancock, who was named to the executive committee.

Other officers: Norman J. Fike of Cordova, first vice president; Russell Flanagan of Thurmont, second vice president; Albert F. Vierheller of College Park, re-elected secretary-treasurer; W. Lee Allen of Salisbury, member of the executive committee.

The society adopted resolutions calling on the Legislature to exempt insecticides and fungicides from the state sales tax, and to write into law a clear definition of water rights.

Water rights are becoming increasingly important to fruit growers because of the growing use of irrigation.

Orchardists were advised in earlier sessions to spend more time and money promoting their apples and were told they are missing a good bet by not selling tree ripened peaches.

E. W. Stillwell, president of Farm Market Relations, Inc., said the per capita consumption of citrus fruit has been on the increase for many years while the use of apples has fallen off. He said northwestern orchardists are far ahead of their eastern competitors in apple promotion and warned local growers to get behind their apples if they hope to compete on the market.

E. W. Porter and H. A. Hoecker, marketing specialists at the University of Maryland, discussed an experiment conducted last summer in selling tree-ripened peaches in the Washington area.

While the experiment was conducted on a limited basis, they said, it was highly successful and that peach growers would do well to package tree-ripened fruit and sell it direct to retailers.

The already ripened fruit, put up in cellophane packages, brings growers $1.25 a bushel more than the average price, and retailers like it too, the marketing specialists said.

Piedmont Officials Seek New Civil Defense Siren

PIEDMONT — Efforts are being made by Mayor Allan L. Hill and the City Council to secure a Civilian Defense siren to replace the present fire siren which recently broke down.

The mayor telephoned Congressman Harley Staggers about the town's situation and he suggested that they contact General Charles R. Fox, Charleston, state civilian director.

A letter was sent to General Fox by the city clerk.

Dominic Racco, a mechanic, states the siren could be repaired for a temporary period, Mayor Hill reported at the meeting of the City Council Monday evening. Racco is securing the necessary part to fix it.

The salary of the City Clerk, Ormond Ledlow, was increased from $170 to $220 a month, retroactive to January 1. This compensation to be received by Ledlow will include all services he performs for the city.

Before the increase in salary was authorized it was ordered the position of assistant city clerk be abolished. Mrs. Lillyan Cole, assistant city clerk, resigned effective December 31, after 20 years of service for the city.

A communication from John R. Williams of the Johnson and Williams Consulting Engineers of Washington, D. C., was read by Mayor Hill, calling attention to the Legislative Bulletin of National Society of Professional Engineers under Dec. 10, contained an item regarding Federal assistance to communities for the preparation of plans for public works.

The letter also stated that the administration will ask Congress to revive the advance planning program of former years. Under this program the Federal Government advances funds to local communities to prepare plans and specifications for public works projects to be put under construction when the economic situation calls for it.

The program has not been in effect for several years, but indications are that such a program will be revived by Congress.

Williams concluded his letter by saying he would be glad to meet with the city officials at any time at their convenience to discuss this matter further.

Thirteen dollars and twenty-eight cents was received from the meters in the parking lot; $54.08 from other parking meters on the streets and $1.25 for parking violations. Making the total for the past week $67.61, Mayor Hill announced.

Eighty-six garbage cards for this quarter have been sold the mayor stated.

Keyser Council Plans Pool Talk

KEYSER — The regular semi-monthly meeting of Keyser City Council, opened yesterday afternoon with prayer, led by Rev. Robert L. Bridgers, pastor of Calvar Evangelical United Brethren Church, was a routine session with only a few minor matters handled in addition to the ordering of bills paid.

The council received a communication from the Keyser Recreation Board, in which that body asked the Mayor and Council to set a date for a joint meeting for discussion of swimming pool and construction work which is to be started soon. The city body decided on Monday, at 7 p. m., for the meeting. The city clerk was instructed to notify the citizens committee to make every effort to meet with the joint bodies.

A deed was received by the city whereby J. Paul Blundon transferred a triangular piece of land in the west end of Keyser, at the junction of Fort Avenue and Elk Garden Road, and bordering on E Street, to the city. Blundon made his offer to the city before and it was accepted as a gift at the last council meeting. The mayor and council went on record as again thanking the donor for the land.

Board Changes Name Of Street In Grahamtown

A resolution changing the name of Railroad Street in Grahamtown to Glenn Street, effective immediately, was passed unanimously yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Copies of the resolution were sent to all property owners along the street, to the Frostburg postmaster and to the County Roads Department. All of the owners had signed a petition requesting that the name be changed.

Grahamtown is located just below Frostburg on State Route 36. The petitioners say that Railroad Street is not suitable for the thoroughfare. It was also brought out that the C & P Railroad tracks which run nearby are no longer used as the line is not in existence.

The commissioners had only one other matter before them yesterday. Henry Ford, of Corriganville, appeared to ask if something could not be done about the nuisance of stray dogs in that community.

Ford said the animals could become rabid and this would pose a menace to the health not only of humans but of livestock in that area.

The commissioners said they realized that the stray dog problem is acute, not only in the Corriganville area, but also in other suburban sections. The law states that a property owner can destroy any unlicensed dog which comes onto his land. No definite action was taken by the board.

Davis Miner Dies Soon After Saying Health Excellent

Forty-five minutes after he declared "I never felt better in my life" a 59-year-old Davis, W. Va., miner was dead.

Ralph Dellinger was at work in Mine 36 between Thomas and Davis Monday night when he made the statement to his foreman.

Later he remarked he felt as though he had indigestion and wanted some fresh air. Dellinger walked out of the mine and soon after was found lying face down in the office.

The Davis Volunteer Fire Company was summoned and used a resuscitator. At 9 p. m. a Davis physician pronounced the miner dead.

Mr. Dellinger was born at Bond, Md., but had been a resident of Tucker County for many years.

Ceremony Planned At Piedmont High

PIEDMONT — An unscheduled burning of Christmas trees on the Piedmont High School grounds last night almost caused cancellation of plans for the annual Epiphany service arranged for 6 o'clock tonight.

Firemen from the Potomac Fire Company of Westernport and the Tri-Towns Fire Company of Piedmont managed to save about 150 of the discarded trees collected from homes in Piedmont, Westernport and Luke after others caught fire about 6 o'clock last night. The service will go on as scheduled.

There was no damage but firemen were on the scene about 30 minutes. Residents in the area expressed a belief that young boys playing in the area may have set fire to the dry evergreens. Tonight's ceremony will be sponsored by the Tri-Towns Ministerial Association.

Rev. Clyde W. Ash, president of the association, will preside over the annual service. Rev. Robert M. Campbell, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will give the history of the Epiphany, which celebrates the visit of the wise men to the infant Jesus.

Rev. E. R. Heaton, pastor of the Church of God, will read the scripture lesson, and the prayer will be given by the Rev. Andrew Agnew, pastor of Evangelical United Brethren Church, Westernport.

Rev. Robert E. Cassell, pastor of Mt. Calvary Evangelical Lutheran Church, Westernport, will lead in the singing of "Joy to the World". The benediction will be given by Rev. Byron M. Flory, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, Westernport.

The burning of the trees will be supervised by the members of the local fire companies.

Valley Students See Highlanders

LONACONING — "The Highlanders," dressed in authentic highland costume, presented Scottish songs and dances, Scotch bag pipes, accordion, monologs and baton twirling at the Valley High School assembly program Tuesday afternoon.

The Scotch trio presented the musical variety program and dances of the famous Highlanders, including their native sword dance, and impersonations of Harry Lauder in songs and stories.

Memorial Gets High Rating In Cancer Cases

Memorial Hospital has been rated in a national survey as a top hospital for diagnosis and treatment of cancer.

In the latest issue of Woman's Home Companion, Memorial was chosen as one of the six best hospitals in Maryland for cancer detection and treatment.

The other five are located in Baltimore. They are Johns Hopkins, Provident, Sinai, South Baltimore General and University hospitals.

One Of 232

Memorial is one of the 232 selected out of 7,000 hospitals in the United States for this honor in the public survey conducted by the magazine and Albert Q. Maisel, author of "How You Can Double Your Chances Against Cancer," which appears in the current issue.

Many of the 7,000 hospitals in the country lack the radium, X-ray, diagnostic and therapeutic equipment necessary for effective treatment, the magazine points out.

Many lack the highly trained and broadly experienced personnel who are even more important in fighting cancer, the article states.

Each of the 232 hospitals selected as four-star, or the best, for cancer work, met the following tests, the author reports: It meets the American College of Surgeons' standards for cancer clinics; it maintains a program of graduate training in surgery approved by the American College of Surgeons; it is approved by the American Medical Association for the training of interns and it is approved for residencies or fellowships by the American Medical Association.

Offers Better Chance

The magazine further states, however,

"We do not suggest that other hospitals not listed here are bad or inadequate. But we do say that the hospitals listed here meet the four key professton tests.

"This list does not guarantee perfect treatment for every cancer patient. It does not mean that you cannot get good care from non-listed hospitals or doctors associated with other institutions. It does offer you a way of doubling your chances against cancer by turning to these."

Veterans GI Bill Deadline Is Nearing

The spring school terms, starting early this year, mark the last enrollment opportunity under the Korean GI Bill for hundreds of area post-Korea veterans, the Veterans Administration announces.

The reason, W. L. Limburg, manager of the Baltimore regional office, explained is that the law's cut-off date of August 20, 1954, (eight months away) applies to Korean veterans separated from service before August 20, 1952. If they want GI training, they must begin by the 1954 deadline in order to continue afterwards.

The deadline, however, comes before next fall's school term gets underway. Therefore, except for the summer session, the school term starting early in 1954 will offer many veterans their last opportunity to get started under the Korean GI Bill.

Veterans who left service after August 20, 1952, need not concern themselves with the forthcoming 1954 cut-off date, Limburg said. Instead, they have two years from the date of their separation in which to begin GI training.

Under the law, a veteran actually must "enroll in and begin" training before his deadline, if he wants to go on with it afterwards. The mere filing of an application beforehand, with the intention of starting afterwards, is not enough, Limburg pointed out.

Generally, the veteran will be expected to be in the classroom or at the training bench on his deadline date. But so long as he started in time, he may be permitted to interrupt his course because of the summer vacation, or for other reasons beyond his control, or for any circumstances that VA deems to be excusable.

Limburg emphasized that these cut-off-date rules apply only to veterans training under the Korean GI Bill. They do not pertain to those enrolled under the original World War II GI Bill.

Father, Son Will Be Primary Candidates

A father and son combination filed for Republican nominations for the June primaries, according to William A. Wilson, chairman of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors.

George F. S. Jeffrey, 69-year-old resident of Detmold, filed his papers for nomination to the Republican State Central Committee.

County Bar Association Meets January 14

The annual meeting of the Allegany County Bar Association will be held Thursday, January 14, at 9:15 a. m. in the law library in the Court House, according to Simon F. Reilly, president.

Election of officers will be one of the items on the agenda.

Aid For Section Is Sought By Senator Beall

Senator J. Glenn Beall has announced that he has requested the Secretary of Defense to give every consideration to Cumberland in implementing President Eisenhower's policy of placing defense contracts in areas where there is unemployment.

President Eisenhower has given his personal endorsement to placement of defense contracts in areas having a labor surplus and where local industries are in need of contracts in order to maintain the economic welfare of the community.

Senator Beall pointed out to Secretary Charles E. Wilson that Cumberland has long been designated as a "critical area," and that recent statements that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is compelled to furlough some employes will have an adverse effect on Cumberland's economic situation.

"President Eisenhower and his Administration have demonstrated their sincere interest in the economic prosperity of the nation," Senator Beall stated, "and by giving preference to such areas as Cumberland in awarding defense contracts, our industries and workers are assured that the Administration will do everything possible to assist them.

Incentives Offered

"In addition, the President's statement gives encouragement to new industries to locate in such economically depressed areas by offering incentives such as a faster rate of tax write-off on their capital investment, and by making 'set-asides' in procuring defense equipment. Under the 'set-asides' method, the purchasing agency obtains part of a purchase on a competitive basis from the lowest bidder but sets aside part of the appropriation in order to purchase the remainder from firms in labor surplus areas.

"The firm in such an area must supply the item at the same price as that of the low bidder," Senator Beall explained.

Senator Beall also stated that Cumberland should consider every means of obtaining defense work and suggested that the Industrial Promotion Division of the Chamber of Commerce look into the possibilities of obtaining contracts for maintaining and warehousing machine tools and production equipment which are being held in readiness for all-out mobilization.

Warehousing Possible

"The Office of Defense Mobilization," Senator Beall said, "has the responsibility for maintaining our production facilities so that in case of war they could be instantly mobilized. This means that machine tools and production equipment which are stored must be maintained and serviced. Cumberland has suitable facilities and the skilled mechanics and labor to do the work.

"In cases where it is feasible, the Office of Defense Mobilization will favor such areas as Cumberland. We are located on a main line railroad which means that any machinery stored here could be sent out in case of war to such cities as Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Youngstown, Akron, Cincinnati, Baltimore, etc., without any delay."

In his letter to Secretary Wilson, Senator Beall requested the Defense Department "to seriously consider any bids received from firms in the Cumberland area for the Department of Defense to exert every effort to establish full employment again in that community."

The Senator stated that "as always I am ready to cooperate with the Chamber of Commerce and business leaders in any endeavor to bring new industries to Cumberland or to assist in obtaining defense work."

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

From His Guggle To His Zatch

James Thurber's "Thirteen Clocks" is a fairy story—well, sort of a parody on all fairy stories—that came out in 1950 just in time for the Christmas trade. It's a handsome little book (Simon & Schuster) with large print and amusing colored drawings and, I guess, you can still find it in the bookstores.

John Crosby

It's an odd, very readable book which alternates between pure Thurber (which is to say, very good stuff) and malarkey (which is to say, not so very good stuff). To my knowledge it's been twice on television—the first time on Faye Emerson's "Wonderful Town" as a ballet with Miss Emerson narrating off camera, the second time as a musical just last week on Motorola TV Hour (ABC-TV 9:30 p. m. EST Tuesdays).

The Motorola "Thirteen Clocks" was entirely enchanting in just about every way a show can be. It was—to start out with—an eye-filling production full of medieval, fairy-story wonder — moats and dungeons and keeps and thick forests. The cast was just short of sensational. The adaptation by John Grilly and Fred Sadoff wrung the best of the humor and charm and shrewdness out of the book and very skillfully avoided the pedestrian passages. The music by Mark Bucci (with lyrics by Bucci and Thurber) is not anything I've been humming ever since, but it was very pretty and appropriate. In short, this production is much too good to be lost on a single showing and I devoutly hope they'll do the whole thing all over again some day, possibly on color television.

"The Thirteen Clocks" is set in a fairly conventional fairy story framework but one with a wicked glint of humor in its eye. There is a villainous Duke played with almost too much vehemence by Basil Rathbone. "We all have our faults," says the Duke, "and mine is wickedness."

There is Princess Saralinda whose "eyes are candles burning in a shrine," whose "fingers bloom upon her breast like flowers." (Roberta Peters, who played Saralinda, didn't quite come up to Mr. Thurber's specifications but she was very photogenic, indeed). In order to keep Saralinda for himself, the Duke sets her suitors impossible tasks. They are required, for example, to slay the Thorny Boar of Bornythorn—but there is no Thorny Boar of Bornythorn which, as someone points out, makes it hard. When the suitors fail, the Duke slits them from their guggle to their zatch and feeds them to his geese.

Well, sir, a handsome prince (disguised as a minstrel, of course, and very well played by John Raitt) shows up to claim the Princess' hand, which is the only warm hand in the castle. He is assisted in his impossible tasks by a Golux who may require some explanation. The Golux, the only one in the world, is the son of a witch who had hoped to grow up and do a lot of good all his days.

As played by Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the Golux was a pure delight. Offhand, I can't think of anyone except Sir Cedric who could

MAKING HIM HELP YOU

CERTAIN ruses can be used successfully against a top-drawer card-reader which would be useless against the average player. If you are an advanced reader yourself, you can sometimes tell just what another player like you will infer if you make a particular lead or play. In some situations you can thereby hoodwink him into thinking the lineup is entirely different from the fact and thereby lure him into helping him wreak his own downfall.

West knew South as favoring original No Trumps only with a 4-3-3-3 distribution, with all suits surely stopped. So, when he saw the dummy, after leading the club K, he could read everybody's hand, including South's four aces. South took the spade 10 lead to the second trick with the A and, to avoid giving West the lead, finessed the heart 10 to the Q. The spade 3 came back to the A, whereupon, with quick thinking, West decided to underplay the Q.

South then did just what West wished, read him as having held five clubs, one spade and seven red cards. To get a count of the red ones, South scored the heart K, diamond K, diamond A, heart A and heart J. West, following on three hearts and discarding the club 5 on the fourth, made South count him for four diamonds, with East out of the suit. That lured South into taking the "marked" finesse of the diamond 10. When it lost to the J, East set him two with the spade K, J and 9.

Except for West's spade Q underplay South would have counted him for probably two spades and three each in the red suits. He then would have used the Q on the third diamond trick, felling the J, and the 10 would have been the game trick.

Would you have fallen for West's ruse? If not, why not?

If East opens with a shaded club bid and West later doubles 3-Diamonds, leading clubs three times, how should South play?

Md. Horticulture Group Elects Hagerstown Man

Voting Concludes Annual Meeting

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 5 (AP)—William C. Main of Hagerstown was elected president of the Maryland Horticultural Society today at the closing session of the society's 56th annual meeting.

Main succeeds Samuel Dillon Jr. of Hancock, who was named to the executive committee.

Other officers: Norman J. Fike of Cordova, first vice president; Russell Flanagan of Thurmont, second vice president; Albert F. Vierheller of College Park, re-elected secretary-treasurer; W. Lee Allen of Salisbury, member of the executive committee.

The society adopted resolutions calling on the Legislature to exempt insecticides and fungicides from the state sales tax, and to write into law a clear definition of water rights.

Water rights are becoming increasingly important to fruit growers because of the growing use of irrigation.

Orchardists were advised in earlier sessions to spend more time and money promoting their apples and were told they are missing a good bet by not selling tree ripened peaches.

E. W. Stillwell, president of Farm Market Relations, Inc., said the per capita consumption of citrus fruit has been on the increase for many years while the use of apples has fallen off. He said northwestern orchardists are far ahead of their eastern competitors in apple promotion and warned local growers to get behind their apples if they hope to compete on the market.

E. W. Porter and H. A. Hoecker, marketing specialists at the University of Maryland, discussed an experiment conducted last summer in selling tree-ripened peaches in the Washington area.

While the experiment was conducted on a limited basis, they said, it was highly successful and that peach growers would do well to package tree-ripened fruit and sell it direct to retailers.

The already ripened fruit, put up in cellophane packages, brings growers $1.25 a bushel more than the average price, and retailers like it too, the marketing specialists said.

Piedmont Officials Seek New Civil Defense Siren

PIEDMONT — Efforts are being made by Mayor Allan L. Hill and the City Council to secure a Civilian Defense siren to replace the present fire siren which recently broke down.

The mayor telephoned Congressman Harley Staggers about the town's situation and he suggested that they contact General Charles R. Fox, Charleston, state civilian director.

A letter was sent to General Fox by the city clerk.

Dominic Racco, a mechanic, states the siren could be repaired for a temporary period, Mayor Hill reported at the meeting of the City Council Monday evening. Racco is securing the necessary part to fix it.

The salary of the City Clerk, Ormond Ledlow, was increased from $170 to $220 a month, retroactive to January 1. This compensation to be received by Ledlow will include all services he performs for the city.

Before the increase in salary was authorized it was ordered the position of assistant city clerk be abolished. Mrs. Lillyan Cole, assistant city clerk, resigned effective December 31, after 20 years of service for the city.

A communication from John R. Williams of the Johnson and Williams Consulting Engineers of Washington, D. C., was read by Mayor Hill, calling attention to the Legislative Bulletin of National Society of Professional Engineers under Dec. 10, contained an item regarding Federal assistance to communities for the preparation of plans for public works.

The letter also stated that the administration will ask Congress to revive the advance planning program of former years. Under this program the Federal Government advances funds to local communities to prepare plans and specifications for public works projects to be put under construction when the economic situation calls for it.

The program has not been in effect for several years, but indications are that such a program will be revived by Congress.

Williams concluded his letter by saying he would be glad to meet with the city officials at any time at their convenience to discuss this matter further.

Thirteen dollars and twenty-eight cents was received from the meters in the parking lot; $54.08 from other parking meters on the streets and $1.25 for parking violations. Making the total for the past week $67.61, Mayor Hill announced.

Eighty-six garbage cards for this quarter have been sold the mayor stated.

Keyser Council Plans Pool Talk

KEYSER — The regular semi-monthly meeting of Keyser City Council, opened yesterday afternoon with prayer, led by Rev. Robert L. Bridgers, pastor of Calvar Evangelical United Brethren Church, was a routine session with only a few minor matters handled in addition to the ordering of bills paid.

The council received a communication from the Keyser Recreation Board, in which that body asked the Mayor and Council to set a date for a joint meeting for discussion of swimming pool and construction work which is to be started soon. The city body decided on Monday, at 7 p. m., for the meeting. The city clerk was instructed to notify the citizens committee to make every effort to meet with the joint bodies.

A deed was received by the city whereby J. Paul Blundon transferred a triangular piece of land in the west end of Keyser, at the junction of Fort Avenue and Elk Garden Road, and bordering on E Street, to the city. Blundon made his offer to the city before and it was accepted as a gift at the last council meeting. The mayor and council went on record as again thanking the donor for the land.

Board Changes Name Of Street In Grahamtown

A resolution changing the name of Railroad Street in Grahamtown to Glenn Street, effective immediately, was passed unanimously yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Copies of the resolution were sent to all property owners along the street, to the Frostburg postmaster and to the County Roads Department. All of the owners had signed a petition requesting that the name be changed.

Grahamtown is located just below Frostburg on State Route 36. The petitioners say that Railroad Street is not suitable for the thoroughfare. It was also brought out that the C & P Railroad tracks which run nearby are no longer used as the line is not in existence.

The commissioners had only one other matter before them yesterday. Henry Ford, of Corriganville, appeared to ask if something could not be done about the nuisance of stray dogs in that community.

Ford said the animals could become rabid and this would pose a menace to the health not only of humans but of livestock in that area.

The commissioners said they realized that the stray dog problem is acute, not only in the Corriganville area, but also in other suburban sections. The law states that a property owner can destroy any unlicensed dog which comes onto his land. No definite action was taken by the board.

Davis Miner Dies Soon After Saying Health Excellent

Forty-five minutes after he declared "I never felt better in my life" a 59-year-old Davis, W. Va., miner was dead.

Ralph Dellinger was at work in Mine 36 between Thomas and Davis Monday night when he made the statement to his foreman.

Later he remarked he felt as though he had indigestion and wanted some fresh air. Dellinger walked out of the mine and soon after was found lying face down in the office.

The Davis Volunteer Fire Company was summoned and used a resuscitator. At 9 p. m. a Davis physician pronounced the miner dead.

Mr. Dellinger was born at Bond, Md., but had been a resident of Tucker County for many years.

Early Burning Of Trees Mars Epiphany Rite

Ceremony Planned At Piedmont High

PIEDMONT — An unscheduled burning of Christmas trees on the Piedmont High School grounds last night almost caused cancellation of plans for the annual Epiphany service arranged for 6 o'clock tonight.

Firemen from the Potomac Fire Company of Westernport and the Tri-Towns Fire Company of Piedmont managed to save about 150 of the discarded trees collected from homes in Piedmont, Westernport and Luke after others caught fire about 6 o'clock last night. The service will go on as scheduled.

There was no damage but firemen were on the scene about 30 minutes. Residents in the area expressed a belief that young boys playing in the area may have set fire to the dry evergreens. Tonight's ceremony will be sponsored by the Tri-Towns Ministerial Association.

Rev. Clyde W. Ash, president of the association, will preside over the annual service. Rev. Robert M. Campbell, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will give the history of the Epiphany, which celebrates the visit of the wise men to the infant Jesus.

Rev. E. R. Heaton, pastor of the Church of God, will read the scripture lesson, and the prayer will be given by the Rev. Andrew Agnew, pastor of Evangelical United Brethren Church, Westernport.

Rev. Robert E. Cassell, pastor of Mt. Calvary Evangelical Lutheran Church, Westernport, will lead in the singing of "Joy to the World". The benediction will be given by Rev. Byron M. Flory, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, Westernport.

The burning of the trees will be supervised by the members of the local fire companies.

Radio And Television

From His Guggle To His Zatch

James Thurber's "Thirteen Clocks" is a fairy story—well, sort of a parody on all fairy stories—that came out in 1950 just in time for the Christmas trade. It's a handsome little book (Simon & Schuster) with large print and amusing colored drawings and, I guess, you can still find it in the bookstores.

John Crosby

It's an odd, very readable book which alternates between pure Thurber (which is to say, very good stuff) and malarkey (which is to say, not so very good stuff). To my knowledge it's been twice on television—the first time on Faye Emerson's "Wonderful Town" as a ballet with Miss Emerson narrating off camera, the second time as a musical just last week on Motorola TV Hour (ABC-TV 9:30 p. m. EST Tuesdays).

The Motorola "Thirteen Clocks" was entirely enchanting in just about every way a show can be. It was—to start out with—an eye-filling production full of medieval, fairy-story wonder — moats and dungeons and keeps and thick forests. The cast was just short of sensational. The adaptation by John Grilly and Fred Sadoff wrung the best of the humor and charm and shrewdness out of the book and very skillfully avoided the pedestrian passages. The music by Mark Bucci (with lyrics by Bucci and Thurber) is not anything I've been humming ever since, but it was very pretty and appropriate. In short, this production is much too good to be lost on a single showing and I devoutly hope they'll do the whole thing all over again some day, possibly on color television.

"The Thirteen Clocks" is set in a fairly conventional fairy story framework but one with a wicked glint of humor in its eye. There is a villainous Duke played with almost too much vehemence by Basil Rathbone. "We all have our faults," says the Duke, "and mine is wickedness."

There is Princess Saralinda whose "eyes are candles burning in a shrine," whose "fingers bloom upon her breast like flowers." (Roberta Peters, who played Saralinda, didn't quite come up to Mr. Thurber's specifications but she was very photogenic, indeed). In order to keep Saralinda for himself, the Duke sets her suitors impossible tasks. They are required, for example, to slay the Thorny Boar of Bornythorn—but there is no Thorny Boar of Bornythorn which, as someone points out, makes it hard. When the suitors fail, the Duke slits them from their guggle to their zatch and feeds them to his geese.

Well, sir, a handsome prince (disguised as a minstrel, of course, and very well played by John Raitt) shows up to claim the Princess' hand, which is the only warm hand in the castle. He is assisted in his impossible tasks by a Golux who may require some explanation. The Golux, the only one in the world, is the son of a witch who had hoped to grow up and do a lot of good all his days.

As played by Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the Golux was a pure delight. Offhand, I can't think of anyone except Sir Cedric who could

MAKING HIM HELP YOU

CERTAIN ruses can be used successfully against a top-drawer card-reader which would be useless against the average player. If you are an advanced reader yourself, you can sometimes tell just what another player like you will infer if you make a particular lead or play. In some situations you can thereby hoodwink him into thinking the lineup is entirely different from the fact and thereby lure him into helping him wreak his own downfall.

	♠ 10 7 2 ♥ K 10 ♦ K Q 10 4 ♣ 9 6 4 3
♠ Q 4 ♥ 9 7 5 ♦ 8 6 3 ♣ K Q J 10 5	N W E S	♠ K J 9 6 3 ♥ Q 8 6 3 ♦ J 9 2 ♣ 8

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

West knew South as favoring original No Trumps only with a 4-3-3-3 distribution, with all suits surely stopped. So, when he saw the dummy, after leading the club K, he could read everybody's hand, including South's four aces. South took the spade 10 lead to the second trick with the A and, to avoid giving West the lead, finessed the heart 10 to the Q. The spade 3 came back to the A, whereupon, with quick thinking, West decided to underplay the Q.

South then did just what West wished, read him as having held five clubs, one spade and seven red cards. To get a count of the red ones, South scored the heart K, diamond K, diamond A, heart A and heart J. West, following on three hearts and discarding the club 5 on the fourth, made South count him for four diamonds, with East out of the suit. That lured South into taking the "marked" finesse of the diamond 10. When it lost to the J, East set him two with the spade K, J and 9.

Except for West's spade Q underplay South would have counted him for probably two spades and three each in the red suits. He then would have used the Q on the third diamond trick, felling the J, and the 10 would have been the game trick.

Would you have fallen for West's ruse? If not, why not?

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ K 6 5 2 ♥ 7 4 3 ♦ 5 4 ♣ 9 6 4 2
♠ Q J 3 ♥ 9 6 2 ♦ Q 10 8 7 ♣ Q J 3	N W E S	♠ 10 9 8 7 ♥ Q J 10 8 ♦ 3 ♣ A K 10 8
	♠ A 4 ♥ A K 5 ♦ A K J 9 6 2 ♣ 7 5

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

DOWN GO OUR PRICES!
Do you know the difference between our prices and what others ask? Compare and you will find that it amounts to about one months wages and sometimes much more.

HOW CAN WE DO IT?
We pay no rent, have only one salesman, which adds up to very low expenses. No high pressure selling here. You look around, pick out the one you like, try it and buy it yourself. Super Market style. Remember, every car has the price marked on the windshield. We'll give a good trade allowance on your present car. Our cars are GUARANTEED. Ask us about it, it's different. Bank terms.

MAKE THIS A PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR
New selling plan on proven money making product, plus new products has made this one of the greatest opportunities in the selling field.
Our equipment is fully covered by patents and is non-competitive. There is nowhere else in the entire State that people can purchase anything like what we have to offer them. They must buy from us.
Over 20 years ago our equipment was developed and sold only for professional use. In 1949 we made our equipment available to the public for use in homes, schools, athletic organizations, offices and automobiles. This created a new industry. Public acceptance justified our change and sales jumped from $100,000 in 1949 to $5,000,000 in 1952. This year sales are expected to exceed $10,000,000.
$250,000 spent last two months on National Advertising has thousands of people waiting for some one to call on them. Well known National News Commentator also creating a large demand for our products. Everyone can use our products. Salesmen are selling 1 out of 2 demonstrations; earning not less than $20.00 per sale.

Miner Injured In Rock Fall

A 57-year-old Eckhart miner remained in serious condition last night as the result of rockfall which occurred Saturday as he and a fellow-worker were preparing to leave a pit one mile east of Clarysville off Route 40.

James Laber, of Washington Hollow, was admitted to Miners Hospital with a spine fracture, two broken ankles and considerable shock.

Laber, along with Elmer Pifer, had completed work at 3:30 p. m. and were getting ready to leave the Stanton mine of the Mt. Pleasant Coal Company.

While at work Laber, a foreman, tested the roof and turned to start picking up his tools to put them away before leaving the mine.

Pifer said Laber was standing in an upright position when a piece of rock from the ceiling dropped directly on him. The stone, approximately four-by-six-feet and six inches thick, brushed against Pifer.

Laber was loaded on a coal car which Pifer drove to the mouth of the pit more than 3,000 feet away. Then Laber was rushed to the hospital.

Salvation Army Holds Services At Infirmary

The Salvation Army conducted special services Sunday at the Allegany County Home and Infirmary and at Sylvan Retreat, according to Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, commander.

Members of the corps also distributed some 200 Christmas treats to the patients at the institutions.

Lt. John Ray, of the South Cumberland Corps, sang and played on his portable organ during the services.

Regular activities at both the Citadel and in South Cumberland will resume this week.

Even Children

of Dimes campaign in a liberal way. However, compared with a national average, giving in this county is extremely low.

County Quota Raised

This is attributed to the fact that no greatly concerted effort was ever waged. In the past 10 years, an average of $8,000 a year has been contributed. Last year, the county contributed only $6,416. This year, a minimum of $12,000 is needed, although the national quota assigned to the county is much higher than that figure.

The Allegany County League has a record of 32 active polio patients, some of whom were stricken years ago and still need care, assistance and attention. In the past 10 years there have been only 15 cases in the county. Last year there was only one.

This case, Joyce Winters of Midland, is still under medical care, but she is making excellent headway.

League Carries Burden

At the Allegany County League for Crippled Children with which the Allegany County Infantile Paralysis League is associated, officials explain that only a small percentage of the League's funds come from the March of Dimes.

Based upon past experience, the March of Dimes drive here would not support the League's broad program for longer than a month or two in any year. For this reason, and because more funds are needed nationally for research and vaccine, it is imperative that more people in the county contribute this year, League officials explain.

No one knows when, or where, or how violently polio will strike. It is essential that the community be ready if and when it does. "We owe it to ourselves and our children," campaign workers agree.

Two Area Men Seek Liquor Control Offices

Charles D. McLane, Brunswick, and George H. DeWitt, of Accident, have been named as two of 16 applicants for appointment as alcoholic beverages enforcement officers.

This was announced by Commissioner of Personnel Russell Davis from Baltimore and the applicants' names were sent to the office of State Comptroller Millard Tawes. The comptroller will select six from the list to fill the new jobs. They will join a small force especially designated to enforce the Maryland liquor laws.

Frostburg GOP Women To Meet

FROSTBURG — The Women's Republican Club of Frostburg will hold its monthly meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the American Legion Home. Miss Katherine Close will preside.

J. Glenn Beall Jr., president of the State Young Republican Club, will be the principal speaker. Beall will discuss "Sidelights of Campaigning." He will be introduced by Mrs. Robert Elderdice, a member of the program committee.

Miss Patricia Engle will be soloist. She will be accompanied at the piano by Richard Rephann.

Miss Close will present a "get out the vote project" to be undertaken by workers in each voting precinct.

Mrs. Haines Takes Teaching Position

Mrs. W. Ardell Haines of Woodlawn, LaVale has been appointed temporary home economics teacher at Allegany High School, according to Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer.

Mrs. Haines will supervise study at the practice house which is designed to give girls some experience in homemaking. She has been teaching adult sewing classes at Beall High School in Frostburg and at Cresaptown Junior High School.

The new temporary teacher succeeds Mrs. Howard A. Buchanan, who resigned effective with the end of the calendar year.

Duke Bible Class Board Meets Thursday

The Executive Board of Duke Memorial Bible Class will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Central YMCA.

The nominating committee will meet at the same time to prepare a slate of officers for the annual election to be held January 15 at 7:30 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Prayer Meeting Tonight

A prayer meeting and study of the Book of John will be held tonight at 7:30 at Bowman's Addition Baptist Chapel, James D. Hall, student pastor, announced yesterday.

Market Reaches Recovery Peaks Of Early December

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Stock Market today pushed back up to the levels of the recovery peaks of early December.

It was the second straight advance since the market shook off the pressures of tax selling that disrupted late December markets. In some cases gains went to around 2 points, and many leading issues added major fractions to around a point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 70 cents today and $1.00 yesterday. It now stands at $109.80, only 20 cents away from the early December peak reached in the big recovery drive from the mid-September low of 1953. The market dipped in the closing weeks of September under the combined pressures of less optimistic business forecasts for 1954 and tax selling to take advantage of the new lower 1954 tax rates.

The advance of 70 cents in the 60-stock average today was accomplished with a rise of $1.00 in the industrial component, 80 cents in the railroads, and 30 cents in the utilities.

The number of gainers in the list—774—was the most since mid-October, a total that is unusually higher. There were only 174 losers. Altogether, 1,125 individual issues were traded. Another sign of buoyancy was the 26 new highs registered during the day, and the fact that for the first time in many weeks there were no new lows touched.

Do you know the difference between our prices and what others ask? Compare and you will find that it amounts to about one months wages and sometimes much more.

HOW CAN WE DO IT?
We pay no rent, have only one salesman, which adds up to very low expenses. No high pressure selling here. You look around, pick out the one you like, try it and buy it yourself. Super Market style. Remember, every car has the price marked on the windshield. We'll give a good trade allowance on your present car. Our cars are GUARANTEED. Ask us about it, it's different. Bank terms.

Belt Route Project To Start This Year

The first step in a new expressway system through Cumberland, and several Western Maryland road improvement projects, are included in $78,000,000 worth of roads which the Maryland State Roads Commission hopes to start building this year.

The 2½-mile start on the Cumberland program is on Maryland Route 51 from the southeast corner of the city to a point in the downtown area where it ultimately will connect with an elevated expressway across the city east to west, according to an Associated Press account of SRC plans for the opening of the 12-year construction and reconstruction program.

To Cost $1,500,000

The first phase, which follows the route planned by the city as the Industrial Highway, is estimated to cost $1,500,000 and will be about half dual highway.

According to the SRC's Yellow Book, the road will be a central to southeast highway, beginning on Route 51 near the city line, running with the easterly side of the B & O tracks to Montreal Avenue, thence with Montreal Avenue and Fifth Street extended to Thomas Street, thence across the B & O tracks and along the bed of the C & O canal to connect with the proposed crosstown viaduct near Wills Creek south of the Western Maryland depot.

Among the area projects planned to get underway this year are:

Plan Area Projects

The overhauling of 5.6 miles on U. S. 220 between Rawlings and McCoole in Allegany County. Curves are to be modified and the whole stretch resurfaced at a cost of about $395,000.

A similar overhauling, including widening to 24 feet, on 2.7 miles of U. S. 219 from Deep Creek Lake to Thayerville in Garrett County, at a cost of $478,000.

Reducing the grades and curves and providing an extra lane on ascending grades where U. S. 40 crosses Little Savage Mountain in

Pair Sentenced To Penitentiary At Moundsville

Two Escapees Charged With Grand Larceny

Two teenage youths who staged a daring escape December 30 from Hampshire County Jail in Romney, yesterday were sentenced to from one to 10 years each in West Virginia Penitentiary at Moundsville by Judge Harlan M. Calhoun of the 22d Judicial Circuit Court on charges of grand larceny. They pleaded guilty.

Lewis A. Savage, 17, Dover, and Douglas Brownelle, 18, Portsmouth, were indicted on two charges each this week by the Hampshire County Grand Jury. The grand larceny indictments were in connection with auto theft. They were arrested December 9 in a stolen car about a mile east of Romney.

The other indictments were on charges of jailbreak before conviction of a felony, and thus are listed as misdemeanors. Prosecuting Attorney Ralph W. Haines pointed out that jailbreak after conviction of a felony constitutes a felony. Haines added the jailbreaking charges are still pending.

Savage and Brownelle were picked up later the same night of their escape, while walking along a road in near freezing weather. They offered no resistance.

They made their escape after overpowering a deputy sheriff. Prior to their escapade, the two had attempted another break from the jail on December 20. It failed when they were unable to jimmy the cell door loose after setting fire to a mattress to create confusion.

Also sentenced yesterday was Clarence George Peer, of Wiley Ford, who pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny. Judge Calhoun placed him on probation for three years.

The 15 members of the Grand Jury finished their work about 1 p. m. yesterday and returned 12 indictments.

One of the indictments was against Donald L. Poland, of Romney, who pleaded guilty to forging checks and passing them at several Romney business establishments. He is to be sentenced today.

An indictment was also returned against Robert Cox, of near Romney, who is charged with being an accessary to forgery, in a case involving Poland. His case is pending.

Haines said other indictments include one false pretense charge, a forgery count, and several misdemeanors, some involving motor violations.

Barbers Local Has Installation

An installation of officers of Barbers Local 314 was held last night during a meeting in the Christoforo Columbo Hall, 110 North Mechanic Street.

Officers for the coming year include I. Ray Nine, president; I. C. Brant, vice president; Fred B. Driscoll, financial secretary; John L. McGeady, recording secretary; James H. Littlefield, guide, and D. L. Miller, guardian.

The finance committee will include J. L. McGeady, chairman, J. H. Littlefield and James P. Derico. Installing officer was John C. Liakos.

After the meeting a buffet luncheon was served by the refreshment committee headed by James H. Littlefield.

Brewer Returned To State Hospital

William H. Brewer, whose sanity hearing in Allegan County Circuit Court ended in a "hung" jury last Wednesday, yesterday was returned to the Spring Grove State Hospital by Sheriff Edward R. Muir.

Last Thursday, Brewer's court-appointed attorney, Simon F. Reilly, unsuccessfully moved that Associate Judge George Henderson grant Brewer his freedom. He appealed in vain for Judge Henderson to defer a final decision on the motion so that Brewer might spend New Year's Day away from the mental institution at Catonsville. Brewer was allowed to remain in the Allegany County Jail for a full week, from Tuesday, December 29, until yesterday.

Water Shortage At Hyndman, Pa. Being Relieved

Little Wills Creek Supply Is Pumped

A larger source of water supply which will relieve the acute shortage felt in Hyndman, Pa. for the past several months is now being pumped into the community reservoirs from Little Wills Creek.

Water was being pumped from the reservoir on the Dr. John Topper farm to the community but the supply was not ample, since the pump could be used only about 45 minutes a day. And due to the scarcity the Topper reservoir had to be allowed to refill for the next 24 hours.

The pump and necessary water pipe had been installed on the farm in the Civil Defense Program in case of emergency. Last week officials of Hyndman received permission from Pennsylvania CD authorities to move the pump to the Little Wills Creek section, and borough workers laid the necessary water line to start operations.

The pump is capable of moving about 1,500 gallons of water per minute. Yesterday the operation was continued for about two and a half hours until snow interfered.

Officials hope to get the pump back in operation today and have the reservoirs filled by this evening. However the restrictions which have been maintained in Hyndman will not be immediately lifted.

The council divided the community into two sections, ordering the upper portion of town to use water for wash days on Mondays and Wednesdays and the lower section on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Aside from the sanitation problem in the homes of the community, Hyndman was faced with a similar problem in the school. However, the supply is again ample and the pressure in the Hyndman-Londenderry School is back to normal.

The water pressure, normally 80 pounds, had dwindled to from 4 to 12 pounds recently. Toilet facilities, wash basins and showers were practically useless according to Lloyd G. Keller, principal.

Some time ago plans were formulated to pump water from the Topper farm, but the State Health department disapproved the idea because the water lines were not capable of properly filtering the water.

Meanwhile steps have been taken to filter the water supply.

Clinics Set Today

The Health Department will hold a child hygiene clinic today at 9:15 a. m. in Westernport an ad prenatal clinic in City Hall from 9 a. m. to noon.

Snow, Sleet Hit Area In Sudden Winter Blast

Highway Travel Is Slowed Down

Old Man Winter shook white flakes of dandruff out of his hair yesterday, covering the Tri-State area with from one-half to one and a half inches of snow.

Cindering crews were still out last night on highways east and west of Cumberland, while in other sections snow was still falling lightly mixed with some sleet.

The bulk of the white stuff fell between noon and 2 p. m. in the immediate Cumberland section, and Robert R. Golden, official weather observer at Constitution Park, measured the fall here as .6 of an inch. Most of the snow had melted late last night as mercury began to climb.

City Crews Out

City Street Department crews swung into action shortly after the snow began to fall in Cumberland. Salt was spread on Baltimore Avenue, Oldtown Road, Williams Street, Valley Road and at bus stops throughout the city. Only one call was received by the department. It was from the Williams Road section, which became slick within a few minutes after snow fell.

State Roads Commission workers were still on the job last night with a truck and three men at Town Hill where about one-half inch of snow fell, and two trucks and five men on Martin's Mountain and Bedford Road where one and a half inches covered the ground.

Late yesterday afternoon, the SRC had four trucks and two pickup trucks in the Frostburg section, with 15 men cindering and salting roads. County workmen were out yesterday afternoon, but roads had been salted by last night.

Temperature in Cumberland was 28 degrees at noon and had climbed to a high of 29 by 6 p. m. Low yesterday was 18 degrees. Official high reading probably reached into the 30's late last night.

Roads Are Slippery

Maryland State Police at LaVale said highways west of Cumberland were slippery with snow falling west of Frostburg. Chains were advised for motorists traveling in that section.

Most of the snow in nearby West Virginia had melted by last night, according to State Police at Romney, where about half an inch of snow had fallen. Police said roads were clear, but were wet and dangerous in spots.

In the Bedford, Pa., area, snow made Highway 96 into Hyndman slippery, and roads west of Bedford were icy and snow-covered in spots. Several minor accidents, with nobody hurt, were reported.

City To Get First View Of Color TV

Color television is coming to Cumberland.

The first color television show in Allegany County will be presented Saturday at Marple's TV and Appliance Sales and Service, 234 North Centre Street, Saturday night.

A. Lee Marple, proprietor of the firm, has announced that the Ted Mack Amateur Show will be seen on color television beginning at 8 p. m. Saturday. There will be no charge.

The Mack show will be only the second network program presented in color by the RCA process. The first was the Rose Bowl Parade in California on New Year's Day.

Marple went to Baltimore Monday night to borrow this special color television set, only the 12th manufactured by this particular firm. He returned to Cumberland with it in the early morning hours Tuesday and now has it assembled in his show room.

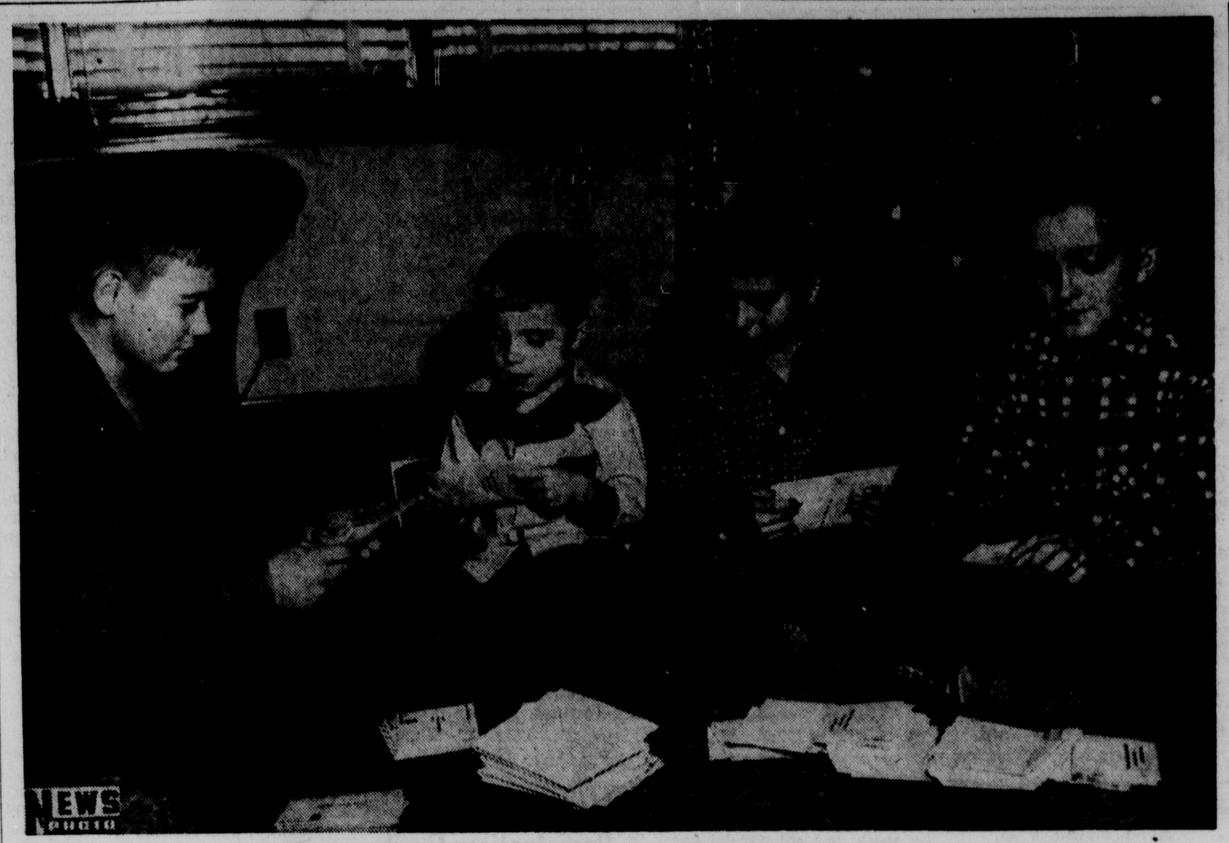
After the performance Saturday night the set will have to be taken apart and returned to Baltimore, where it will be shown to dealers several days next week.

Whereas the typical black-and-white picture television set is equipped with only 19 tubes, this new color set has 47 and is handmade. A representative from the factory told Marple that it cost $2,000 to make.

Color television is expected to be on the market by late spring and probably as many as 1,000 sets will be manufactured by the various companies during the year. Under the RCA system of color television, black-and-white picture sets also can pick up the same image but without the color.

Dentists Will Meet

The Allegany-Garrett Dental Society will meet today at 6:30 p. m. in Ali Ghan Country Club.



They Know What They're Doing

These four lads are helping the March of Dimes drive. They are stuffing envelopes with March of Dimes campaign cards, and working on the last batch of 14,000 mailed to every box holder, rural route box and householder in the Cumberland area. They know what they are doing because one of these boys, the smallest, was severely stricken with polio a couple of years ago. Left to right are William Border, Gary Border, the victim, and a third brother, Robert Border. The fourth boy is Richard Holt, neighbor and chum who also volunteered in the task. The boys reside on Vocke Road.

Area Soldier Is Named As War Victim By Army

Pfc. Paul T. Smith Is On Official List

The U. S. Army yesterday named Pfc. Paul T. Smith of Clarysville on a list of Army personnel who have been missing in action in Korea for more than one year and are presumed dead.

Father of the 25-year-old soldier, James Henry Smith of Clarysville, received a registered letter from the Army stating that no information had been received concerning Pfc. Smith and that an official finding of death had been recorded.

The finding does not establish actual or possible date of death, but as required by law, it includes a presumptive date of death for the termination of pay and allowance settlement of account payment of death gratuities.

Pfc. Smith attended Beall High School at Frostburg and enlisted in the Army for 18 months January 18, 1947. After service in New Mexico he was discharged, but the area soldier enlisted again on July 27, 1950, a day after the Korean War began.

After periodic duty at Fort Knox, Ky. and Washington State, he was sent overseas on September 20, 1950. He was reported missing in action in Korea November 2, 1950 while serving with the Eighth Cavalry.

Besides his father, he is survived by five sisters, Mrs. Hillary Brode, Frostburg; Mrs. William Murphy, in Africa; Mrs. Charles See, in Missouri; Mrs. Cedric Hardy, Cresaptown, and Miss Elsie Smith, at home, and two brothers, James Donald Smith, Mt. Savage, and Herbert Russell Smith, with the U. S. Navy.

Episcopal Leader Speaks To Rotarians

Rev. William B. Murdock, associate secretary of the Leadership Training Division of the Episcopal Church, addressed members of the Cumberland Rotary Club yesterday.

He was introduced by Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

A feature of the meeting was a five-minute conference by members at each table to determine what they wished most for their children.

The answers included "opportunity to live in a world at peace," happiness, and security.

Civic Theatre Plans Dramatic Workshop

The Cumberland Civic Theatre will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

Business will include tryouts for parts in "Detective Story" and plans for a dramatic workshop designed to give instruction in such phases of dramatics as makeup, lighting, acting, directing and staging.

Lt. Menges Is Promoted To Captain

Billy C. Menges, 539 Greene Street, has been promoted to the temporary rank of captain in the Sixth Special Infantry Company, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, Major Patsy Algieri, commanding officer, announced yesterday.

Menges, a Marine corporal during World War II, won the Bronze Star at Iwo Jima for bravery in action. He also wears the Purple Heart Medal.

A 1950 graduate of Frostburg State Teachers College, Menges had been one of the first men to join Company D, Fifth Infantry Battalion of the Marine Reserve when it was formed here.

He was a staff sergeant when he won a commission through the Reserve plan for commissioning outstanding noncommissioned officers.

Recalled to active duty with Company D shortly after the outbreak of the Korean War, Menges attended Officers Basic School at Quantico, Va., after having served as a forward observer with the 11th Marines, an artillery regiment, in Korea.

He is now employed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

Industrial Union Council To Be Revived Here

CIO officials of this area will meet in Rubber Workers Hall Friday at 7:30 p. m. to reorganize the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council.

The meeting will be in charge of Frank J. Bender, Baltimore, assistant regional CIO director, according to William G. Rice, president of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union.

New officers will be nominated and elected at the meeting.

Rice said there are indications that at least five area CIO locals will reaffiliate with the council at Friday's meeting.

The area Industrial Union Council was organized here more than a decade ago, and at one time represented brewery, hotel, rubber, textile, paper, macaroni and laundry workers locals.

Membership dropped in 1952 to two unions, Local 26, Rubber Workers, and Local 265, Brewery Workers.

The council has been inactive during the past year, but has held its charter.

Informed sources said the reorganization of the council will pave the way for an active campaign of organizing the unorganized in this area.

4 Masonic Lodges To Install Officers

Officers of four Masonic blue lodges will be installed tonight at 7:30 in ceremonies at Masonic Temple.

Arch M. Hutcheson, district deputy grand lecturer, will be in charge of the installation, assisted by Allan C. Fisher and Charles McFarland, district grand inspectors.

The host organization will be East Gate Lodge 216 with Eugene L. Fox, worshipful master, presiding. Grant Wiebel will be marshal.

Prior to the ceremonies, a dinner for newly elected officers and the installation staff will be held at 6 p. m. in Ali Ghan Country Club. At the conclusion of the business session, refreshments will be served by the members of the Order of Eastern Star in the assembly hall of the temple.

Even Children Volunteer For All-Out War On Polio

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT

People from all walks of life . . . happy that they can walk . . . are joining in the current March of Dimes campaign underway this month in Allegany County and the rest of the nation.

Among those who have volunteered their services are four Vocke Road boys who have spent several days helping stuff envelopes for mailing to householders in the area. Three of the boys are brothers, and the fourth is a neighborhood chum and companion.

The boys are interested in a successful March of Dimes campaign here because the youngest of the group, Gary Border, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Border is a polio victim.

He was stricken with infantile paralysis in October of 1949, while still a baby. Through the efforts of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, using March of Dimes Funds, Gary was hospitalized and given emergency treatment at Childrens Hospital and Sydenham Hospital, Baltimore.

Released after a long period of hospitalization on January 15 1950, Gary underwent an extended period of bed rest and physical therapy so that he could walk again. He does walk again, and until just recently wore leg braces.

Although he was then too young to remember too much about his experience, he now is old enough to realize what it means to be attacked by this crippling disease.

Wanted To Help

When one of his brothers, William, and Robert Border, who are old enough to remember, told him that Mrs. Lester McGill, next-door neighbor to the Border family, had been named county chairman of the March of Dimes Drive, Gary insisted that they should help. The three boys, along with their chum, volunteered, and Mrs. McGill put them to work.

This is just one of the many instances where people have offered their help.

Beginning this week, speakers will appear on the radio, before clubs and organizations and in schools and churches. Posters and coin boxes are being distributed. Everywhere, people are being given ample opportunity to contribute.

The Girl Scouts will take up collections in local theatres. Several organizations plan dances and other social benefit events.

More Funds Needed

This year, more money than ever before is needed in the March of Dimes Drive. The national goal is $75,000,000, of which $27,000,000 has been earmarked for a program of administering vaccine to between two and three million second graders.

Research for a preventative and for a positive cure will continue. Funds must be available for aiding victims in every city, town and hamlet of the country. Reserves must be set up in event of a serious outbreak or widespread epidemic in any area.

Allegany County, where people are known for their generous support of such worthwhile causes, has always contributed to the March

Legal Tangle Snags Hearing On Game Laws

Spotlight Reported Used By Local Men

A legal entanglement yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court was the cause of postponement of a decision in a hearing in which two Cumberland men were charged with violating a total of seven state game laws.

The two accused are Howard H. Hill and Richard D. Simmons, RD 3, Hazen Road. They are charged with having no license, spotlighting deer and hunting on Sunday, January 3. Hill is also accused of having a rabbit in his possession during a closed season.

The legal question came up when Earl E. Manges, attorney for the defendants, requested a dismissal of charges after seven warrants had been issued just before the hearing got underway.

Manges stated the two defendants were given summons charging them with "illegal hunting" at the time of arrest, then later Game Warden Joseph A. Minke, arresting officer, swore out seven other charges.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason could not find any law covering the situation and postponed decision until he can study the case.

Minke, represented by Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty, testified he had watched the defendants' car as they used spotlights to lure game, and that he had heard a shot fired. Later he stopped the auto and saw a man running away, carrying a rifle. He said he fired his pistol in the air to try and stop the running person. He added he found a rifle cartridge in the auto and presented it as evidence. He also confiscated a dead rabbit.

The two accused denied using spotlights, and said although there are two such lights on their auto they are disconnected and need repairing before they will work. They also denied the fact that a third man had run away from their auto.

As for the rabbit, they testified it had run out in front of the auto and was struck. The cartridge, Hill pointed out, probably had been placed in the auto by one of his children who "play with them all the time." The two men said they were on the Hazen Road late Sunday morning because they were returning from a card game at a neighbor's home.

Mt. Savage Widow Seeks Court Action Over House

Mrs. Mary B. Koontz, a Mt. Savage widow, yesterday filed an equity suit in Allegany County Circuit Court in which she asks the court to give her title to an 11-room house on Foundry Row in Mt. Savage.

Defendants in the suit are some 18 relatives, including brothers, sisters, nieces and nephews who reside in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Iowa.

In her bill of complaint Mrs. Koontz states that with the exception of three years, 1916, 1917 and 1918, she kept house for her father, the late Robert Graham Sr., through her entire adult life until his death December 28, 1952. Graham was one of Mt. Savage's oldest citizens at the time of his death.

Mrs. Koontz asserts that at the time her mother, Mrs. Agnes Rankin Graham, died in 1944, her father informed her that the home property was to be hers absolutely upon his death on condition that she maintain a home for him.

After Graham's death, his will was admitted to probate in Allegany County Orphans Court and by its terms she simply received a life interest in the 11-room house. All the rest of the property was left to his children equally.

She asks that the court recognize the verbal agreement between herself and her father giving her title to the property. Attorney Earl E. Manges filed the suit for Mrs. Koontz.

Cumberland Eagles To Honor Deceased Members In Memorial Service March 7

Cumberland Eagles will pay tribute to 28 deceased members when Cumberland Aerie 245 holds its annual Memorial Service Sunday, March 7, at 2 p. m. in the Eagles Home on North Mechanic Street.

C. William H. Baer, chairman, and Herman J. Miller, co-chairman, announced plans for the memorial following a committee meeting last night.

Clergymen representing three major faiths will open the service with prayer. The traditional memorial pageant will be followed by the roll call of members who have died in the past year. Special honors will be paid 16 members who died in service during World War II.

Memorial services are held each year by 1,800 Eagles aeries in the U. S. on the first Sunday in March to honor deceased members.

Those who have died in the past year are Lloyd O. Eckenridge, Paul V. White, John M. Hager, Thomas C. Robertson, William A. Schneider, Owen A. Keller, Otto S. Higgins, Thomas L. Weber, George E. Lease, Thomas E. Hobrock, Albert E. Zihlman, Frederick H. Heine, Glison T. Porter, Thomas B. Allen, Roy C. Young, a past president; John C. Deetz, John M. Powell, George W. Aman Sr., George W. Dorn, J. Lewis Hast, Walter Flender, Joseph W. Peterman, Harry L. Hensel, Albert J. Mortzfeldt, William L. Sherman, Charles E. Burkey, C. Frank Simpson, Arthur G. Hanft.

New Legislation To Affect 1954 City Elections

Votes Scheduled On June 1 And 15

Several changes will be made in plans for this spring's elections in Cumberland as a result of legislation passed by the 1953 General Assembly, according to Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk.

The first change will be in the time of the elections.

According to Chapter 524 of the new Maryland code, the Cumberland general election is to be held on the third Tuesday in June, 1954, two weeks after the primary election.

This will call for the primary election to be held on June 1, and the general election on June 15, 1954.

The last date for registration for the election will be May 11, since the law requires that the books be closed 20 days prior to the primary. The books will be reopened for registration or changes on June 22, seven days after the general election.

Take Office In July

The new Mayor and Council will take office on the first Monday of July, according to the law. However, they may not take their oaths of office until the following day this year, since July 4 falls on a Sunday, and the city could declare Monday as a city holiday.

The old law provided that the city primary be held on the first Tuesday in March, the general election on the third Tuesday. Elected officials took office on the first Monday of April.

To Serve Four Years

Two other important changes have been made affecting the Mayor and Council, one doubling the terms, and the other increasing salaries.

For a number of years, the mayor and council have served for two year terms. The 1953 General Assembly increased the time to four years.

The salary of the mayor will be $3,600 a year, as opposed to the present $1,950. The mayor is required to devote at least six hours a day to the duties of his office.

Members of the council, who now receive $1,560, will be paid $1,800 a year.

Candidates for mayor and council posts may file with the City Clerk up to Friday, May 21, at midnight. None have filed so far. The filing fee is $40 for mayoral candidates and $25 for council posts.

Candidates for mayor must be not less than 30 years old, and for council not less than 25 at the time of the general election. Both must be citizens of the United States and for five years prior to the election, citizens of the city.

More Voters Slated

City registration, now at the 14,474 mark, is expected to increase considerably during the next few months.

To be placed on the voting records, one must be a resident of the city for one year and be at least 21 by the time of the next municipal election.

The City Registration Office is located in the basement of City Hall and is open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday, except for the noon hour.

Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk, is in charge of the office. The easiest entrance to the registration rooms by Bedford Street.

K Of P Lodge 60 Has Installation

Cumberland Lodge No. 60, Knights of Pythias, installed new officers at a meeting Monday night in the Knights of Malta Hall.

Carl W. Martin was installed as chancellor commander; David W. Smith, vice chancellor; J. Walter McKee, prelate; Claude M. Twigg, master of work.

Harold E. Fishell, secretary; Robert M. Llewellyn, financial secretary; George H. Keifer, treasurer; J. Hillery Hayden, master at arms; Odith M. Brotemarkle, rank master; Hayden, custodian, and McKee, three-year trustee.

Britton O. Shaffer, Keifer, Fishell and James H. Phillips were elected representatives of the lodge at the 1954 Grand Lodge meeting September 16-18 in Hagerstown. James H. Phillips and Howard A. Frost were named alternates.

The installing officer was Julius E. Schindler, past grand chancellor, assisted by Brotemarkle as acting grand prelate, and Shaffer, grand master at arms.

Refreshments were served to the 50 members present at the ceremony.

Local Boy Hurt When Hit By Car At Intersection

Shannon Shuck, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shuck, 101 Pioneer Place, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday evening suffering a back injury after being struck by an automobile.

Attaches said the boy reportedly ran into the path of an auto driven by a Baltimore motorist at the corner of Valley Street and Henderson Avenue. Driver of the car was reported as O. McReynolds, 2103 Taylor Avenue. Police said they had no report of the mishap, which occurred about 6 p. m.

MAKE THIS A PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR

New selling plan on proven money making product, plus new products has made this one of the greatest opportunities in the selling field.

Our equipment is fully covered by patents and is non-competitive. There is nowhere else in the entire State that people can purchase anything like what we have to offer them. They must buy from us.

Over 20 years ago our equipment was developed and sold only for professional use. In 1949 we made our equipment available to the public for use in homes, schools, athletic organizations, offices and automobiles. This created a new industry. Public acceptance justified our change and sales jumped from $100,000 in 1949 to $5,000,000 in 1952. This year sales are expected to exceed $10,000,000.

$250,000 spent last two months on National Advertising has thousands of people waiting for some one to call on them. Well known National News Commentator also creating a large demand for our products. Everyone can use our products. Salesmen are selling 1 out of 2 demonstrations; earning not less than $20.00 per sale.

We want to talk to men who want to earn $10,000 per year with opportunities for advancement. We don't want men with a wishbone, but men with a Backbone that will back up their desire for large earnings by doing the things it takes to be successful. Car and Burning Desire to succeed necessary. We will give the rest. Expenses, Commission and Bonus.

Miner Injured In Rock Fall

A 57-year-old Eckhart miner remained in serious condition last night as the result of rockfall which occurred Saturday as he and a fellow-worker were preparing to leave a pit one mile east of Clarysville off Route 40.

James Laber, of Washington Hollow, was admitted to Miners Hospital with a spine fracture, two broken ankles and considerable shock.

Laber, along with Elmer Pifer, had completed work at 3:30 p. m. and were getting ready to leave the Stanton mine of the Mt. Pleasant Coal Company.

While at work Laber, a foreman, tested the roof and turned to start picking up his tools to put them away before leaving the mine.

Pifer said Laber was standing in an upright position when a piece of rock from the ceiling dropped directly on him. The stone, approximately four-by-six-feet and six inches thick, brushed against Pifer.

Laber was loaded on a coal car which Pifer drove to the mouth of the pit more than 3,000 feet away. Then Laber was rushed to the hospital.

Salvation Army Holds Services At Infirmary

The Salvation Army conducted special services Sunday at the Allegany County Home and Infirmary and at Sylvan Retreat, according to Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, commander.

Members of the corps also distributed some 200 Christmas treats to the patients at the institutions.

Lt. John Ray, of the South Cumberland Corps, sang and played on his portable organ during the services.

Regular activities at both the Citadel and in South Cumberland will resume this week.

of Dimes campaign in a liberal way. However, compared with a national average, giving in this county is extremely low.

County Quota Raised

This is attributed to the fact that no greatly concerted effort was ever waged. In the past 10 years, an average of $8,000 a year has been contributed. Last year, the county contributed only $6,416. This year, a minimum of 12,000 is needed, although the national quota assigned to the county is much higher than that figure.

The Allegany County League has a record of 32 active polio patients, some of whom were stricken years ago and still need care, assistance and attention. In the past 10 years there have been only 15 cases in the county. Last year there was only one.

This case, Joyce Winters of Midland, is still under medical care, but she is making excellent headway.

League Carries Burden

At the Allegany County League for Crippled Children with which the Allegany County Infantile Paralysis League is associated, officials explain that only a small percentage of the League's funds come from the March of Dimes.

Based upon past experience, the March of Dimes drive here would not support the League's broad program for longer than a month or two in any year. For this reason, and because more funds are needed nationally for research and vaccine, it is imperative that more people in the county contribute this year, League officials explain.

No one knows when, or where, or how violently polio will strike. It is essential that the community be ready if and when it does. "We owe it to ourselves and our children," campaign workers agree.

Two Area Men Seek Liquor Control Offices

Charles D. McLane, Brunswick, and George H. DeWitt, of Accident, have been named as two of 16 applicants for appointment as alcoholic beverages enforcement officers.

This was announced by Commissioner of Personnel Russell Davis from Baltimore and the applicants' names were sent to the office of State Comptroller Millard Tawes. The comptroller will select six from the list to fill the new jobs. They will join a small force especially designated to enforce the Maryland liquor laws.

Frostburg GOP Women To Meet

FROSTBURG — The Women's Republican Club of Frostburg will hold its monthly meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the American Legion Home. Miss Katherine Close will preside.

J. Glenn Beall Jr., president of the State Young Republican Club, will be the principal speaker. Beall will discuss "Sidelights of Campaigning." He will be introduced by Mrs. Robert Elderdice, a member of the program committee.

Miss Patricia Engle will be soloist. She will be accompanied at the piano by Richard Rephann.

Miss Close will present a "get out the vote project" to be undertaken by workers in each voting precinct.

Mrs. Haines Takes Teaching Position

Mrs. W. Ardell Haines of Woodlawn, LaVale has been appointed temporary home economics teacher at Allegany High School, according to Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer.

Mrs. Haines will supervise study at the practice house which is designed to give girls some experience in homemaking. She has been teaching adult sewing classes at Beall High School in Frostburg and at Cresaptown Junior High School.

The new temporary teacher succeeds Mrs. Howard A. Buchanan, who resigned effective with the end of the calendar year.

Market Reaches Recovery Peaks Of Early December

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Stock Market today pushed back up to the levels of the recovery peaks of early December.

It was the second straight advance since the market shook off the pressures of tax selling that disrupted late December markets. In some cases gains went to around 2 points, and many leading issues added major fractions to around a point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 70 cents today and $1.00 yesterday. It now stands at $109.80, only 20 cents away from the early December peak reached in the big recovery drive from the mid-September low of 1953. The market dipped in the closing weeks of September under the combined pressures of less optimistic business forecasts for 1954 and tax selling to take advantage of the new lower 1954 tax rates.

The advance of 70 cents in the 60-stock average today was accomplished with a rise of $1.00 in the industrial component, 80 cents in the railroads, and 30 cents in the utilities.

The number of gainers in the list—774—was the most since mid-October, a total that is unusually higher. There were only 174 losers. Altogether, 1,125 individual issues were traded. Another sign of buoyancy was the 26 new highs registered during the day, and the fact that for the first time in many weeks there were no new lows touched.

Belt Route Project To Start This Year

The first step in a new expressway system through Cumberland, and several Western Maryland road improvement projects, are included in $78,000,000 worth of roads which the Maryland State Roads Commission hopes to start building this year.

The 2½-mile start on the Cumberland program is on Maryland Route 51 from the southeast corner of the city to a point in the downtown area where it ultimately will connect with an elevated expressway across the city east to west, according to an Associated Press account of SRC plans for the opening of the 12-year construction and reconstruction program.

To Cost $1,500,000

The first phase, which follows the route planned by the city as the Industrial Highway, is estimated to cost $1,500,000 and will be about half dual highway.

According to the SRC's Yellow Book, the road will be a central to southeast highway, beginning on Route 51 near the city line, running with the easterly side of the B & O tracks to Montreal Avenue, thence with Montreal Avenue and Fifth Street extended to Thomas Street, thence across the B & O tracks and along the bed of the C & O canal to connect with the proposed crosstown viaduct near Wills Creek south of the Western Maryland depot.

Among the area projects planned to get underway this year are:

Plan Area Projects

The overhauling of 5.6 miles on U. S. 220 between Rawlings and McCoole in Allegany County. Curves are to be modified and the whole stretch resurfaced at a cost of about $395,000.

A similar overhauling, including widening to 24 feet, on 2.7 miles of U. S. 219 from Deep Creek Lake to Thayerville in Garrett County, at a cost of $478,000.

Reducing the grades and curves and providing an extra lane on ascending grades where U. S. 40 crosses Little Savage Mountain in

Pair Sentenced To Penitentiary At Moundsville

Two Escapees Charged With Grand Larceny

Two teenage youths who staged a daring escape December 30 from Hampshire County Jail in Romney, yesterday were sentenced to from one to 10 years each in West Virginia Penitentiary at Moundsville by Judge Harlan M. Calhoun of the 22d Judicial Circuit Court on charges of grand larceny. They pleaded guilty.

Lewis A. Savage, 17, Dover, and Douglas Brownelle, 18, Portsmouth, were indicted on two charges each this week by the Hampshire County Grand Jury. The grand larceny indictments were in connection with auto theft. They were arrested December 9 in a stolen car about a mile east of Romney.

The other indictments were on charges of jailbreak before conviction of a felony, and thus are listed as misdemeanors. Prosecuting Attorney Ralph W. Haines pointed out that jailbreak after conviction of a felony constitutes a felony. Haines added the jailbreaking charges are still pending.

Savage and Brownelle were picked up later the same night of their escape, while walking along a road in near freezing weather. They offered no resistance.

They made their escape after overpowering a deputy sheriff. Prior to their escapade, the two had attempted another break from the jail on December 20. It failed when they were unable to jimmy the cell door loose after setting fire to a mattress to create confusion.

Also sentenced yesterday was Clarence George Peer, of Wiley Ford, who pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny. Judge Calhoun placed him on probation for three years.

Peer was accused of stealing clothing and meat valued at about $48 from an auto near Springfield.

The 15 members of the Grand Jury finished their work about 1 p. m. yesterday and returned 12 indictments.

One of the indictments was against Donald L. Poland, of Romney, who pleaded guilty to forging checks and passing them at several Romney business establishments. He is to be sentenced today.

An indictment was also returned against Robert Cox, of near Romney, who is charged with being an accessary to forgery, in a case involving Poland. His case is pending.

Haines said other indictments include one false pretense charge, a forgery count, and several misdemeanors, some involving motor violations.

Barbers Local Has Installation

An installation of officers of Barbers Local 314 was held last night during a meeting in the Christoforo Columbo Hall, 110 North Mechanic Street.

Officers for the coming year include I. Ray Nine, president; I. C. Brant, vice president; Fred B. Driscoll, financial secretary; John L. McGeady, recording secretary; James H. Littlefield, guide, and D. L. Miller, guardian.

The finance committee will include J. L. McGeady, chairman, J. H. Littlefield and James P. Derico. Installing officer was John C. Liakos.

After the meeting a buffet luncheon was served by the refreshment committee headed by James H. Littlefield.

Brewer Returned To State Hospital

William H. Brewer, whose sanity hearing in Allegan County Circuit Court ended in a "hung" jury last Wednesday, yesterday was returned to the Spring Grove State Hospital by Sheriff Edward R. Muir.

Last Thursday, Brewer's court-appointed attorney, Simon F. Reilly, unsuccessfully moved that Associate Judge George Henderson grant Brewer his freedom. He appealed in vain for Judge Henderson to defer a final decision on the motion so that Brewer might spend New Year's Day away from the mental institution at Catonsville. Brewer was allowed to remain in the Allegany County Jail for a full week, from Tuesday, December 29, until yesterday.

Water Shortage At Hyndman, Pa. Being Relieved

Little Wills Creek Supply Is Pumped

A larger source of water supply which will relieve the acute shortage felt in Hyndman, Pa. for the past several months is now being pumped into the community reservoirs from Little Wills Creek.

Water was being pumped from the reservoir on the Dr. John Topper farm to the community but the supply was not ample, since the pump could be used only about 45 minutes a day. And due to the scarcity the Topper reservoir had to be allowed to refill for the next 24 hours.

The pump and necessary water pipe had been installed on the farm in the Civil Defense Program in case of emergency. Last week officials of Hyndman received permission from Pennsylvania CD authorities to move the pump to the Little Wills Creek section, and borough workers laid the necessary water line to start operations.

The pump is capable of moving about 1,500 gallons of water per minute. Yesterday the operation was continued for about two and a half hours until snow interfered.

Officials hope to get the pump back in operation today and have the reservoirs filled by this evening. However the restrictions which have been maintained in Hyndman will not be immediately lifted.

The council divided the community into two sections, ordering the upper portion of town to use water for wash days on Mondays and Wednesdays and the lower section on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Aside from the sanitation problem in the homes of the community, Hyndman was faced with a similar problem in the school. However, the supply is again ample and the pressure in the Hyndman-Londenderry School is back to normal.

The water pressure, normally 80 pounds, had dwindled to from 4 to 12 pounds recently. Toilet facilities, wash basins and showers were practically useless according to Lloyd G. Keller, principal.

Some time ago plans were formulated to pump water from the Topper farm, but the State Health department disapproved the idea because the water lines were not capable of properly filtering the water.

Meanwhile steps have been taken to filter the water supply.

Clinics Set Today

The Health Department will hold a child hygiene clinic today at 9:15 a. m. in Westernport an ad prenatal clinic in City Hall from 9 a. m. to noon.

Snow, Sleet Hit Area In Sudden Winter Blast

Highway Travel Is Slowed Down

Old Man Winter shook white flakes of dandruff out of his hair yesterday, covering the Tri-State area with from one-half to one and a half inches of snow.

Cindering crews were still out last night on highways east and west of Cumberland, while in other sections snow was still falling lightly mixed with some sleet.

The bulk of the white stuff fell between noon and 2 p. m. in the immediate Cumberland section, and Robert R. Golden, official weather observer at Constitution Park, measured the fall here as .6 of an inch. Most of the snow had melted late last night as mercury began to climb.

City Crews Out

City Street Department crews swung into action shortly after the snow began to fall in Cumberland. Salt was spread on Baltimore Avenue, Oldtown Road, Williams Street, Valley Road and at bus stops throughout the city. Only one call was received by the department. It was from the Williams Road section, which became slick within a few minutes after snow fell.

State Roads Commission workers were still on the job last night with a truck and three men at Town Hill where about one-half inch of snow fell, and two trucks and five men on Martin's Mountain and Bedford Road where one and a half inches covered the ground.

Late yesterday afternoon, the SRC had four trucks and two pickup trucks in the Frostburg section, with 15 men cindering and salting roads. County workmen were out yesterday afternoon, but roads had been salted by last night.

Temperature in Cumberland was 28 degrees at noon and had climbed to a high of 29 by 6 p. m. Low yesterday was 18 degrees. Official high reading probably reached into the 30's late last night.

Roads Are Slippery

Maryland State Police at LaVale said highways west of Cumberland were slippery with snow falling west of Frostburg. Chains were advised for motorists traveling in that section.

Most of the snow in nearby West Virginia had melted by last night, according to State Police at Romney, where about half an inch of snow had fallen. Police said roads were clear, but were wet and dangerous in spots.

In the Bedford, Pa., area, snow made Highway 96 into Hyndman slippery, and roads west of Bedford were icy and snow-covered in spots. Several minor accidents, with nobody hurt, were reported.

City To Get First View Of Color TV

Color television is coming to Cumberland.

The first color television show in Allegany County will be presented Saturday at Marple's TV and Appliance Sales and Service, 234 North Centre Street, Saturday night.

A. Lee Marple, proprietor of the firm, has announced that the Ted Mack Amateur Show will be seen on color television beginning at 8 p. m. Saturday. There will be no charge.

The Mack show will be only the second network program presented in color by the RCA process. The first was the Rose Bowl Parade in California on New Year's Day.

Marple went to Baltimore Monday night to borrow this special color television set, only the 12th manufactured by this particular firm. He returned to Cumberland with it in the early morning hours Tuesday and now has it assembled in his show room.

After the performance Saturday night the set will have to be taken apart and returned to Baltimore, where it will be shown to dealers several days next week.

Whereas the typical black-and-white picture television set is equipped with only 19 tubes, this new color set has 47 and is handmade. A representative from the factory told Marple that it cost $2,000 to make.

Color television is expected to be on the market by late spring and probably as many as 1,000 sets will be manufactured by the various companies during the year. Under the RCA system of color television, black-and-white picture sets also can pick up the same image but without the color.

Dentists Will Meet

The Allegany-Garrett Dental Society will meet today at 6:30 p. m. in Ali Ghan Country Club.

They Know What They're Doing

These four lads are helping the March of Dimes drive. They are stuffing envelopes with March of Dimes campaign cards, and working on the last batch of 14,000 mailed to every box holder, rural route box and householder in the Cumberland area. They know what they are doing because one of these boys, the smallest, was severely stricken with polio a couple of years ago. Left to right are William Border, Gary Border, the victim, and a third brother, Robert Border. The fourth boy is Richard Holt, neighbor and chum who also volunteered in the task. The boys reside on Vocke Road.

Area Soldier Is Named As War Victim By Army

Pfc. Paul T. Smith Is On Official List

The U. S. Army yesterday named Pfc. Paul T. Smith of Clarysville on a list of Army personnel who have been missing in action in Korea for more than one year and are presumed dead.

Father of the 25-year-old soldier, James Henry Smith of Clarysville, received a registered letter from the Army stating that no information had been received concerning Pfc. Smith and that an official finding of death had been recorded.

The finding does not establish actual or possible date of death, but as required by law, it includes a presumptive date of death for the termination of pay and allowance settlement of account payment of death gratuities.

Pfc. Smith attended Beall High School at Frostburg and enlisted in the Army for 18 months January 18, 1947. After service in New Mexico he was discharged, but the area soldier enlisted again on July 27, 1950, a day after the Korean War began.

After periodic duty at Fort Knox, Ky. and Washington State, he was sent overseas on September 20, 1950. He was reported missing in action in Korea November 2, 1950 while serving with the Eighth Cavalry.

Besides his father, he is survived by five sisters, Mrs. Hillary Brode, Frostburg; Mrs. William Murphy, in Africa; Mrs. Charles See, in Missouri; Mrs. Cedric Hardy, Cresaptown, and Miss Elsie Smith, at home, and two brothers, James Donald Smith, Mt. Savage, and Herbert Russell Smith, with the U. S. Navy.

Episcopal Leader Speaks To Rotarians

Rev. William B. Murdock, associate secretary of the Leadership Training Division of the Episcopal Church, addressed members of the Cumberland Rotary Club yesterday.

He was introduced by Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

A feature of the meeting was a five-minute conference by members at each table to determine what they wished most for their children.

The answers included "opportunity to live in a world at peace," happiness, and security.

Civic Theatre Plans Dramatic Workshop

The Cumberland Civic Theatre will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

Business will include tryouts for parts in "Detective Story" and plans for a dramatic workshop designed to give instruction in such phases of dramatics as makeup, lighting, acting, directing and staging.

Lt. Menges Is Promoted To Captain

Billy C. Menges, 539 Greene Street, has been promoted to the temporary rank of captain in the Sixth Special Infantry Company, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, Major Patsy Algieri, commanding officer, announced yesterday.

Menges, a Marine corporal during World War II, won the Bronze Star at Iwo Jima for bravery in action. He also wears the Purple Heart Medal.

A 1950 graduate of Frostburg State Teachers College, Menges had been one of the first men to join Company D, Fifth Infantry Battalion of the Marine Reserve when it was formed here.

He was a staff sergeant when he won a commission through the Reserve plan for commissioning outstanding noncommissioned officers.

Recalled to active duty with Company D shortly after the outbreak of the Korean War, Menges attended Officers Basic School at Quantico, Va., after having served as a forward observer with the 11th Marines, an artillery regiment, in Korea.

He is now employed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

Industrial Union Council To Be Revived Here

CIO officials of this area will meet in Rubber Workers Hall Friday at 7:30 p. m. to reorganize the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council.

The meeting will be in charge of Frank J. Bender, Baltimore, assistant regional CIO director, according to William G. Rice, president of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union.

New officers will be nominated and elected at the meeting.

Rice said there are indications that at least five area CIO locals will reaffiliate with the council at Friday's meeting.

The area Industrial Union Council was organized here more than a decade ago, and at one time represented brewery, hotel, rubber, textile, paper, macaroni and laundry workers locals.

Membership dropped in 1952 to two unions, Local 26, Rubber Workers, and Local 265, Brewery Workers.

The council has been inactive during the past year, but has held its charter.

Informed sources said the reorganization of the council will pave the way for an active campaign of organizing the unorganized in this area.

4 Masonic Lodges To Install Officers

Officers of four Masonic blue lodges will be installed tonight at 7:30 in ceremonies at Masonic Temple.

Arch M. Hutcheson, district deputy grand lecturer, will be in charge of the installation, assisted by Allan C. Fisher and Charles McFarland, district grand inspectors.

The host organization will be East Gate Lodge 216 with Eugene L. Fox, worshipful master, presiding. Grant Wiebel will be marshal.

Prior to the ceremonies, a dinner for newly elected officers and the installation staff will be held at 6 p. m. in Ali Ghan Country Club. At the conclusion of the business session, refreshments will be served by the members of the Order of Eastern Star in the assembly hall of the temple.

Even Children Volunteer For All-Out War On Polio

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT

People from all walks of life . . . happy that they can walk . . . are joining in the current March of Dimes campaign underway this month in Allegany County and the rest of the nation.

Among those who have volunteered their services are four Vocke Road boys who have spent several days helping stuff envelopes for mailing to householders in the area. Three of the boys are brothers, and the fourth is a neighborhood chum and companion.

The boys are interested in a successful March of Dimes campaign here because the youngest of the group, Gary Border, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Border is a polio victim.

He was stricken with infantile paralysis in October of 1949, while still a baby. Through the efforts of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, using March of Dimes Funds, Gary was hospitalized and given emergency treatment at Childrens Hospital and Sydenham Hospital, Baltimore.

Released after a long period of hospitalization on January 15 1950, Gary underwent an extended period of bed rest and physical therapy so that he could walk again. He does walk again, and until just recently wore leg braces.

Although he was then too young to remember too much about his experience, he now is old enough to realize what it means to be attacked by this crippling disease.

Wanted To Help

When one of his brothers, William, and Robert Border, who are old enough to remember, told him that Mrs. Lester McGill, next-door neighbor to the Border family, had been named county chairman of the March of Dimes Drive, Gary insisted that they should help. The three boys, along with their chum, volunteered, and Mrs. McGill put them to work.

This is just one of the many instances where people have offered their help.

Beginning this week, speakers will appear on the radio, before clubs and organizations and in schools and churches. Posters and coin boxes are being distributed. Everywhere, people are being given ample opportunity to contribute.

The Girl Scouts will take up collections in local theatres. Several organizations plan dances and other social benefit events.

More Funds Needed

This year, more money than ever before is needed in the March of Dimes Drive. The national goal is $75,000,000, of which $27,000,000 has been earmarked for a program of administering vaccine to between two and three million second graders.

Research for a preventative and for a positive cure will continue. Funds must be available for aiding victims in every city, town and hamlet of the country. Reserves must be set up in event of a serious outbreak or widespread epidemic in any area.

Allegany County, where people are known for their generous support of such worthwhile causes, has always contributed to the March

Legal Tangle Snags Hearing On Game Laws

Spotlight Reported Used By Local Men

A legal entanglement yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court was the cause of postponement of a decision in a hearing in which two Cumberland men were charged with violating a total of seven state game laws.

The two accused are Howard H. Hill and Richard D. Simmons, RD 3, Hazen Road. They are charged with having no license, spotlighting deer and hunting on Sunday, January 3. Hill is also accused of having a rabbit in his possession during a closed season.

The legal question came up when Earl E. Manges, attorney for the defendants, requested a dismissal of charges after seven warrants had been issued just before the hearing got underway.

Manges stated the two defendants were given summons charging them with "illegal hunting" at the time of arrest, then later Game Warden Joseph A. Minke, arresting officer, swore out seven other charges.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason could not find any law covering the situation and postponed decision until he can study the case.

Minke, represented by Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty, testified he had watched the defendants' car as they used spotlights to lure game, and that he had heard a shot fired. Later he stopped the auto and saw a man running away, carrying a rifle. He said he fired his pistol in the air to try and stop the running person. He added he found a rifle cartridge in the auto and presented it as evidence. He also confiscated a dead rabbit.

The two accused denied using spotlights, and said although there are two such lights on their auto they are disconnected and need repairing before they will work. They also denied the fact that a third man had run away from their auto.

As for the rabbit, they testified it had run out in front of the auto and was struck. The cartridge, Hill pointed out, probably had been placed in the auto by one of his children who "play with them all the time." The two men said they were on the Hazen Road late Sunday morning because they were returning from a card game at a neighbor's home.

Mt. Savage Widow Seeks Court Action Over House

Mrs. Mary B. Koontz, a Mt. Savage widow, yesterday filed an equity suit in Allegany County Circuit Court in which she asks the court to give her title to an 11-room house on Foundry Row in Mt. Savage.

Defendants in the suit are some 18 relatives, including brothers, sisters, nieces and nephews who reside in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Iowa.

In her bill of complaint Mrs. Koontz states that with the exception of three years, 1916, 1917 and 1918, she kept house for her father, the late Robert Graham Sr., through her entire adult life until his death December 28, 1952. Graham was one of Mt. Savage's oldest citizens at the time of his death.

Mrs. Koontz asserts that at the time her mother, Mrs. Agnes Rankin Graham, died in 1944, her father informed her that the home property was to be hers absolutely upon his death on condition that she maintain a home for him.

After Graham's death, his will was admitted to probate in Allegany County Orphans Court and by its terms she simply received a life interest in the 11-room house. All the rest of the property was left to his children equally.

She asks that the court recognize the verbal agreement between herself and her father giving her title to the property. Attorney Earl E. Manges filed the suit for Mrs. Koontz.

New Legislation To Affect 1954 City Elections

Votes Scheduled On June 1 And 15

Several changes will be made in plans for this spring's elections in Cumberland as a result of legislation passed by the 1953 General Assembly, according to Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk.

The first change will be in the time of the elections.

According to Chapter 524 of the new Maryland code, the Cumberland general election is to be held on the third Tuesday in June, 1954, two weeks after the primary election.

This will call for the primary election to be held on June 1, and the general election on June 15, 1954.

The last date for registration for the election will be May 11, since the law requires that the books be closed 20 days prior to the primary. The books will be reopened for registration or changes on June 22, seven days after the general election.

Take Office In July

The new Mayor and Council will take office on the first Monday of July, according to the law. However, they may not take their oaths of office until the following day this year, since July 4 falls on a Sunday, and the city could declare Monday as a city holiday.

The old law provided that the city primary be held on the first Tuesday in March, the general election on the third Tuesday. Elected officials took office on the first Monday of April.

To Serve Four Years

Two other important changes have been made affecting the Mayor and Council, one doubling the terms, and the other increasing salaries.

For a number of years, the mayor and council have served for two year terms. The 1953 General Assembly increased the time to four years.

The salary of the mayor will be $3,600 a year, as opposed to the present $1,950. The mayor is required to devote at least six hours a day to the duties of his office.

Members of the council, who now receive $1,560, will be paid $1,800 a year.

Candidates for mayor and council posts may file with the City Clerk up to Friday, May 21, at midnight. None have filed so far. The filing fee is $40 for mayoral candidates and $25 for council posts.

Candidates for mayor must be not less than 30 years old, and for council not less than 25 at the time of the general election. Both must be citizens of the United States and for five years prior to the election, citizens of the city.

More Voters Slated

City registration, now at the 14,474 mark, is expected to increase considerably during the next few months.

To be placed on the voting records, one must be a resident of the city for one year and be at least 21 by the time of the next municipal election.

The City Registration Office is located in the basement of City Hall and is open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday, except for the noon hour.

Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk, is in charge of the office. The easiest entrance to the registration rooms by Bedford Street.

K Of P Lodge 60 Has Installation

Cumberland Lodge No. 60, Knights of Pythias, installed new officers at a meeting Monday night in the Knights of Malta Hall.

Carl W. Martin was installed as chancellor commander; David W. Smith, vice chancellor; J. Walter McKee, prelate; Claude M. Twigg, master of work.

Harold E. Fishell, secretary; Robert M. Llewellyn, financial secretary; George H. Keifer, treasurer; J. Hillery Hayden, master at arms; Odith M. Brotemarkle, rank master; Hayden, custodian, and McKee, three-year trustee.

Britton O. Shaffer, Keifer, Fishell and James H. Phillips were elected representatives of the lodge at the 1954 Grand Lodge meeting September 16-18 in Hagerstown. James H. Phillips and Howard A. Frost were named alternates.

The installing officer was Julius E. Schindler, past grand chancellor, assisted by Brotemarkle as acting grand prelate, and Shaffer, grand master at arms.

Refreshments were served to the 50 members present at the ceremony.

Local Boy Hurt When Hit By Car At Intersection

Shannon Shuck, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shuck, 101 Pioneer Place, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday evening suffering a back injury after being struck by an automobile.

Attaches said the boy reportedly ran into the path of an auto driven by a Baltimore motorist at the corner of Valley Street and Henderson Avenue. Driver of the car was reported as O. McReynolds, 2103 Taylor Avenue. Police said they had no report of the mishap, which occurred about 6 p. m.

Cumberland Eagles To Honor Deceased Members In Memorial Service March 7

Cumberland Eagles will pay tribute to 28 deceased members when Cumberland Aerie 245 holds its annual Memorial Service Sunday, March 7, at 2 p. m. in the Eagles Home on North Mechanic Street.

C. William H. Baer, chairman, and Herman J. Miller, co-chairman, announced plans for the memorial following a committee meeting last night.

Clergymen representing three major faiths will open the service with prayer. The traditional memorial pageant will be followed by the roll call of members who have died in the past year. Special honors will be paid 16 members who died in service during World War II.

Memorial services are held each year by 1,800 Eagles aeries in the U. S. on the first Sunday in March to honor deceased members.
